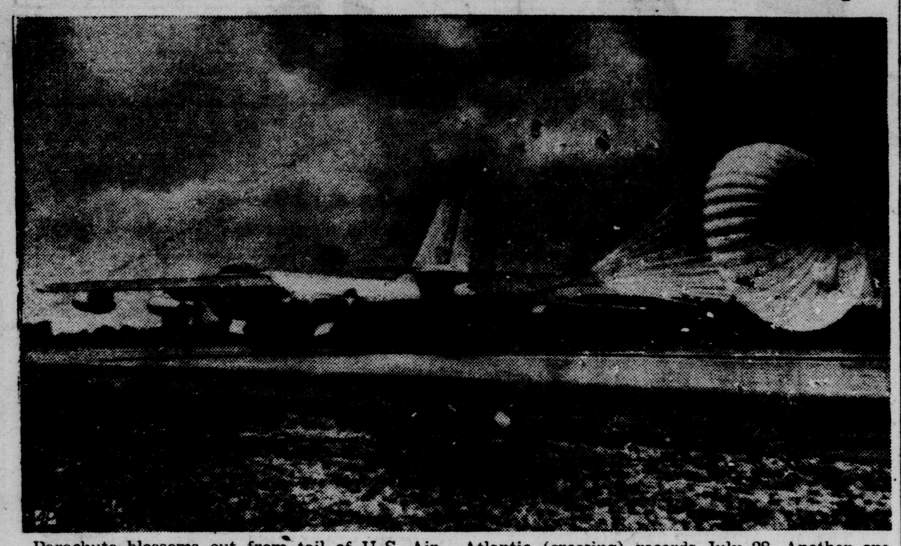
Jet Bomber at End of Record Breaking Atlantic Hop



Parachute blossoms out from tail of U. S. Air Force jet bomber to brake its landing speed as it comes in at Fairford, England, Air Force Base after record breaking flight from the Limestone, Me., Air Force Base in 4 hours and 45 minutes for the 2,925 miles. This B47 was one of the pair which broke Atlantic (crossing) records July 28. Another one, taking off from Goose Bay, Labrador, some 400 miles northeast of Limestone, crossed in 4 hours and 14 minutes. (AP Wirephoto via radio from London).

Two Armies Continue to Ruin Forts

Work of Getting Bodies Also Goes On With Both Sides Helping in Recovery

Seoul, July 29 (AP)—The withdrawal of two mighty armies from the Korean demilitarized zone continued smoothly today as the Thursday night deadline approached.

Enemies a few days ago, allied and Communist troops worked within shouting distance of each other, salvaging material and wrecking fortifications that took months, sometimes years, to build.

Although allied troops were warned by the 8th Army against fraternization with the Reds, there were reports of friendly contacts all along the war-shattered front.

Under the armistice, both sides are to have pulled back 1¼ miles each from the truce line by 10 p. m. Thursday (8 a. m. EST)—three days after the cease-fire.

Two Years to Build

"It took us two years to build this line," one American officer remarked, "now we've got to tear down in 72 hours millions of dollars of fortifications."

Allied forces were under orders to salvage all possible equipment from the intricate system of fortifications strung across the 150-mile line.

One of the toughest tasks was to remove 12-inch beams used in bunkers. All efforts were extended to salvage the lumber, scarce in this country.

The Reds' job of pulling back was less complicated.

The Reds had dug a system of defenses mostly underground. Allied officers explained the Communists only have to cave in the dirt at the entrances to make them useless.

In some places, the allies had to wreck bunkers by caving them in after material had been salvaged.

Buffer Strip Searched

Communist and allied work parties searched the buffer strip for bodies and graves. In some cases they assisted each other in locating them. Before the search is ended, it was certain that some names on the list of missing would be removed.

Bodies of six Americans and 100 Chinese were recovered at a western front outpost where one of the last battles of war was fought, said Michael Rougier, Life Magazine photographer.

Rougier said the Communists wanted the Marines to remove the Chinese bodies from bunkers and trenches on the outpost — known as Boulder City. The marines refused, Rougier said, and signaled the Reds to get them themselves.

"At first the Chinese were afraid to come over, but then one of them walked to our position. The others followed when they saw the marines pointing to the places where there were bodies," he said.

Rougier said the Chinese assisted the marines in locating American bodies.

Although American GI's and other United Nations forces were under orders to avoid the Reds, reports of contacts and in some cases exchange of foods, cigarettes and souvenirs were frequent.

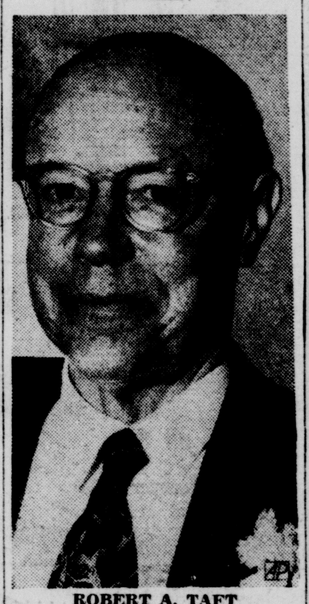
Taft Shows Some Improvement; Has Comfortable Night

Senator Requests Breakfast and Eats With Relish, Hospital Bulletin Reports



ROBERT A. TAFT

New York, July 29 (AP) — Sen. Robert A. Taft was reported "somewhat improved" today.

New York Hospital issued a bulletin in mid-morning saying the Ohio Republican had a restful night and was comfortable.

He has been in the hospital since early this month suffering from an unspecified hip ailment.

Yesterday, the hospital said Taft's condition had taken a turn for the worse.

This morning's bulletin, signed by Dr. Charles E. Forkner, read:

"Senator Taft had a more restful night. This morning at 8:30 he requested breakfast and ate it with relish. He is having no pain and his condition is somewhat improved."

Taft's family was gathering here after the previous reports that his condition had deteriorated.

'Generally Weaker'

A New York Hospital bulletin last night reported the Senate majority leader was "generally weaker" and that his condition was "unsatisfactory." A later announcement said he was "resting a little more comfortably." Taft was reported not to be suffering any pain.

The time of the hospital's next bulletin was not known. Announcements on his condition previously have been made in the forenoon.

Yesterday was the first day of serious reports on the 63-year-old Ohio Republican, who has been at the hospital for several weeks for treatment of a hip lesion.

Wife at Bedside

His wife, Martha, was brought to his bedside yesterday for her first visit to him since he entered the hospital. The day also marked the first time the hospital had issued more than one bulletin on his condition.

Besides Mrs. Taft, the senator was visited by two of their sons, Lloyd and Robert Jr., yesterday and last night.

A third son, William Howard Taft III, American ambassador to Ireland, will fly to New York tonight, the U. S. Embassy in Dublin announced today. His plane (TWA) is due in New York at 9:20 a. m. (EST) tomorrow.

A fourth son is Horace Dwight Taft.

Mrs. Taft was flown here from Washington. She suffered a stroke some time ago and now gets around only in a wheel chair.

Taft's sudden turn for the worse stirred speculation in Washington concerning changes in the national political scene if his illness should force him out of the Senate permanently.

It could mean that the Democrats, although reported reluctant to do so at present, would wind up in control of the Senate. Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio is a Democrat and would be considered likely to name a Democrat to fill the spot. This would shift a GOP majority of one to a Democratic majority of one.

Bryan Says None Substantiated by Reds—Teams to Work

Munsan, July 29 (AP)—The Communists today charged the allies with eight violations of the two-day-old Korean armistice—allegations promptly labeled by the allies as minor and lacking information.

The Reds made the charges at today's second meeting of the joint Korean Armistice Commission. They asserted three aircraft flew over the demilitarized buffer zone, and that four artillery rounds and one burst of three machinegun bullets were fired after the cease-fire became effective.

U. S. Maj. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, chief allied commissioner, disclosed after today's 1 hour, 22 minute meeting that the charges were lodged by his Communist counterpart, North Korean Lt. Gen. Lee Sang Cho. The commission recessed until 11 a. m. Thursday (9 p. m. EST, Wednesday).

"We were accused this morning," Bryan said. "These were allegations, broad and general, and nothing serious. None have been substantiated."

Asked Information

He added that he had "asked for additional information on which to base further action."

Bryan disclosed also that he had asked that the huge exchange of war prisoners begin Sunday, rather than on Aug. 5 as agreed upon yesterday, but that the Reds could not advance the date.

"I am sorely disappointed," he said.

More than 86,000 prisoners—including 3,313 Americans—are to be exchanged through Panmunjom within 60 days. About 22,000 North Koreans and Chinese refusing to return to Red rule will be brought to camps within the buffer zone and their fate decided later.

Will Start Work

Bryan said the joint truce observer teams which will police the 2½-mile-wide buffer zone across Korea's scarred waist "probably will start work tomorrow morning."

Armies of each side are withdrawing 1¼ miles on each side of the cease-fire line to create the zone. The withdrawal must be completed by 10 p. m. Thursday (8 a. m. EST).

Reports from the front indicated the withdrawal was proceeding smoothly. Great allied military caravans churned up dust from the front to rear areas carrying troops, equipment and supplies.

Hearing Adjourned

New York, July 29 (AP)—A Felony Court hearing for a platinum blonde model and a pretzel maker accused of extortion from shipping heir Edgar F. Luckenbach, Jr., was adjourned today to Sept. 21 after the prosecution asked more time to investigate. The defendants are Virginia Di Domenico, 21, of Manhattan, and Daniel Enoch, 31, of 147-28 9th avenue, Jamaica, Queens. Police said the woman telephoned Luckenbach on July 13, told him he had given her two fake checks for $300 each, and demanded that he make payment in cash.

Polish Flier Will Become U. S. Citizen

Washington, July 29 (AP)—A youthful Polish flier who escaped from his homeland last March in a Russian-built jet plane received today the right to become an American citizen.

Lt. Franciszek Jarecki looked on with sparkling eyes as President Eisenhower signed the bill that gives him haven in this country.

"There you are," Eisenhower said with a big smile. "Now you are legally here."

The 22-year-old refugee, dressed in a dark blue suit, said he feels that "I am the symbol of the Polish people in their fight for freedom."

Gasoline Prices Not Expected to Take Drop in Area

Syracuse Situation Said to Be Local One Forced by Sales of Cheaper Fuel

A gasoline "price war" in Syracuse is strictly peculiar to that city and is not expected to affect the local price situation, a spot check of bulk distributors and service station operators in the Kingston area disclosed today.

The Freeman made the check after receiving an Associated Press dispatch from Syracuse which stated that nine major oil companies had reduced wholesale gasoline prices in that area by two cents a gallon with retail prices dropping as much as four cents a gallon.

Prices in the Syracuse area were reported to range from 25 to 28 cents for regular grades following the cut.

Called Local Situation

"It's a local situation peculiar to Syracuse," Amos R. Newcombe, vice-president and treasurer of the Austin R. Newcombe and Co., Inc., which handles Atlantic Refining Products, told The Freeman.

He pointed out that the Syracuse situation had "no necessary connection with Kingston," describing it as a price war.

L. V. Bogert, who handles Cities Service products, said the Syracuse price cuts were "strictly local," that Syracuse had always offered a "rough situation."

He explained that the situation in Syracuse was induced by a group of independent oil companies in the area which bought a crude grade of gasoline and sold it cheap.

"They buy cheap and sell cheap and still make a profit."

Price Drop Forced

Bogert pointed out that this pressure from the independent companies had forced the major oil companies to cut their prices, explaining that people who buy gas don't buy for brand so much as for price, not aware that their mileage is cut by using the cheaper quality.

"Joe Blow just buys price," Bogart stated. He explained that the cheaper grades didn't have the same octane ratings as those carried by the major companies.

A spot check of local filling station operators indicated they had no information from their bulk distributors that any price changes were contemplated.

The consensus was that no changes were to be expected.

Local Prices Uniform

Gasoline prices in Kingston are fairly uniform at approximately 28 cents for regular grades and 30 cents for high grades, although there appeared to be a fraction of a cent range from about 27.9

Card Taken Away From East Zoners

Officials Estimate Huge Number of Packages to Be Given; Trucks Are Slowed

Berlin, July 29 (AP)—Communist police arrested scores of East Germans who accepted gifts of western food today but they failed to check the hungry throngs surging through the Iron Curtain.

Those arrested were released a short time later. Their food was not confiscated but in many cases identity cards—vital in the east zone—were taken away.

The biggest crowds yet jammed West Berlin's food relief centers on the third day of the big American-financed relief program which has put the spotlight on food shortages in the restive Soviet occupation zone.

The Communists also harrassed but did not halt the movement of food to West Berlin by truck. Other food arrived by plane.

Officials estimated 150,000 food packages would be given away today in addition to the 250,000 already handed out in the first two days.

Arrests, Threats Featured

Communist police began a campaign of arrests and threats to sabotage the program by scaring the East Germans away.

They arrested scores who returned to East Berlin laden with food. Thirty arrests were reported at one border crossing point alone.

The first truckload of American food crossed the Soviet zone and finally reached West Berlin after Communist border guards delayed it at both ends of the isolated city's highway link to the west.

The truck brought 20 tons of food from the U. S. freighter American Inventor. It entered the American sector of West Berlin 20 minutes after German truck drivers had reported Communist police were unloading it and apparently confiscating its contents.

The truck had been halted first—for two and a half hours—at the Soviet zone border 100 miles west of Berlin. After a thorough check by the Communist guards, it was permitted to pass.

Second Delay Occurs

Its second delay for checking occurred at Babelsberg, just outside the western sectors, where all vehicles coming through the Soviet zone are examined before they are permitted into West Berlin.

The food was the first delivery of a 15-million-dollar stock being sent by the United States to replenish West Berlin's emergency food stocks now being depleted by free distributions to the hungry East Germans.

In West Berlin, meanwhile, the biggest crowds yet thronged across the Iron Curtain border for the third day of the distribution of free food parcels. They came despite an implied Communist threat that those getting the food faced arrest as spies.

Names Are Broadcast

The Soviet zone radio began broadcasting hourly names and addresses of East German food recipients. It charged they were being recruited as future agents by western espionage experts.

Eyewitnesses reported that two East German women with western food were arrested by Communist police at a railway station in the Soviet sector. They also said some Communist police border detachments in the city have been strengthened, possibly looking towards wholesale confiscation of the free food.

As yet, however, there was no confirmation that Red authorities had ordered even a start on any sweeping campaign of arrest or seizure.

From the other side of the Iron Curtain, meanwhile, reports filtered through of a vast widening in the purge of the rebellion-beset Communist party.

The West Berlin Socialist newspaper, Telegram, reported that 200 special commissions had been

Party Spokesmen on Both Sides Against Last Minute Request

Washington, July 29 (AP)—Key Democrats said today President Eisenhower will be inviting a major defeat if he proposes an increase in the 275 billion dollar debt limit in this session of Congress.

Sens. George (D.-Ga.) and Byrd (D.-Va.) joined Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas in predicting the Senate will reject any increase at this time.

And Sen. Williams (R.-Del.) said in a separate interview that unless the administration can produce a lot of facts he doesn't now know, he will oppose lifting the statutory ceilings.

Sees Senate Stall

"I don't believe the administration can get any such proposal through the Senate," Williams said.

Other senators said they are certain Williams would not be the only Republican found in the opposition ranks on a rollcall.

Chairman Millikin (R.-Colo.) of the Finance Committee said the administration's plan is to wait until the Senate and House have agreed, at least tentatively, on all of the money bills and then decide whether the treasury can get by without asking for more borrowing authority in the next six months.

Workmen began today clearing away the rubble on the site of the disastrous Williams Lake fire yesterday and steps were in progress for continuation of the resort business in remaining buildings on the premises.

District Attorney Howard C. St. John said today he is contemplating an investigation of the fire, which would be conducted by the sheriff's department.

Reports were favorable at local hospitals today on the 10 persons who escaped the fire with injuries and burns and identification appeared final on the three members of a family who perished in the blaze and the one woman who suffered fatal injuries when she jumped from a window.

The three who died in the building were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Matthews, and son, Kevin, 9, of 1053 East 40th street, Brooklyn. Matthews' age was given as 49 and that of his wife 47.

The woman fatally injured when she jumped from a window was Mrs. Theodore Eckerlin, 54, of 115-28 104th Place, Ozone Park.

French Battle Reds In Effort to Get Rebel-Held Towns

Spokesman Says Forces Kill 70 and Take 130 Prisoner; Villagers Are Held

Saigon, Indochina, July 29 (AP)—French union forces battled fiercely resisting Communist-led Vietminh troops along the "Street Without Joy" today as the French tightened their armed noose around a string of rebel-held villages along the central Indochinese coast.

The 10,000-man French force which launched a surprise assault yesterday has captured 20 of the villages spread out side-by-side along the shore, a French command spokesman reported. The "Street Without Joy" threads the coastal towns like the string of a necklace.

The villages have been used as base by a 3,000-man Vietminh regiment harassing communications between Hue, the capital of Annam province (central Viet Nam), and Quan Tri, 40 miles to the north, for several months.

70 Troops Killed

The French spokesman said that 70 rebel troops have been killed and 130 taken prisoner thus far in the continuing battle. French losses, he added, were much smaller. Some 400 villagers suspected of being Vietminh sympathizers have been rounded up.

French forces continued to pound the entrapped Vietminh by land, sea and air. French bombers and fighters battered the rebel-held areas and warships hurled shells from the South China Sea into the guerrilla encampments.

The French command, meanwhile, brought up more reinforcements. The second battalion of paratroopers went into action to tighten the circle around the Communist-led troops.

The French sprang their trap yesterday over an area about seven miles long and five miles wide.

Payment Approved

Bonn, Germany, July 29 (AP)—The West German Bundestag (lower house of parliament) today approved a restitution law for the payment of about 952 million dollars to several hundred thousand persons, mostly Jews, persecuted by the Nazis. The measure now goes to the Bundesrat (upper house) for final approval.

Out of Hospital

Poughkeepsie, July 29 (AP)—Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union, AFL, was released today from Vassar Hospital where he has been a patient since suffering a heart attack July 3. Curran said he planned to rest for about 10 days on his 107-acre farm on Clapp Hill Road, Beekman, "although I feel fine."

Beer Strike Over

Milwaukee, Wis., July 29 (AP)—Milwaukee's 76-day-old brewery strike ended last night. It was announced that strikers had voted by more than three to one to accept a contract offer from the city's six breweries. The strikers, members of the CIO United Brewery Workers Union, began returning to work immediately. However, some protests against the agreement were voiced by dissenting workers who had hoped to win a 35-hour work week with no loss in pay. Spokesmen for some breweries said the settlement terms, which included a 20-cent hourly wage increase, would result in a beer price increase.

555th Was Swarmed

Seoul, July 29 (AP)—The army today said the 555th Field Artillery Battalion was the American unit overrun by Chinese July 14 in the last big Communist offensive on the east-central front. It was one of the worst massacres of Americans in the Korean war and the second in Korea for the battalion. The battalion was firing support for the Republic of Korea Capitol Division defending a line between Kumhwa and Kumsong. About three divisions of Chinese hit the ROK division about 9.45 p. m. July 13. The line buckled and at 2:05 a. m. July 14 the Chinese assaulted the U. S. artillery battalion on three sides, smashing its perimeter, batteries and command post.

Dewey, Wicks and Heck Name Group to Study Finances

Albany, July 29 (AP)—Gov. Dewey and Republican legislative leaders today named an 11-member commission to conduct a $575,000 analysis of the state's financial operations and to prepare for possible revision of overlapping federal, state and local taxes.

Dewey appointed Frederick L. Bird, of New York, chairman. Bird, 61, is director of municipal research for Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

The group will be known as the Temporary Commission on Fiscal Affairs of State Government. It was created by the 1953 legislature. Dewey had called for the study in his budget message.

The governor favors realignment of tax structures to eliminate duplication of federal and state levies under a formula that would enable the states to take over some of the federal government's tax powers. It would make the states "less dependent on federal aid," he says.

Federal and state taxes now overlap on incomes, corporate earnings, gasoline, cigarettes, liquor and other fields.

In naming his seven appointees, Dewey said the commission's findings and recommendations "well may be the most far-reaching since the administrative structure of our state government was reorganized under Governor (Alfred E.) Smith more than a quarter of a century ago."

Dewey designated his budget director, T. Norman Hurd, as vice chairman of the commission. He also named to the commission State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern and:

Frederick W. Ecker of New York city, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Weston Vernon Jr. of New York city, former president of the State Bar Association.

Edwin S. Foster of Ithaca, general secretary of the New York State Farm Bureau Federation.

Senate Leader Arthur H. Wicks appointed Sen. Walter J. Mahoney, Buffalo Republican, and Sen. Samuel L. Greenberg, Brooklyn Democrat.

Assemblyman Edmund R. Lupton, Suffolk Republican, and Assemblyman Julius J. Gans, Bronx Democrat, were appointed by Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck.

Commission members will be reimbursed for expenses but will draw no salary. They must report to the legislature and the governor by next Feb. 15.

Commerce Department Tries To Get Overflow Industries

Albany, July 29 (AP)—The New York State Commerce Department is enlarging its program of trying to influence expanding industries to establish plants in the state.

Commissioner Harold Keller confirmed today that a representative of the department had been appointed to range the middle-west in quest of such business.

He is Rene Risch of White Plains. He will begin his new assignment shortly after Labor Day. He will work out of Chicago, where he will make his home. For the time being, at least, his home will be his "office."

In the last six years, Keller said, the department has persuaded 75 firms either to establish or retain 76 plants in the state. These plants employ 17,000 persons and have an estimated total annual payroll of 55 million dollars, Keller said.

About one-third of the 75 firms had planned to leave the state but, with the help of the Commerce Department, were re-located elsewhere in the state, the commissioner continued. Most of these were New York city industries.

"We don't try to pirate companies from other states," Keller said. "We have more to lose than gain by that. We continually follow types of industry we know are growing and expanding to reach new markets—such as the air-conditioning and electronics industries.

"We point out what we consider to be the advantages of locating plants in New York state—the heart of the populous northwest."

Two Killed Near Port Jervis And Six Persons Are Hurt

Port Jervis, July 29 (AP)—An elderly woman and a small child were killed near here yesterday in a three-car collision. Six other persons were injured.

The dead were identified as Mrs. Nora Williams, 70, and Nora Lee Pehanick, 7, both of Scranton, Pa.

The injured were Mrs. Leo Kaplan, 41, of Shenorock, N. Y.; John Moriarity, 9, of Shenorock; Linda Pehanick, 4, of Scranton; Mrs. Catherine Powers, 70, of Port Jervis, Ronald Hoatson, 23, of Port Jervis; and Justin Burdo, 24, of Dingman's Ferry, Pa.

State police at nearby Milford, Pa., said Hoatson and Burdo were riding in one automobile and tried to pass a car driven by Mrs. Powers The young men's vehicle then crashed head-on into the third car, driven by Mrs. Kaplan with Mrs. Williams and the three children as passengers.

Hoatson was identified as the youth who, with a brother, LeRoy, 19, was fined for drunken driving in Miami Shores, Fla., Municipal Court Oct. 13, 1952. Each was fined $75 on pleas of guilty.

Miami Shores police arrested LeRoy in a new automobile early the previous day. Less than an hour later Ronald was nabbed on a motorcycle.

The brothers were quoted by police as saying they received $5,000 in settlement of a claim of Ronald against the Erie railroad. The two, who were down to $1,000 when arrested, said they bought the car and motorcyle and went night clubbing.

More than 86,000 prisoners—including 3,313 Americans—are to be exchanged through Panmunjom within 60 days. About 22,000 North Koreans and Chinese refusing to return to Red rule will be brought to camps within the buffer zone and their fate decided later.

Will Start Work

Bryan said the joint truce observer teams which will police the 2½-mile-wide buffer zone across Korea's scarred waist "probably will start work tomorrow morning."

Armies of each side are withdrawing 1¼ miles on each side of the cease-fire line to create the zone. The withdrawal must be completed by 10 p. m. Thursday (8 a. m. EST).

Reports from the front indicated the withdrawal was proceeding smoothly. Great allied military caravans churned up dust from the front to rear areas carrying troops, equipment and supplies.

Hearing Adjourned

New York, July 29 (AP)—A Felony Court hearing for a platinum blonde model and a pretzel maker accused of extortion from shipping heir Edgar F. Luckenbach, Jr., was adjourned today to Sept. 21 after the prosecution asked more time to investigate. The defendants are Virginia Di Domenico, 21, of Manhattan, and Daniel Enoch, 31, of 147-28 9th avenue, Jamaica, Queens. Police said the woman telephoned Luckenbach on July 13, told him he had given her two fake checks for $300 each, and demanded that he make payment in cash.

Polish Flier Will Become U. S. Citizen

Washington, July 29 (AP)—A youthful Polish flier who escaped from his homeland last March in a Russian-built jet plane received today the right to become an American citizen.

Lt. Franciszek Jarecki looked on with sparkling eyes as President Eisenhower signed the bill that gives him haven in this country.

"There you are," Eisenhower said with a big smile. "Now you are legally here."

The 22-year-old refugee, dressed in a dark blue suit, said he feels that "I am the symbol of the Polish people in their fight for freedom."

Gasoline Prices Not Expected to Take Drop in Area

Syracuse Situation Said to Be Local One Forced by Sales of Cheaper Fuel

A gasoline "price war" in Syracuse is strictly peculiar to that city and is not expected to affect the local price situation, a spot check of bulk distributors and service station operators in the Kingston area disclosed today.

The Freeman made the check after receiving an Associated Press dispatch from Syracuse which stated that nine major oil companies had reduced wholesale gasoline prices in that area by two cents a gallon with retail prices dropping as much as four cents a gallon.

Prices in the Syracuse area were reported to range from 25 to 28 cents for regular grades following the cut.

Called Local Situation

"It's a local situation peculiar to Syracuse," Amos R. Newcombe, vice-president and treasurer of the Austin R. Newcombe and Co., Inc., which handles Atlantic Refining Products, told The Freeman.

He pointed out that the Syracuse situation had "no necessary connection with Kingston," describing it as a price war.

L. V. Bogert, who handles Cities Service products, said the Syracuse price cuts were "strictly local," that Syracuse had always offered a "rough situation."

He explained that the situation in Syracuse was induced by a group of independent oil companies in the area which bought a crude grade of gasoline and sold it cheap.

"They buy cheap and sell cheap and still make a profit."

Price Drop Forced

Bogert pointed out that this pressure from the independent companies had forced the major oil companies to cut their prices, explaining that people who buy gas don't buy for brand so much as for price, not aware that their mileage is cut by using the cheaper quality.

"Joe Blow just buys price," Bogart stated. He explained that the cheaper grades didn't have the same octane ratings as those carried by the major companies.

A spot check of local filling station operators indicated they had no information from their bulk distributors that any price changes were contemplated.

The consensus was that no changes were to be expected.

Local Prices Uniform

Gasoline prices in Kingston are fairly uniform at approximately 28 cents for regular grades and 30 cents for high grades, although there appeared to be a fraction of a cent range from about 27.9

Card Taken Away From East Zoners

Officials Estimate Huge Number of Packages to Be Given; Trucks Are Slowed

Berlin, July 29 (AP)—Communist police arrested scores of East Germans who accepted gifts of western food today but they failed to check the hungry throngs surging through the Iron Curtain.

Those arrested were released a short time later. Their food was not confiscated but in many cases identity cards—vital in the east zone—were taken away.

The biggest crowds yet jammed West Berlin's food relief centers on the third day of the big American-financed relief program which has put the spotlight on food shortages in the restive Soviet occupation zone.

The Communists also harrassed but did not halt the movement of food to West Berlin by truck. Other food arrived by plane.

Officials estimated 150,000 food packages would be given away today in addition to the 250,000 already handed out in the first two days.

Arrests, Threats Featured

Communist police began a campaign of arrests and threats to sabotage the program by scaring the East Germans away.

They arrested scores who returned to East Berlin laden with food. Thirty arrests were reported at one border crossing point alone.

The first truckload of American food crossed the Soviet zone and finally reached West Berlin after Communist border guards delayed it at both ends of the isolated city's highway link to the west.

The truck brought 20 tons of food from the U. S. freighter American Inventor. It entered the American sector of West Berlin 20 minutes after German truck drivers had reported Communist police were unloading it and apparently confiscating its contents.

The truck had been halted first—for two and a half hours—at the Soviet zone border 100 miles west of Berlin. After a thorough check by the Communist guards, it was permitted to pass.

Second Delay Occurs

Its second delay for checking occurred at Babelsberg, just outside the western sectors, where all vehicles coming through the Soviet zone are examined before they are permitted into West Berlin.

The food was the first delivery of a 15-million-dollar stock being sent by the United States to replenish West Berlin's emergency food stocks now being depleted by free distributions to the hungry East Germans.

In West Berlin, meanwhile, the biggest crowds yet thronged across the Iron Curtain border for the third day of the distribution of free food parcels. They came despite an implied Communist threat that those getting the food faced arrest as spies.

Names Are Broadcast

The Soviet zone radio began broadcasting hourly names and addresses of East German food recipients. It charged they were being recruited as future agents by western espionage experts.

Eyewitnesses reported that two East German women with western food were arrested by Communist police at a railway station in the Soviet sector. They also said some Communist polce border detachments in the city have been strengthened, possibly looking towards wholesale confiscation of the free food.

As yet, however, there was no confirmation that Red authorities had ordered even a start on any sweeping campaign of arrest or seizure.

From the other side of the Iron Curtain, meanwhile, reports filtered through of a vast widening in the purge of the rebellion-beset Communist party.

The West Berlin Socialist newspaper, Telegram, reported that 200 special commissions had been

DA Might Probe Blaze Fatal to 4

Party Spokesmen on Both Sides Against Last Minute Request

Washington, July 29 (AP)—Key Democrats said today President Eisenhower will be inviting a major defeat if he proposes an increase in the 275 billion dollar debt limit in this session of Congress.

Sens. George (D.-Ga.) and Byrd (D.-Va.) joined Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas in predicting the Senate will reject any increase at this time.

And Sen. Williams (R.-Del.) said in a separate interview that unless the administration can produce a lot of facts he doesn't now know, he will oppose lifting the statutory ceilings.

Sees Senate Stall

"I don't believe the administration can get any such proposal through the Senate," Williams said.

Other senators said they are certain Williams would not be the only Republican found in the opposition ranks on a rollcall.

Chairman Millikin (R.-Colo.) of the Finance Committee said the administration's plan is to wait until the Senate and House have agreed, at least tentatively, on all of the money bills and then decide whether the treasury can get by without asking for more borrowing authority in the next six months.

Against Late Move

There have been reports the

Tenth Guest Goes to Hospital for Treatment of Shock

Workmen began today clearing away the rubble on the site of the disastrous Williams Lake fire yesterday and steps were in progress for continuation of the resort business in remaining buildings on the premises.

District Attorney Howard C. St. John said today he is contemplating an investigation of the fire, which would be conducted by the sheriff's department.

Reports were favorable at local hospitals today on the 10 persons who escaped the fire with injuries and burns and identification appeared final on the three members of a family who perished in the blaze and the one woman who suffered fatal injuries when she jumped from a window.

The three who died in the building were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Matthews, and son, Kevin, 9, of 1053 East 40th street, Brooklyn. Matthews' age was given as 49 and that of his wife 47.

The woman fatally injured when she jumped from a window was Mrs. Theodore Eckerlin, 54, of 115-28 104th Place, Ozone Park.

Saigon, Indochina, July 29 (AP)—French union forces battled fiercely resisting Communist-led Vietminh troops along the "Street Without Joy" today as the French tightened their armed noose around a string of rebel-held villages along the central Indochinese coast.

The 10,000-man French force which launched a surprise assault yesterday has captured 20 of the villages spread out side-by-side along the shore, a French command spokesman reported. The "Street Without Joy" threads the coastal towns like the string of a necklace.

The villages have been used as base by a 3,000-man Vietminh regiment harassing communications between Hue, the capital of Annam province (central Viet Nam), and Quan Tri, 40 miles to the north, for several months.

70 Troops Killed

The French spokesman said that 70 rebel troops have been killed and 130 taken prisoner thus far in the continuing battle. French losses, he added, were much smaller. Some 400 villagers suspected of being Vietminh sympathizers have been rounded up.

French forces continued to pound the entrapped Vietminh by land, sea and air. French bombers and fighters battered the rebel-held areas and warships hurled shells from the South China Sea into the guerrilla encampments.

The French command, meanwhile, brought up more reinforcements. The second battalion of paratroopers went into action to tighten the circle around the Communist-led troops.

The French sprang their trap yesterday over an area about seven miles long and five miles wide.

Payment Approved

Bonn, Germany, July 29 (AP)—The West German Bundestag (lower house of parliament) today approved a restitution law for the payment of about 952 million dollars to several hundred thousand persons, mostly Jews, persecuted by the Nazis. The measure now goes to the Bundesrat (upper house) for final approval.

Out of Hospital

Poughkeepsie, July 29 (AP)—Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union, AFL, was released today from Vassar Hospital where he has been a patient since suffering a heart attack July 3. Curran said he planned to rest for about 10 days on his 107-acre farm on Clapp Hill Road, Beekman, "although I feel fine."

Beer Strike Over

Milwaukee, Wis., July 29 (AP)—Milwaukee's 76-day-old brewery strike ended last night. It was announced that strikers had voted by more than three to one to accept a contract offer from the city's six breweries. The strikers, members of the CIO United Brewery Workers Union, began returning to work immediately. However, some protests against the agreement were voiced by dissenting workers who had hoped to win a 35-hour work week with no loss in pay. Spokesmen for some breweries said the settlement terms, which included a 20-cent hourly wage increase, would result in a beer price increase.

555th Was Swarmed

Seoul, July 29 (AP)—The army today said the 555th Field Artillery Battalion was the American unit overrun by Chinese July 14 in the last big Communist offensive on the east-central front. It was one of the worst massacres of Americans in the Korean war and the second in Korea for the battalion. The battalion was firing support for the Republic of Korea Capitol Division defending a line between Kumhwa and Kumsong. About three divisions of Chinese hit the ROK division about 9.45 p. m. July 13. The line buckled and at 2:05 a. m. July 14 the Chinese assaulted the U. S. artillery battalion on three sides, smashing its perimeter, batteries and command post.

London, July 29 (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill's top deputies told Parliament today Britain still wants high-level 4-power talks with Russia. They denied this conflicts with administration views in Washington.

Dewey, Wicks and Heck Name Group to Study Finances

Albany, July 29 (AP)—Gov. Dewey and Republican legislative leaders today named an 11-member commission to conduct a $575,000 analysis of the state's financial operations and to prepare for possible revision of overlapping federal, state and local taxes.

Dewey appointed Frederick L. Bird, of New York, chairman. Bird, 61, is director of municipal research for Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

The group will be known as the Temporary Commission on Fiscal Affairs of State Government. It was created by the 1953 legislature. Dewey had called for the study in his budget message.

The governor favors realignment of tax structures to eliminate duplication of federal and state levies under a formula that would enable the states to take over some of the federal government's tax powers. It would make the states "less dependent on federal aid," he says.

Federal and state taxes now overlap on incomes, corporate earnings, gasoline, cigarettes, liquor and other fields.

In naming his seven appointees, Dewey said the commission's findings and recommendations "well may be the most far-reaching since the administrative structure of our state government was reorganized under Governor (Alfred E.) Smith more than a quarter of a century ago."

Dewey designated his budget director, T. Norman Hurd, as vice chairman of the commission. He also named to the commission State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern and:

Frederick W. Ecker of New York city, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Weston Vernon Jr. of New York city, former president of the State Bar Association.

Edwin S. Foster of Ithaca, general secretary of the New York State Farm Bureau Federation.

Senate Leader Arthur H. Wicks appointed Sen. Walter J. Mahoney, Buffalo Republican, and Sen. Samuel L. Greenberg, Brooklyn Democrat.

Assemblyman Edmund R. Lupton, Suffolk Republican, and Assemblyman Julius J. Gans, Bronx Democrat, were appointed by Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck.

Commission members will be reimbursed for expenses but will draw no salary. They must report to the legislature and the governor by next Feb. 15.

Commerce Department Tries To Get Overflow Industries

Albany, July 29 (AP)—The New York State Commerce Department is enlarging its program of trying to influence expanding industries to establish plants in the state.

Commissioner Harold Keller confirmed today that a representative of the department had been appointed to range the middlewest in quest of such business.

He is Rene Risch of White Plains. He will begin his new assignment shortly after Labor Day. He will work out of Chicago, where he will make his home. For the time being, at least, his home will be his "office."

In the last six years, Keller said, the department has persuaded 75 firms either to establish or retain 76 plants in the state. These plants employ 17,000 persons and have an estimated total annual payroll of 55 million dollars, Keller said.

About one-third of the 75 firms had planned to leave the state but, with the help of the Commerce Department, were re-located elsewhere in the state, the commissioner continued. Most of these were New York city industries.

"We don't try to pirate companies from other states," Keller said. "We have more to lose than gain by that. We continually follow types of industry we know are growing and expanding to reach new markets—such as the air-conditioning and electronics industries.

"We point out what we consider to be the advantages of locating plants in New York state—the heart of the populous northwest."

Two Killed Near Port Jervis And Six Persons Are Hurt

Port Jervis, July 29 (AP)—An elderly woman and a small child were killed near here yesterday in a three-car collision. Six other persons were injured.

The dead were identified as Mrs. Nora Williams, 70, and Nora Lee Pehanick, 7, both of Scranton, Pa.

The injured were Mrs. Leo Kaplan, 41, of Shenorock, N. Y.; John Moriarity, 9, of Shenorock; Linda Pehanick, 4, of Scranton; Mrs. Catherine Powers, 70, of Port Jervis, Ronald Hoatson, 23, of Port Jervis; and Justin Burdo, 24, of Dingman's Ferry, Pa.

State police at nearby Milford, Pa., said Hoatson and Burdo were riding in one automobile and tried to pass a car driven by Mrs. Powers The young men's vehicle then crashed head-on into the third car, driven by Mrs. Kaplan with Mrs. Williams and the three children as passengers.

Hoatson was identified as the youth who, with a brother, LeRoy, 19, was fined for drunken driving in Miami Shores, Fla., Municipal Court Oct. 13, 1952. Each was fined $75 on pleas of guilty.

Miami Shores police arrested LeRoy in a new automobile early the previous day. Less than an hour later Ronald was nabbed on a motorcycle.

The brothers were quoted by police as saying they received $5,000 in settlement of a claim of Ronald against the Erie railroad. The two, who were down to $1,000 when arrested, said they bought the car and motorcycle and went night clubbing.

Labor Plans Action In All Capitals

Buffalo, July 29 (AP)—The secretary-treasurer of the State Federation of Labor says the "struggle for improved labor conditions" is being shifted from Washington to state capitals.

Harold C. Hanover told the AFL Federation's convention yesterday that "rule by injunction hovers over labor once more."

Under the present Washington administration, he said, labor must direct its legislative activities not only toward Washington, but toward the 48 state legislatures as well.

The delegates, in caucus, unanimously nominated all state vice presidents and members of the legislative committee for re-election.

President Thomas A. Murray's current term does not end until next year.

Nyack Resident Is Pythias Chancellor

Saratoga Springs, July 29 (AP)—LeRoy Gates of Nyack is the new grand chancellor of the New York State Grand Lodge of the Knights of Pythias.

Elected yesterday at the lodge's annual convention, he will succeed Al C. Mather of New York.

Jacob D. Fuchsberg of New York defeated Benjamin Sklerow of New York for the post of grand vice chancellor in the only contested election. Samuel Schnipzer of New York was elected grand prelate and Sidney Mundt of Brooklyn was re-elected grand secretary.

Other officers were to be elected today. About 2,000 delegates are attending.

YMCA News

Kingston boys still may register for the trip to Yankee Stadium to see the Yankees play the White Sox Friday, August 7. This trip is sponsored by the Kingston YMCA for all Kingston boys. Information on this and other trips may be obtained from the Youth Director at the Y.

On Monday the YMCA general secretary took several boys to the Knaust mushroom caverns in Rosendale. The boys explored the more than 36 underground acreas devoted to the growing of mushrooms. At one time limestone was quarried in these caves for the manufacture of cement. The Knaust mushroom concern was one of the first in the country and at present has over 80,000 mushroom trays under cultivation.

After this tour the boys finished the afternoon off with a trip to DeWitt Lake. Included in this trip were Robert Prosser, Bill Geiser, Bill Bodenweber and Bob Steeger.

Other Trips Planned

There will be other YMCA trips for Kingston boys during the summer and some of these are as follows: Monday, August 3, at Camp Vacamas in Whiteport, there will be a baseball gabe between the camp and the YMCA boys. The following Friday, August 7, boys who have signed to see the Yankees play baseball in the Yankee stadium will leave for New York by chartered bus at 7:30 a.m. and return by 10 p. m.

There will be a Hudson River Boat trip Monday, August 10, and a trip to Sportsmen's Park August 17. The following Monday, August 24, there will be an all-day trip to DeWitt Lake. Monday, August 31, there will be a trip to the Catskill Game Farm by chartered bus for all boys who sign for this trip. Then in September the last trip will be to the Rhinebeck Fair during the first week of that month.

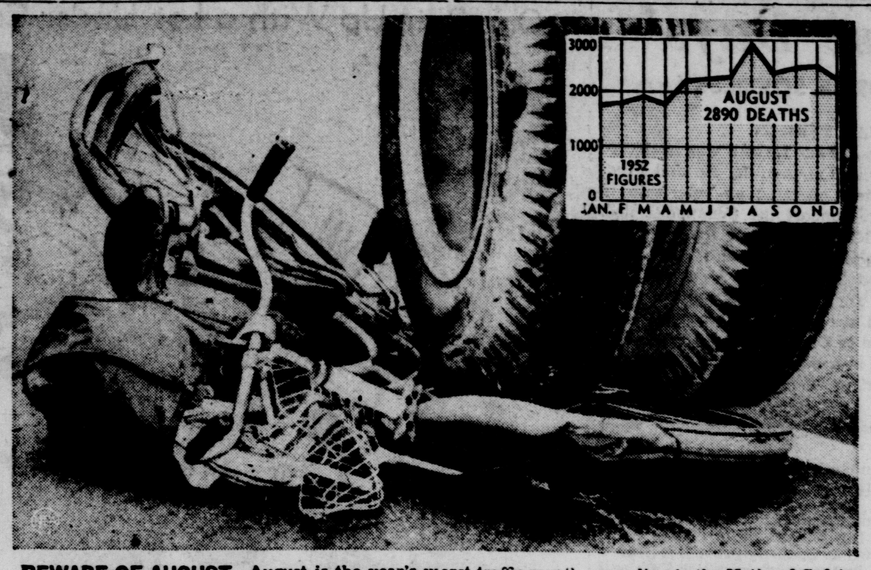
It is expected that most of these tours will take place during the hours of 9 a. m. and 7 p. m. Persons wishing more information on all these trips are urged to get in touch with the Youth Director at the Kingston YMCA.

Team Is Chosen

A baseball team has been chosen in the boys' division for the game with Camp Vacamas Monday. There is still room for more players on this team and so far the following have been signed: Lucky Albright, Bill Hubert, Bill Bodenweber, Eddie Hofbauer and Bill Hoffman.

A swimming test for members of the boy's division was held in the Y pool last week and the following passed: John McClosky, Victor Albright, James Williams, Steve Tresaloni, John Coughlin, Jack Fisher, Charles Adler, Ralph Hutton, David Manello, Harry Pratt and Edward Hofbauer.

New YMCA members in the boy's division are as follows: Bill Ricketson, Richard Derrenbacher, Vincent Dempsey, Michael Drummond, Stephen Eckdich, Lance Cooper, Robert Dingman, Bill McDermott and Ronald Johnson.



BEWARE OF AUGUST—August is the year's worst traffic month, according to the National Safety Council, and it will pay both pedestrian and driver to be extra careful. This photo was taken in West Bend, Wis., after a truck ran over a child riding a bicycle. Insert chart shows highway deaths by months for 1952, which reached their peak in August with 2890 deaths. This was 28 per cent higher than the average 1952 month. And for every traffic death there were 35 injuries. Main reason for the increase is that more cars than usual travel the highways during August, but another factor is what the National Safety Council calls the "vacation attitude."

Why We Say--
"THE MAN'S YELLOW"

. . . a doorway paint

The slang reference to someone who is weak or cowardly as being "yellow" originated in France and Spain. In France, the doorways of traitors were painted yellow, and in Spain, yellow robes were worn by executioners at the death of those found guilty of treason. Yellow was probably chosen because it was thought of as a weak color since it cannot be seen at a distance.

Pants Foil Capture

Oklahoma City, July 29 (AP)—W. C. McLain, an Oklahoma City groceryman, was told by phone last night that his store had been robbed and that the burglar was passing in front of his house with the loot at that very minute. McLain looked out, and sure enough, the man was there. Ready to dash out, McLain looked down and realized he didn't have his pants on. By the time he could don his britches, the thief had escaped.

Water Shadows

A shadow on water is visible only when there are enough suspended particles in the water to scatter the light before it has penetrated the surface very far. If the water is not too muddy, it may show some reflections as well as the surface shadow.

Third Husband Leaves

Hollywood, July 29 (AP)—Actress-director Ida Lupino's third husband, actor Howard Duff, has left their home, and she sees little hope for reconciliation. Miss Lupino said yesterday: "He told me he wasn't cut out for marriage and didn't want to be married. This only happened in the last two days and it came as a shock to me." Married Oct. 21, 1951, they have a 14-month-old daughter, Bridget. Miss Lupino formerly was married to actor Louis Hayward and producer Collier Young. This was Duff's first marriage.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JULY 29, 1953

POPULATION INCREASE

As the days roll by, more and more of us get a feeling of being pressed in upon. It's common to blame this on the tensions of the cold war, the frustrations of the unsettled little wars, the strain of the high cost of living.

No doubt all these things contribute. But we don't have to look to such mental harassments for the whole answer. For, in fact, we are being subjected to more and more actual physical pressures all the time.

They come from population increases, and everything that follows in their train. From the last official census on April 1, 1950, to June 1 of this year, the U. S. population has shot up an astounding 8,341,000, according to federal estimates.

If this pace were to be maintained until the next regular census in 1960, the decade's gain would be upwards of 25,000,000. Most population experts still are gasping from the 19,575,000 increase that took place in the past 10 years. During the previous decade, the rise was just a bit over 9,000,000.

So today's 160,000,000 may be 175,000,000 in another seven years. Some of the guessers have been talking about 200,000,000 at the turn of the century, but unless the rate of increase slackens materially, that figure may seem a trifle silly when the time arrives.

The point of it is that we seem to be in the midst of a veritable population revolution. Since most of the gains are reflected in the country's great cities, these are literally overrun with people.

Walk the streets of New York, Chicago and many another metropolis on any business day and you feel like a chip in a millrace. Get in your car—but why tell that familiar story? Housing goes booming along, but in lots of cities, try to find a place.

We have to understand that, with present trends continuing, all these pressures upon us are going to get worse, not better. Perhaps much worse.

President Eisenhower likes to name commissions. Well, maybe it's time we had a commission pay some hard-headed attention to this prime fact of American life: we're growing so fast we're outdistancing the plans we make to cope with our future development.

In field after field—highways, schools, hospitals, countless types of municipal facilities—we not only are not keeping pace but are falling farther and farther behind. Our plans are too small, too limited, too unimaginative. By the time they are cast in stone and steel, they are long out of date. And because of that they are, in the long run, more expensive than more ambitious plans.

We need plans big enough to fit the commanding facts of population growth. If we don't get them, and the money to pay for them, a lot of us will be looking around for new nervous systems to take in trade for the ones we have now.

THE TIME TO STOP FIRES

There is only one right time to stop fires. That is before they start. It is not really necessary to toss the still lighted match, the smoldering cigarette, out of the car, or on the forest floor.

It's not necessary to go away before the picnic fire is entirely out.

It's not necessary to be careless with kerosene where there are lamps or cook stoves of the older types. It's not necessary to go to dinner in the dining room—or get in the car for a little spin — with the fire on the hearth unscreened.

It's not necessary to perform any of the other acts of carelessness which start the fires which cause such great losses in lives as well as property.

Last year there were 25,545 blazes in New York City alone—nearly 3,000 more than the year before. Most of them could have been prevented.

You would think a century brilliant enough to produce scientists who could make atomic bombs would be able to provide a shoe-lace that doesn't break when you are in a hurry.

'These Days'

MAX YERGAN

For many years, Max Yergan was a Negro leader associated with Communists. He and Frederick Vanderbilt Field operated an enterprise to influence Negroes to support the Communist line. Several years ago, Max Yergan saw the light, had a fight on ideological grounds with Field who literally dispossessed Yergan from his office.

I have observed Yergan's conduct for five years and slowly reached the conclusion that this man had walked the road to Damascus and has seen the truth. At any rate, in a quiet, unobtrusive manner he has been fighting Communism among the Negroes, undoing the evils he had formerly wrought. This he has been doing without personal benefit.

The basis of Communist activity among Negroes is racism. While the Communists preach loudly that they oppose racism, actually their work achieves an accentuation on race, an over-emphasis of what has, in the past 20 years in this country, come to be known as minority problems. Search the literature, say, in the years between 1900 and 1930 for the word, minority, as applying to American citizens and it will rarely be found. It is a continental European concept, emphasized during World War I and recognized in Woodrow Wilson's Fourteen Points. Since 1930, that word has become common parlance and many Americans actually believe that they belong to a minority.

Now that Max Yergan is definitely on the American side of the fence, he finds himself in a fiery conflict with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which is the Negro defense organization in this country, fighting racial discrimination with considerable vehemence. Its guiding spirit is Walter White.

All so-called defense organizations sooner or later become so hipped on racial problems that they create racial antagonisms, unwittingly, it is true, by their very existence. Whereas they seek social justice, they actually only too often stimulate antagonisms which defeat the ends they seek.

Max Yergan stated this idea in the course of his controversy with the N.A.A.C.P.:

". . . the majority opinion of the country has for over three quarters of a century supported the theory of full citizenship for all. The idea is embodied in the Constitution and though slow, at times, to find fullest expression, it is now, with sweeping rapidity, being expressed at most levels of our country's life. It is not too much to say that public policy in the United States is today based on the theory and practice of first class citizenship for all its citizens. I do not say that that goal has been reached. But what is of highest importance is that America is committed to that principle and that is the direction in which we are rapidly traveling."

Further, he attacks the heart of the problem in reference to a position that Walter White took. Yergan said:

". . . what is Mr. White's warrant for trying to set up two separate entities: 'the Negro' and 'America'? Negroes are Americans and some 15 million Americans are Negroes. The battlefields of Europe and Korea bear eloquent testimony to this fact. When he seeks to set us apart rather than acknowledge our growing unity, Mr. White does a distinct disservice to the cause of interracial progress in America. Our problems are to be solved within our National family; certainly not with other National communities. I know of many thousands of Asians and Africans who will be highly amused by Mr. White's argument about our losing 'their support.' One of the best things we can do, and in this Mr. White should help and not hinder, is to make known to the world the sifinificant story of interracial progress and the substantial progress among Negroes in our country."

And that is the point of the matter. While every effort should be made to prove how well off all classes of Americans are compared with identical groups in other parts of the world, these various defense agencies, by their unwarranted emphasis on our differences, which in a free society must be numerous, create the utterly false impression that we live here in an atmosphere of hate. Such an emphasis may give these defense organizations a reason for existence, but they could serve America better on the constructive side.

Only these groups benefit the United States which increase cooperation and mutual aid among the components of the American population.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

THE MATURE INDIVIDUAL

I have written before of examining the boys of a reformatory school and finding a few who were tranferred later to a mental institution. In examining the boys of this mental institution, I found only one that I thought was normal from his answers to my questions. In speaking to the medical superintendent, he said this "bright" boy had so greatly interested the local photographer that he had asked the superintendent if he could allow the boy to go to work for him. The superintendent then asked the boy how much he would expect the photographer to pay him and the boy said he thought he should be paid 10 cents a week.

It is this inability to meet the needs or demands or everyday life that is just the difference between normal and subnormal individuals and why these subnormals need institutional care.

In "Mental Hygiene," Dr. F. S. DuBois, in an article, "The Security of Discipline," states that fortunate is the individual who has attained such self-direction that leads to inner security, the preservation of mental health and the integrity of personality necessary for wise decisions and ethical or proper conduct. This makes him a mature individual.

The immature individual's attitude toward society is indicated by his goal as expressed in terms of "what can I get out of it?" The mature individual thinks and acts in terms of "what can I give?" "What opportunity for service is available?"

Habits of thoughtfulness, consideration, kindness and tolerance have crystalized in the personality and have made self-evident the fact that usefulness brings the greatest satisfaction in life; that happiness is based not upon material things alone but upon the security of a self-disciplined life motivated by interest in the welfare of one's fellowmen.

However, we must always remember that while some sufferers from poor health put up a heroic struggle, most of us are irritable and selfish to some degree. To be able to act with the welfare of our fellowman in mind, we must be our best selves. We can only be our best selves if we can keep well. Even simple everyday disappointments can affect us as Chesterton stated, "an attack of indigestion, a sleepless night, and a rainy morning can make a coward out of one who otherwise might be a hero."

While generally speaking, the mind controls the body, there are times when the body controls the mind. If the body is kept healthy by keeping liver active by ordinary work or exercise, thus keeping blood free from poisons and wastes, and the lungs removing wastes so that pure blood nourishes the brain, the brain will always be at its best. And the three things to watch are diet, rest, exercise.

One Puts Up With a Lot Under Certain Conditions

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, and Walter S. Robertson, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, flew to Korea on the same plane at the end of June. Secretary Robertson was headed for his now famous armistice talks with Korean President Syngman Rhee.

During the flight, General Collins observed that Secretary Robertson would probably be returning in a few days. The general hoped they could come back together.

Secretary Robertson hesitated a moment before answering and then observed, perhaps something like a Chinese philosopher, that in the Orient it was impossible to buy even a suit of clothes in a few days. He didn't think he would be coming back that soon.

Events turned out exactly that way. General Collins completed his business with the military in short order and then winged back to the United States. Secretary Robertson stayed two weeks.

This little incident may explain whatever success there will be in concluding an armistice with the Communists and getting President Rhee to go along with it.

As the senior American truce negotiator between the Chinese Nationalists and Communists at the end of the war, Mr. Robertson got to know something about how the Oriental mind works.

Came To Know Red Leaders

He became well acquainted with Mao Tse-tung, the Chinese Communist president, and with Chou En-lai, his premier. The American diplomat spent days in conference with them, and spent weekends at their headquarters. He learned to respect those men for just what they are and he learned you can't do business with Communists.

In his China war experience, Mr. Robertson had never met Syngman Rhee. The Korean president was entirely different from the Chinese Communist leaders. Rhee is a devout Christian. But he was also an Oriental, just as proud and just as firm a believer in his own convictions as the Communist leaders were in theirs.

Before Secretary Robertson began his conferences with President Rhee, a number of Americans apparently tried to tell him how to handle the Korean. "If everybody knows how to handle him," the secretary is supposed to have observed, "what's the problem?" Of course it wasn't that simple.

In the beginning of the negotiations, the Korean president was encouraged to do all the talking. He talked by the hour, while Robertson sat and listened. President Rhee recited his grievances against the Americans. They were many, going back to the end of the Russo-Japanese War of 1904, when the U. S. okayed Japan's right to occupy Korea. They went on through U. S. acceptance of the 38th Parallel as the dividing line for Korean occupation at the end of the war, up to the latest hassle over release of prisoners of war.

Grief Put On Record

With all this grief put on the record over a period of several days, the air was cleared and it was possible to get down to business. There were two very fundamental truths to point out:

First, if it had not been for American assistance, President Rhee wouldn't have any country at all.

Second, if President Rhee wanted to go on fighting alone, he could sacrifice all his people and they could all die martyrs and heroes. But they would have no country left.

The negotiations between Robertson and Rhee went on from there with many ups and downs and more downs than ups. Some of the worst downs were caused by American stupidity in other corners.

On the day that President Rhee came closest to agreeing to all American proposals, a U. S. Army "free" radio in Tokyo broadcast a completely false rumor that President Rhee was breaking off the negotiations. This incensed the old Korean patriot greatly.

He said it was American Army propaganda and trickery and he demanded an apology, though neither General Mark Clark nor any other American official had been responsible for it.

Over obstacles such as these, Korean agreement to the armistice was finally achieved by endless patience and tact, in one of the most difficult diplomatic negotiations of the Korean war period. It is the first such delicate deals before there can be peace in that troubled area.

First Man to Diet!

William Banting, a London undertaker (1797-1878) was the first person to diet. He was 5 foot 5 and weighed 202 pounds. He consulted doctors who told him to exercise but the more he exercised the more he ate. Finally suffering from deafness he consulted Dr. William Harvey who told him that the deafness may have been a result of obesity. Dr. Harvey suggested that he try to cut out bread, butter, milk, sugar, beer, soup, potatoes and beans.

Within a few weeks Banting's weight dropped 46 pounds and he was so happy that he published a pamphlet on dieting. This pamphlet (1863) had many editions and ushered in the age of dieting, which was long known as "Banting."

UN Officials Are Found Yielding Principles Following Truce; Sacrifices Forgotten

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 29 — After the truce—what?

The answer is already being given, for the news is filled with double-talk from some UN officials here and abroad—the start of a welching on promises and a surrender of principles as the sacrifices of the brave are quickly forgotten. In Washington, in London, in Paris—they are already talking "compromise," and ultimate admission of Red China into the Security Council of the UN. The aggressor of yesterday is to be the bosom friend of tomorrow, even though 5,000 Americans who were taken prisoners by the Reds were instantly murdered, or tortured to death.

A majority of UN member nations are reported ready to isolate the U. S. Government which officially still opposes Red China. A surprising number of people in this country, however, seem to feel that it is time "to accommodate" Red China. Certain manifestations of the present day make this writer wonder if the America he knew and read about in school is passing and if the things that used to evoke American pride and patriotism are now smothered, if not suppressed, in an atmosphere that seeks to make what is unmoral appear moral. Diplomacy, for example, is viewed as a convenient device to make palatable what is plainly wrong in principle.

To illustrate: A leading newspaper which has been advocating a warm attitude toward the government of Red China gives its advice editorially on the forthcoming "political conference." It says:

"For resiliency—the ability to adjust quickly to new situations—is a primary qualification of adept diplomacy. In this case an indication, now that we do not intend merely to stand pat on the China question, might do a lot to avoid later difficulty with our allies."

Then one turns to another page and reads there an article written by a veteran American commentator on international affairs who is highly regarded in Britain and Europe generally. He writes:

"A round table conference could discuss new constructive plans for Korea in which Mr. Dulles' promises would be transcended and the United States, to put it bluntly, gotten off the hook. . . .

"It would be impossible for Mr. Dulles to honor all the promises, for they are often hopelessly contradictory and some are positively weird. . . ."

There follows a reference to some of the promises made to President Rhee of the Republic of Korea in particular, which it appears now we didn't mean to keep at all. Secretary Dulles evidently will have a hard time explaining all this to Syngman Rhee in the personal conferences of the coming weeks.

Next one finds dispatches from the Communist side. Having heard in the last few days some radio speeches by American officials about how the truce in Korea is a "victory for collective security," it is disconcerting to read now that Malenkov and Molotov are claiming a big "victory" in Korea. One disposes of these, however, as mere "propaganda"—and that's that.

But what meets the eye next? On Page 16—far away from the other pieces of news and comment—is another item. It has a single column headline: "Aid increase to Indo-China feared." This dispatch from Indo-China tells us that French officials "expressed deep concern over the possibility that the Chinese now would turn southward to boost the quantity of war materials they have been sending to the Communist-led Viet-Minh."

The same dispatch also says that the United States ambassador in Indo-China, Donald Heath, said that the Korean truce "certainly makes easier" for Red China to send in more assistance to the forces led by Moscow-trained Ho Chi-minh.

What has become of the solemn warnings issued by our government and the governments of Great Britain and France that a truce in Korea must not mean a build-up of the aggressor in Indo-China? Maybe this is one of the statements that now must be overcome with some sort of "resiliency" that will get the statesmen on our side "off the hook."

Logically, if present-day pacifism and peace-at-any-price policies are a true reflection of American opinion, then it is to be presumed that the draft law will be repealed and serious consideration given to the prompt withdrawal of American forces from Europe as well as Asia. For, it will be asked, why use military threats or armament language at all—why not leave it all to the "resiliency" of the new-fashioned diplomacy?

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Senator Mike Monroney, of Oklahoma, an inveterate and politically insensate New Dealer of the old Roosevelt dispensation, took it upon himself to exalt the Central Intelligence Agency as a means of abusing Senator Joe McCarthy when McCarthy thought of questioning an official of the CIA who had given $400 to the Hiss defense fund.

Monroney's harrangue provides a fair idea of the monstrous authority and arrogance of this extravagant secret bureau which is known to have provided several millions of our money to carry on the work of David Dubinsky's two communist political agents, Jay Lovestone and Irving Brown, now operating in Europe.

Lovestone had some experience as a practical Bolshevik in the days of the Bolshevik butcheries in Russia, but Brown's reputation as a bad man of the barricades is a propaganda production foisted on gullible editorial foremen of magazines and newspapers by crafty or gullible hacks of journalism.

Monroney said McCarthy wanted "to explore the innermost secrets of this highly confidential and secret arm of the national security." He reminded the Senate that the National Security Council, composed of President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon, the secretaries of state, defense, army, navy and air force and the chairman of the National Security Resources Board, had the duty of supervising the CIA. Few Americans know who these secretaries and the chairman of the National Security Resources Board are. The fact that President Eisenhower fell for Irving Brown as a suitable chief of internal disorder and other hostile activities to be fomented by the United States in friendly countries abroad, does not enhance Ike's reputation as a competent judge of "intelligence" operations.

Continuing, Monroney said: "Up to the time of (McCarthy's) demand, Congress had respected the necessary confidential nature and secret operation of Central Intelligence. No listing of appropriation is even provided for in the bills which Congress passes, so secret is the nature of this operation. The act establishing its policy reads: 'In the interest of the security of the foreign intelligence activities of the United States and to implement the proviso that the director of CIA shall be responsible for protecting intelligence sources and methods from unauthorized disclosure, the agency shall be exempted from the provisions which require publication of the organization, functions, names, official titles, salaries or numbers of personnel employed; provided that the director of the budget shall make no reports to Congress in connection with the agency.'"

Monroney said "not even cabinet members are generally informed as to the full text or origin" of the CIA's reports which go across the desk of President Ike.

"It could hardly be called a New Deal agency and thus subjected to the general suspicion so assiduously built up to create doubt in the people's minds of the loyalty of its then Democratic leaders," he continued.

At this point it is pertinent to note that General Bedell Smith, Ike's chief of staff in the war, was chosen by Roosevelt for advancement from Lieut.-Col. to Lieut.-General, chosen by Truman to be director of the CIA, and latterly chosen by Ike to the No. 2 position in the State Department, under John Foster Dulles, whose brother, Allan, succeeded him in the C.I.A. Moreover, William Bundy, the CIA man under both Smith and Allan Dulles, who gave the $400 for the Hiss defense, is a son-in-law of Dean Acheson and a member of the Acheson coterie. His father is an old friend of Acheson and his brother, McGeorge Bundy, wrote a book praising Acheson's foreign policy, defending Acheson's continuing friendship for Hiss and proclaiming a family tie between the Bundys and the Achesons. So when Monroney said popular doubt of the loyalty of leaders of the Roosevelt-Truman Democratic administration had been "assiduously" built up, he could fairly have added that these leaders, themselves, were the most assiduous builders of that doubt. Truman repeatedly called the Hiss trial a red herring and Acheson said he could not turn his back on Alger Hiss.

Monroney said McCarthy's investigation of Bundy's sentiments toward Hiss and Communists would disclose to "our enemies" information that the Kremlin's spies could not get for themselves, failing, however, to face the possibility implicit in McCarthy's proposal, that the Kremlin already had spies in the CIA disguised as Harvard double-domes of the Acheson-Frankfurter persuasion. Many such were disclosed by the House Committee on Un-American Activities, including Hiss, himself, an actual Frankfurter plant by his own grudging admission.

Monroney then resorted to a familiar ruse of seduction and evasion often practised by Eleanor Roosevelt to distract suspicion from her friends and discredit the congressional disclosures. He said the FBI was a better agency to investigate traitorism than McCarthy's committee, but refrained from mentioning the fact that the FBI cannot reveal its discoveries, some of which were suppressed by the White House influence during the Roosevelt-Truman regime. The FBI's discoveries can't embarrass a spy or traitor if they lie secret in the files. The revelations of a congressional committee, on the contrary, raise hell in print and have shown up Monroney's party and Eleanor Roosevelt's as the accomplice of the most appalling treachery in our history. However, Monroney did pink himself on the raw when he said, "I do not think J. Edgar Hoover and his well-trained men have wasted the $470 million that Congress has given them since 1947.

In the first place, as Monroney

POPULATION INCREASE

As the days roll by, more and more of us get a feeling of being pressed in upon. It's common to blame this on the tensions of the cold war, the frustrations of the unsettled little wars, the strain of the high cost of living.

No doubt all these things contribute. But we don't have to look to such mental harassments for the whole answer. For, in fact, we are being subjected to more and more actual physical pressures all the time.

They come from population increases, and everything that follows in their train. From the last official census on April 1, 1950, to June 1 of this year, the U. S. population has shot up an astounding 8,341,000, according to federal estimates.

If this pace were to be maintained until the next regular census in 1960, the decade's gain would be upwards of 25,000,000. Most population experts still are gasping from the 19,575,000 increase that took place in the past 10 years. During the previous decade, the rise was just a bit over 9,000,000.

So today's 160,000,000 may be 175,000,000 in another seven years. Some of the guessers have been talking about 200,000,000 at the turn of the century, but unless the rate of increase slackens materially, that figure may seem a trifle silly when the time arrives.

The point of it is that we seem to be in the midst of a veritable population revolution. Since most of the gains are reflected in the country's great cities, these are literally overrun with people.

For many years, Max Yergan was a Negro leader associated with Communists. He and Frederick Vanderbilt Field operated an enterprise to influence Negroes to support the Communist line. Several years ago, Max Yergan saw the light, had a fight on ideological grounds with Field who literally dispossessed Yergan from his office.

I have observed Yergan's conduct for five years and slowly reached the conclusion that this man had walked the road to Damascus and has seen the truth. At any rate, in a quiet, unobtrusive manner he has been fighting Communism among the Negroes, undoing the evils he had formerly wrought. This he has been doing without personal benefit.

The basis of Communist activity among Negroes is racism. While the Communists preach loudly that they oppose racism, actually their work achieves an accentuation on race, an over-emphasis of what has, in the past 20 years in this country, come to be known as minority problems. Search the literature, say, in the years between 1900 and 1930 for the word, minority, as applying to American citizens and it will rarely be found. It is a continental European concept, emphasized during World War I and recognized in Woodrow Wilson's Fourteen Points. Since 1930, that word has become common parlance and many Americans actually believe that they belong to a minority.

Now that Max Yergan is definitely on the American side of the fence, he finds himself in a fiery conflict with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which is the Negro defense organization in this country, fighting racial discrimination with considerable vehemence. Its guiding spirit is Walter White.

All so-called defense organizations sooner or later become so hipped on racial problems that they create racial antagonisms, unwittingly, it is true, by their very existence. Whereas they seek social justice, they actually only too often stimulate antagonisms which defeat the ends they seek.

Max Yergan stated this idea in the course of his controversy with the N.A.A.C.P.:

". . . the majority opinion of the country has for over three quarters of a century supported the theory of full citizenship for all. The idea is embodied in the Constitution and though slow, at times, to find fullest expression, it is now, with sweeping rapidity, being expressed at most levels of our country's life. It is not too much to say that public policy in the United States is today based on the theory and practice of first class citizenship for all its citizens. I do not say that that goal has been reached. But what is of highest importance is that America is committed to that principle and that is the direction in which we are rapidly traveling."

Further, he attacks the heart of the problem in reference to a position that Walter White took. Yergan said:

". . . what is Mr. White's warrant for trying to set up two separate entities: 'the Negro' and 'America'? Negroes are Americans and some 15 million Americans are Negroes. The battlefields of Europe and Korea bear eloquent testimony to this fact. When he seeks to set us apart rather than acknowledge our growing unity, Mr. White does a distinct disservice to the cause of interracial progress in America. Our problems are to be solved within our National family; certainly not with other National communities. I know of many thousands of Asians and Africans who will be highly amused by Mr. White's argument about our losing 'their support.' One of the best things we can do, and in this Mr. White should help and not hinder, is to make known to the world the sifinificant story of interracial progress and the substantial progress among Negroes in our country."

And that is the point of the matter. While every effort should be made to prove how well off all classes of Americans are compared with identical groups in other parts of the world, these various defense agencies, by their unwarranted emphasis on our differences, which in a free society must be numerous, create the utterly false impression that we live here in an atmosphere of hate. Such an emphasis may give these defense organizations a reason for existence, but they could serve America better on the constructive side.

Only these groups benefit the United States which increase cooperation and mutual aid among the components of the American population.

That Body of Yours

THE MATURE INDIVIDUAL

I have written before of examining the boys of a reformatory school and finding a few who were tranferred later to a mental institution. In examining the boys of this mental institution, I found only one that I thought was normal from his answers to my questions. In speaking to the medical superintendent, he said this "bright" boy had so greatly interested the local photographer that he had asked the superintendent if he could allow the boy to go to work for him. The superintendent then asked the boy how much he would expect the photographer to pay him and the boy said he thought he should be paid 10 cents a week.

It is this inability to meet the needs or demands or everyday life that is just the difference between normal and subnormal individuals and why these subnormals need institutional care.

In "Mental Hygiene," Dr. F. S. DuBois, in an article, "The Security of Discipline," states that fortunate is the individual who has attained such self-direction that leads to inner security, the preservation of mental health and the integrity of personality necessary for wise decisions and ethical or proper conduct. This makes him a mature individual.

The immature individual's attitude toward society is indicated by his goal as expressed in terms of "what can I get out of it?" The mature individual thinks and acts in terms of "what can I give?" "What opportunity for service is available?"

Habits of thoughtfulness, consideration, kindness and tolerance have crystalized in the personality and have made self-evident the fact that usefulness brings the greatest satisfaction in life; that happiness is based not upon material things alone but upon the security of a self-disciplined life motivated by interest in the welfare of one's fellowmen.

However, we must always remember that while some sufferers from poor health put up a heroic struggle, most of us are irritable and selfish to some degree. To be able to act with the welfare of our fellowman in mind, we must be our best selves. We can only be our best selves if we can keep well. Even simple everyday disappointments can affect us as Chesterton stated, "an attack of indigestion, a sleepless night, and a rainy morning can make a coward out of one who otherwise might be a hero."

While generally speaking, the mind controls the body, there are times when the body controls the mind. If the body is kept healthy by keeping liver active by ordinary work or exercise, thus keeping blood free from poisons and wastes, and the lungs removing wastes so that pure blood nourishes the brain, the brain will always be at its best. And the three things to watch are diet, rest, exercise.

One Puts Up With a Lot Under Certain Conditions

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, and Walter S. Robertson, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, flew to Korea on the same plane at the end of June. Secretary Robertson was headed for his now famous armistice talks with Korean President Syngman Rhee.

During the flight, General Collins observed that Secretary Robertson would probably be returning in a few days. The general hoped they could come back together.

Secretary Robertson hesitated a moment before answering and then observed, perhaps something like a Chinese philosopher, that in the Orient it was impossible to buy even a suit of clothes in a few days. He didn't think he would be coming back that soon.

Events turned out exactly that way. General Collins completed his business with the military in short order and then winged back to the United States. Secretary Robertson stayed two weeks.

This little incident may explain whatever success there will be in concluding an armistice with the Communists and getting President Rhee to go along with it.

As the senior American truce negotiator between the Chinese Nationalists and Communists at the end of the war, Mr. Robertson got to know something about how the Oriental mind works.

Came To Know Red Leaders

He became well acquainted with Mao Tse-tung, the Chinese Communist president, and with Chou En-lai, his premier. The American diplomat spent days in conference with them, and spent weekends at their headquarters. He learned to respect those men for just what they are and he learned you can't do business with Communists.

In his China war experience, Mr. Robertson had never met Syngman Rhee. The Korean president was entirely different from the Chinese Communist leaders. Rhee is a devout Christian. But he was also an Oriental, just as proud and just as firm a believer in his own convictions as the Communist leaders were in theirs.

Before Secretary Robertson began his conferences with President Rhee, a number of Americans apparently tried to tell him how to handle the Korean. "If everybody knows how to handle him," the secretary is supposed to have observed, "what's the problem?" Of course it wasn't that simple.

In the beginning of the negotiations, the Korean president was encouraged to do all the talking. He talked by the hour, while Robertson sat and listened. President Rhee recited his grievances against the Americans. They were many, going back to the end of the Russo-Japanese War of 1904, when the U. S. okayed Japan's right to occupy Korea. They went on through U. S. acceptance of the 38th Parallel as the dividing line for Korean occupation at the end of the war, up to the latest hassle over release of prisoners of war.

Grief Put On Record

With all this grief put on the record over a period of several days, the air was cleared and it was possible to get down to business. There were two very fundamental truths to point out:

First, if it had not been for American assistance, President Rhee wouldn't have any country at all.

Second, if President Rhee wanted to go on fighting alone, he could sacrifice all his people and they could all die martyrs and heroes. But they would have no country left.

The negotiations between Robertson and Rhee went on from there with many ups and downs and more downs than ups. Some of the worst downs were caused by American stupidity in other corners.

On the day that President Rhee came closest to agreeing to all American proposals, a U. S. Army "free" radio in Tokyo broadcast a completely false rumor that President Rhee was breaking off the negotiations. This incensed the old Korean patriot greatly.

He said it was American Army propaganda and trickery and he demanded an apology, though neither General Mark Clark nor any other American official had been responsible for it.

Over obstacles such as these, Korean agreement to the armistice was finally achieved by endless patience and tact, in one of the most difficult diplomatic negotiations of the Korean war period. It is the first such delicate deals before there can be peace in that troubled area.

First Man to Diet!

William Banting, a London undertaker (1797-1878) was the first person to diet. He was 5 foot 5 and weighed 202 pounds. He consulted doctors who told him to exercise but the more he exercised the more he ate. Finally suffering from deafness he consulted Dr. William Harvey who told him that the deafness may have been a result of obesity. Dr. Harvey suggested that he try to cut out bread, butter, milk, sugar, beer, soup, potatoes and beans.

Within a few weeks Banting's weight dropped 46 pounds and he was so happy that he published a pamphlet on dieting. This pamphlet (1863) had many editions and ushered in the age of dieting, which was long known as "Banting."

UN Officials Are Found Yielding Principles Following Truce; Sacrifices Forgotten

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 29 — After the truce—what?

The answer is already being given, for the news is filled with double-talk from some UN officials here and abroad—the start of a welching on promises and a surrender of principles as the sacrifices of the brave are quickly forgotten. In Washington, in London, in Paris—they are already talking "compromise," and ultimate admission of Red China into the Security Council of the UN. The aggressor of yesterday is to be the bosom friend of tomorrow, even though 5,000 Americans who were taken prisoners by the Reds were instantly murdered, or tortured to death.

A majority of UN member nations are reported ready to isolate the U. S. Government which officially still opposes Red China. A surprising number of people in this country, however, seem to feel that it is time "to accommodate" Red China. Certain manifestations of the present day make this writer wonder if the America he knew and read about in school is passing and if the things that used to evoke American pride and patriotism are now smothered, if not suppressed, in an atmosphere that seeks to make what is unmoral appear moral. Diplomacy, for example, is viewed as a convenient device to make palatable what is plainly wrong in principle.

To illustrate: A leading newspaper which has been advocating a warm attitude toward the government of Red China gives its advice editorially on the forthcoming "political conference." It says:

"For resiliency—the ability to adjust quickly to new situations—is a primary qualification of adept diplomacy. In this case an indication, now that we do not intend merely to stand pat on the China question, might do a lot to avoid later difficulty with our allies."

Then one turns to another page and reads there an article written by a veteran American commentator on international affairs who is highly regarded in Britain and Europe generally. He writes:

"A round table conference could discuss new constructive plans for Korea in which Mr. Dulles' promises would be transcended and the United States, to put it bluntly, gotten off the hook. . . .

"It would be impossible for Mr. Dulles to honor all the promises, for they are often hopelessly contradictory and some are positively weird. . . ."

There follows a reference to some of the promises made to President Rhee of the Republic of Korea in particular, which it appears now we didn't mean to keep at all. Secretary Dulles evidently will have a hard time explaining all this to Syngman Rhee in the personal conferences of the coming weeks.

Next one finds dispatches from the Communist side. Having heard in the last few days some radio speeches by American officials about how the truce in Korea is a "victory for collective security," it is disconcerting to read now that Malenkov and Molotov are claiming a big "victory" in Korea. One disposes of these, however, as mere "propaganda"—and that's that.

But what meets the eye next? On Page 16—far away from the other pieces of news and comment—is another item. It has a single column headline: "Aid increase to Indo-China feared." This dispatch from Indo-China tells us that French officials "expressed deep concern over the possibility that the Chinese now would turn southward to boost the quantity of war materials they have been sending to the Communist-led Viet-Minh."

The same dispatch also says that the United States ambassador in Indo-China, Donald Heath, said that the Korean truce "certainly makes easier" for Red China to send in more assistance to the forces led by Moscow-trained Ho Chi-minh.

What has become of the solemn warnings issued by our government and the governments of Great Britain and France that a truce in Korea must not mean a build-up of the aggressor in Indo-China? Maybe this is one of the statements that now must be overcome with some sort of "resiliency" that will get the statesmen on our side "off the hook."

Logically, if present-day pacifism and peace-at-any-price policies are a true reflection of American opinion, then it is to be presumed that the draft law will be repealed and serious consideration given to the prompt withdrawal of American forces from Europe as well as Asia. For, it will be asked, why use military threats or armament language at all—why not leave it all to the "resiliency" of the new-fashioned diplomacy?

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Senator Mike Monroney, of Oklahoma, an inveterate and politically insensate New Dealer of the old Roosevelt dispensation, took it upon himself to exalt the Central Intelligence Agency as a means of abusing Senator Joe McCarthy when McCarthy thought of questioning an official of the CIA who had given $400 to the Hiss defense fund.

Monroney's harrangue provides a fair idea of the monstrous authority and arrogance of this extravagant secret bureau which is known to have provided several millions of our money to carry on the work of David Dubinsky's two communist political agents, Jay Lovestone and Irving Brown, now operating in Europe.

Lovestone had some experience as a practical Bolshevik in the days of the Bolshevik butcheries in Russia, but Brown's reputation as a bad man of the barricades is a propaganda production foisted on gullible editorial foremen of magazines and newspapers by crafty or gullible hacks of journalism.

Monroney said McCarthy wanted "to explore the innermost secrets of this highly confidential and secret arm of the national security." He reminded the Senate that the National Security Council, composed of President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon, the secretaries of state, defense, army, navy and air force and the chairman of the National Security Resources Board, had the duty of supervising the CIA. Few Americans know who these secretaries and the chairman of the National Security Resources Board are. The fact that President Eisenhower fell for Irving Brown as a suitable chief of internal disorder and other hostile activities to be fomented by the United States in friendly countries abroad, does not enhance Ike's reputation as a competent judge of "intelligence" operations.

Continuing, Monroney said: "Up to the time of (McCarthy's) demand, Congress had respected the necessary confidential nature and secret operation of Central Intelligence. No listing of appropriation is even provided for in the bills which Congress passes, so secret is the nature of this operation. The act establishing its policy reads: 'In the interest of the security of the foreign intelligence activities of the United States and to implement the proviso that the director of CIA shall be responsible for protecting intelligence sources and methods from unauthorized disclosure, the agency shall be exempted from the provisions which require publication of the organization, functions, names, official titles, salaries or numbers of personnel employed; provided that the director of the budget shall make no reports to Congress in connection with the agency.'"

Monroney said "not even cabinet members are generally informed as to the full text or origin" of the CIA's reports which go across the desk of President Ike.

"It could hardly be called a New Deal agency and thus subjected to the general suspicion so assiduously built up to create doubt in the people's minds of the loyalty of its then Democratic leaders," he continued.

At this point it is pertinent to note that General Bedell Smith, Ike's chief of staff in the war, was chosen by Roosevelt for advancement from Lieut.-Col. to Lieut.-General, chosen by Truman to be director of the CIA, and latterly chosen by Ike to the No. 2 position in the State Department, under John Foster Dulles, whose brother, Allan, succeeded him in the C.I.A. Moreover, William Bundy, the CIA man under both Smith and Allan Dulles, who gave the $400 for the Hiss defense, is a son-in-law of Dean Acheson and a member of the Acheson coterie. His father is an old friend of Acheson and his brother, McGeorge Bundy, wrote a book praising Acheson's foreign policy, defending Acheson's continuing friendship for Hiss and proclaiming a family tie between the Bundys and the Achesons. So when Monroney said popular doubt of the loyalty of leaders of the Roosevelt-Truman Democratic administration had been "assiduously" built up, he could fairly have added that these leaders, themselves, were the most assiduous builders of that doubt. Truman repeatedly called the Hiss trial a red herring and Acheson said he could not turn his back on Alger Hiss.

Monroney said McCarthy's investigation of Bundy's sentiments toward Hiss and Communists would disclose to "our enemies" information that the Kremlin's spies could not get for themselves, failing, however, to face the possibility implicit in McCarthy's proposal, that the Kremlin already had spies in the CIA disguised as Harvard doubledomes of the Acheson-Frankfurter persuasion. Many such were disclosed by the House Committee on Un-American Activities, including Hiss, himself, an actual Frankfurter plant by his own grudging admission.

Monroney then resorted to a familiar ruse of seduction and evasion often practised by Eleanor Roosevelt to distract suspicion from her friends and discredit the congressional disclosures. He said the FBI was a better agency to investigate traitorism than McCarthy's committee, but refrained from mentioning the fact that the FBI cannot reveal its discoveries, some of which were suppressed by the White House influence during the Roosevelt-Truman regime. The FBI's discoveries can't embarrass a spy or traitor if they lie secret in the files. The revelations of a congressional committee, on the contrary, raise hell in print and have shown up Monroney's party and Eleanor Roosevelt's as the accomplice of the most appalling treachery in our history. However, Monroney did pink himself on the raw when he said, "I do not think J. Edgar Hoover and his well-trained men have wasted the $470 million that Congress has given them since 1947.

In the first place, as Monroney

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The Ruminator hazards the thought that it will require a lot of contrary thinking to keep our balance in the months just ahead.

There are very strong feelings and pent-up emotions concerned with the Korean war and the long-delayed armistice.

The American temperament is mercurial. We change our ideas and our opinions as fast as old-time lightning-change artists in the vaudeville shows changed their costumes.

I don't know in just what scientific words the psychologists would describe these "psychic" shifts, but you have witnessed lightning-like changes in opinions about given events many times in the past, I know.

What occurs is that initial reactions to events—whether they be exciting, shocking, sudden, or long-delayed — what happens is that first reactions are emotional. Later, secondary reactions set in, which are a result of the emotions being overtaken by the thinking apparatus. The brain takes over where the heart left off.

It might be compared to the "cold, grey dawn of the morning after."

When you try to analyze the Korean armistice in this respect you have two separate and distinct "emotional and thought processes" to deal with:

a. You have those who have prayed for an armistice on any terms, regardless of appeasement or negotiation. These groups wanted the Korean war over regardless of losing face or any other qualification. In their viewpoint, it is an honorable armistice because the purpose of the war was to stop aggression. Aggression has been stopped, in their view. Therefore, the armistice is correct and proper.

b. Then you have the other school of thought which believes that the armistice is a dishonorable end of the conflict for the United States; that it means we have "surrendered."

Obviously, these two groups will have different opinions, also, on what will happen now that the armistice has been signed.

The first group is emotionally pleased, while the other is emotionally upset and sore about the whole situation.

Their attitudes toward the future will vary accordingly.

It seems to the Ruminator that we have got to divorce our minds somehow from either viewpoint. The way to be contrary to this question is to put out of our minds at once any personal opinion about the right or wrong of the armistice decisions.

In other words, say to yourself, "Here, the armistice is signed. What comes next?"

You can deal intelligently with the effects of finished piece of business only if you look upon the probable results as a completely fresh problem to analyze. Perhaps I do not make myself clear. What I am driving at is that if we permit our emotions, that have been stirred up over something that has already happened, to enter into our consideration of the next problem, then we are almost sure to guess wrong.

What we have to think about now is such a question as this: Toward what will Russia's and Red China's energies be directed now that they can relax their Korean efforts? The general opinion about this guessy question will undoubtedly be that Russia and Red China will immediately start aggressions in other areas of southeast Asia; and step up the war in Indo-China. In other words, this is the "obvious" viewpoint you'll read about.

Being contrarians we'll wish to think on an opposite tack. Supposing both Russia and Red China are interested (at the moment) in stimulating trade and production, rather than in further warfare. Their strategy might well be put on a compaign aimed at strengthening their economic situations while hoping at the same time to further weaken ours. It would only take further brief era of "peaceful intentions" to sway opinions among the "western nations" far over toward the "let's-do - business - with - Russia - and-China" attitude. That attitude lies very close to the surface of our allies' thoughts and wishes.

We haven't space to enter into other speculations (and it would be previous to try to guess too much). We'll soon get the "feel" of world opinions and be able to start a profitable train of contrary thought.

Britain's Tourist Report

London (AP)—How does the average American tourist spend his cash in Britain? The British travel association estimates that 45 cents of every dollar goes to hotels and food; 20 cents on inland transport and 15 cents on entertainment. Such things as clothes and souvenirs take up the rest. Britain's earnings from all overseas visitors in 1952 were about $320,600,000, the association estimates. This was nearly 30 per cent more than 1951 and it is expected that 1953 will set an all-time record. Tourists are still Britain's biggest source of dollars.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The Ruminator hazards the thought that it will require a lot of contrary thinking to keep our balance in the months just ahead.

There are very strong feelings and pent-up emotions concerned with the Korean war and the long-delayed armistice.

The American temperament is mercurial. We change our ideas and our opinions as fast as old-time lightning-change artists in the vaudeville shows changed their costumes.

I don't know in just what scientific words the psychologists would describe these "psychic" shifts, but you have witnessed lightning-like changes in opinions about given events many times in the past, I know.

What occurs is that initial reactions to events—whether they be exciting, shocking, sudden, or long-delayed — what happens is that first reactions are emotional. Later, secondary reactions set in, which are a result of the emotions being overtaken by the thinking apparatus. The brain takes over where the heart left off.

It might be compared to the "cold, grey dawn of the morning after."

When you try to analyze the Korean armistice in this respect you have two separate and distinct "emotional and thought processes" to deal with:

a. You have those who have prayed for an armistice on any terms, regardless of appeasement or negotiation. These groups wanted the Korean war over regardless of losing face or any other qualification. In their viewpoint, it is an honorable armistice because the purpose of the war was to stop aggression. Aggression has been stopped, in their view. Therefore, the armistice is correct and proper.

b. Then you have the other school of thought which believes that the armistice is a dishonorable end of the conflict for the United States; that it means we have "surrendered."

Obviously, these two groups will have different opinions, also, on what will happen now that the armistice has been signed.

The first group is emotionally pleased, while the other is emotionally upset and sore about the whole situation.

Their attitudes toward the future will vary accordingly.

It seems to the Ruminator that we have got to divorce our minds somehow from either viewpoint. The way to be contrary to this question is to put out of our minds at once any personal opinion about the right or wrong of the armistice decisions.

In other words, say to yourself, "Here, the armistice is signed. What comes next?"

You can deal intelligently with the effects of finished piece of business only if you look upon the probable results as a completely fresh problem to analyze. Perhaps I do not make myself clear. What I am driving at is that if we permit our emotions, that have been stirred up over something that has already happened, to enter into our consideration of the next problem, then we are almost sure to guess wrong.

What we have to think about now is such a question as this: Toward what will Russia's and Red China's energies be directed now that they can relax their Korean efforts? The general opinion about this guessy question will undoubtedly be that Russia and Red China will immediately start aggressions in other areas of southeast Asia; and step up the war in Indo-China. In other words, this is the "obvious" viewpoint you'll read about.

Being contrarians we'll wish to think on an opposite tack. Supposing both Russia and Red China are interested (at the moment) in stimulating trade and production, rather than in further warfare. Their strategy might well be put on a compaign aimed at strengthening their economic situations while hoping at the same time to further weaken ours. It would only take further brief era of "peaceful intentions" to sway opinions among the "western nations" far over toward the "let's-do - business - with - Russia - and-China" attitude. That attitude lies very close to the surface of our allies' thoughts and wishes.

We haven't space to enter into other speculations (and it would be previous to try to guess too much). We'll soon get the "feel" of world opinions and be able to start a profitable train of contrary thought.

Scout Welcome Is Expected at 1 P.M.

Although it is difficult to estimate the time, it is presumed that the public welcome for Rip Van Winkle Council returnees from the Boy Scout jamboree in California will take place Friday at 1 p. m.

Chairman C. Robert Cousins of the Chamber of Commerce in charge of the reception has announced that the party will be held at Academy Green, and stressed that everybody is welcome to attend.

Cousins said that Kingston Post, 150, American Legion will be represented through Ulster Voiture, 40 & 8, which will have its locomotive in the parade from the city line on Albany avenue to Academy Park.

Anthony Alecca and Lester C Elmendorf will be in charge of the locomotive.

There will be a police escort at the head of the line.

Cousins said the special scout train is scheduled to arrive in Albany at 9:35 a. m. but could not say exactly when the boys would leave on buses for Kingston because of time it will take to transfer baggage and complete other arrangements.

The bald eagle is not actually bald. After it is several years old, the feathers of the head become shining white, giving a bald appearance.

Britain's Tourist Report

London (AP)—How does the average American tourist spend his cash in Britain? The British travel association estimates that 45 cents of every dollar goes to hotels and food; 20 cents on inland transport and 15 cents on entertainment. Such things as clothes and souvenirs take up the rest. Britain's earnings from all overseas visitors in 1952 were about $320,600,000, the association estimates. This was nearly 30 per cent more than 1951 and it is expected that 1953 will set an all-time record. Tourists are still Britain's biggest source of dollars.

Hard to Keep

Although it has proved impossible to keep the Arctic blue fox in captivity, it is kept on small Alaska islands, fed and then trapped when the fur is prime.

Rosendale

Rosendale, July 28—The Grange hall was filled to capacity Friday night when the members of the Cottekill volunteer fire company and the auxiliary presented the minstrel, Say It With Music. The show will be repeated again Friday night, July 31. Proceeds will be used toward the construction of a new firehall at Cottekill.

The annual fair and baked ham dinner of the Rosendale Reformed Church Ladies' Aid and the Service Guild combined will be held Thursday, July 30. The fair will get under way at 10 a. m., when handmade articles, aprons, and other items will be available. The dinner will be served from 5:30 p. m. The public is invited.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

National Contest Shows New Plays

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The contract bridge national championships are usually held in the eastern part of the country, which makes it difficult for players who live west of the Rockies. This year the Summer National Championship will be held in St. Louis, and a strong contingent is expected from the Far West.

Despite the difficulty of distance, the game is fundamentally the same in all parts of the country. Bridge players who live west of the Rockies aim to demonstrate next week, in the national championships, that they can bid as hard and play harder than the easterners.

Today's hand, played by Dan Westerfield of Phoenix, Ariz., may give you some idea of the type of bridge they play there.

North bid his head off, it should be admitted, but he relied on his partner to bring the hand home if there was any play for it. This is exactly what Westerfield proceeded to do when he was lucky enough to get a club opening lead. A spade opening lead would have cooked his hash immediately.

Westerfield won the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs, discarding a spade from his hand. He ruffed a club, entered dummy with the ace of diamonds, and ruffed another club. He then proceeded to run the rest of his trumps.

When South led his last trump, everybody had to reduce to four cards. Dummy's last five cards were the king of spades, three hearts, and a club. East had two spades and three hearts.

West had to save a club and two spades, so he threw his low heart. Dummy discarded the low club, and East had to blank the ace of spades in order to save three hearts.

Thereupon Westerfield cashed the ace of hearts, dropping West's jack, and put East in with the ace of spades to lead up to dummy's hearts.

If West had kept only one spade, dummy would still pitch the club, and East would be obliged to blank his ace of spades. South would then hold on to the ace of hearts and lead one of his two spades. All of the top spades would fall, and South's eight of spades would be good for the twelfth trick.

TV May Cause Aches

Los Angeles, July 29 (AP)—That aching back may be caused by television slump. Dr. N. H. Lidenberg of St. Paul, Minn., told the National Chiropractic Association convention yesterday: "Long hours sitting and watching television frequently bring compression of the important nerve branches because of the relaxed, sagging, overlong body slump. No harmful effects will result, however, if you sit tall."

WOODSTOCK NEWS

Wittenberg Shoot Is Held on Sunday

Woodstock, July 28—The hills of Wittenberg rang Sunday afternoon from 1 p. m. to dusk with the almost continuous rounds of shotgun fire as many crack marksmen of the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club and guests from other sportsmen's clubs, matched their respective skills at the club's mid-summer trap shoot. Throughout the afternoon the men in relays of five took aim at the spinning clay disks, while the small fry present carried on their own game of grabbing for the spent shells on the ground at the end of each round.

Officers and members of the club were highly gratified at the substantial amount raised during the afternoon for the benefit of Fred Markle, past president of the club, who was injured in an automobile accident. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the club, which served a cafeteria supper from 3 p. m. until 7 p. m., also contributed to the fund.

One-Man Show Opens

Committee to Study Firehouse Location

Woodstock, Juy 28—A special meeting of the Woodstock Fire Company No. 2, was held at the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club Thursday night.

Company No. 2 had received a letter from the Woodstock Fire Commissioners saying that the fire truck which is now being housed at Augustus Shultis' garage on the Wittenberg road, may be placed in a firehouse to be located anywhere between its present location and the Wittenberg Store.

The commissioners have given permission to the officers of the company to select the location for the firehouse. Two sites are at present being considered, one on the lot adjoining Nelson Shultis new sawmill, and the other is the lumber yard on the Wittenberg road opposite the old Shultis sawmill.

A building and finance committee has been appointed by Everett Cashdollar to fully investigate the necessary steps to be taken toward a new building.

Chairmen Are Named For Festival Plans

Woodstock, July 28—The Woodstock Festival committee, which is planning an event to take place at the Woodstock Playhouse, Friday, September 4, met Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Zaidenberg. The group is now in the process of changing the name of the Woodstock Festival to the Yasuo Kuniyoshi Fund, by which it will be known in the future. Carl Fortess will serve as chairman and will be assisted by Arnold Blanch and Sidney Laufman, co-chairmen.

Other committee chairmen are as follows: Mrs. Sidney Laufman, Hannah Small and Sophie Seigel, tickets; Arthur Zaidenberg, Edward Millman, Anton Refregier and Bruce Currie, program editing and layout; William J. Eisner, advertising; Cecile Forman, Amy Gans Small, Norma Millman, Wendell Jones, and Polly Klein, publicity; Herman Cherry, decorations; Phoebe Towbin and Tommy Beere, box lunch; Bruce Currie, Eugene Ludins, set-ups and soft drinks; Edward Chavez, posters; Ethel Magafan and Gladys Brodsky, special feature; Wendell Jones, dance committee; Edward Chavez, Edward Millman and students, clean-up committee.

Further details will be announced.

Will Meet Wednesday

Woodstock, July 28—There will be a special meeting of the Auxiliary of American Legion Auxiliary, Post 1026, Wednesday at the Legion Hall at 8 p. m.

Nabb Opens Show

Woodstock, July 28—Designs spacial in concept and airily executed are being shown at the Parnassus Gallery in the new show of work by Paul Nabb, which opened Monday night and will continue through Aug. 8. Nabb has undoubtedly derived his inspiration from looking skyward in this age of telephone poles, criss-crossing wires, television masts with even a few creatures of the air included. All of the designs begin with a white background on which has been applied lines of varying thickness down to cobweb thin sprays in colored inks and watercolor. Quite a few contain the elements of mobiles captured in two dimensions. Nabb is a self-taught artist who has spent the past three years painting in Woodstock. His approach is exceedingly original and arresting.

Village Notes

Woodstock, July 28—Robert H. Harris, Woodstock Playhouse director in 1952, and his actress wife, Viola, were in the village last weekend and attended the show between rehearsals of The Goldbergs TV program for which he has signed as Jake. They were accompanied by their son, Stevie.

Abraham L. Sainer is recuperating at his Manhattan apartment after a recent illness.

The hostesses at the opening reception of the sculpture and drawing exhibition at the Art Gallery Saturday afternoon were Mary Early, chairman; Janes Jones, Betty Gonzales, and Peggy Dodds. Refreshments were provided by Mrs. Irving Brown and Miss Helen Gerardia.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Jones entertained at a dinner party Friday night for Mrs. Eugene Walter Small. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ludins, Mr. and Mrs. John Small, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Zaidenberg and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sturges.

Mr. and Mrs. Belmont Towbin gave a barbecued chicken party Saturday night.

Doris Lee and Arnold Blanch entertained at a party at their home Saturday afternoon following the Art Gallery opening.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Muller of Phoenicia attended the Art Gallery opening Saturday afternoon. Muller is the president of the Phoenicia Fish and Game Club.

Mr. and Mrs. David Smith of Bolton Landing, Lake George, were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Millman. William Vorenberg, who is the head of the drama department of NYU also was the weekend guest of the Millmans.

Joseph Leon, of this village, who is now in the play Bell, Book and Candle, with Barry Sullivan and Vivica Lindfors, goes into the New York production of The Seven Years Itch in August.

Louis Jacobs, motion picture photographer, has taken a home in Lower Byrdcliffe for the remainder of the summer.

Clement Greenberg, art critic of The Nation is in this village and in the near future will visit Mr. and Mrs. David Smith at their home in Bolton Landing.

A grass or legume that can be made into hay will also make a good quality silage.

LONG-DISTANCE COMFORT—Eddie Rauss, Jr., of Doylestown, Pa., put in a long-distance call from Newport Beach, Calif., after he learned his dog, Allegretta, had not eaten since Eddie left for a Boy Scout Jamboree. After the talk the dog ate for the first time and the family hopes he'll continue to eat whenever a recording of the talk is played back to him.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

National Contest Shows New Plays

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The contract bridge national championships are usually held in the eastern part of the country, which makes it difficult for players who live west of the Rockies. This year the Summer National Championship will be held in St. Louis, and a strong contingent is expected from the Far West.

Despite the difficulty of distance, the game is fundamentally the same in all parts of the country. Bridge players who live west of the Rockies aim to demonstrate next week, in the national championships, that they can bid as hard and play harder than the easterners.

Today's hand, played by Dan Westerfield of Phoenix, Ariz., may give you some idea of the type of bridge they play there.

North bid his head off, it should be admitted, but he relied on his partner to bring the hand home if there was any play for it. This is exactly what Westerfield proceeded to do when he was lucky enough to get a club opening lead. A spade opening lead would have cooked his hash immediately.

Westerfield won the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs, discarding a spade from his hand. He ruffed a club, entered dummy with the ace of diamonds, and ruffed another club. He then proceeded to run the rest of his trumps.

When South led his last trump, everybody had to reduce to four cards. Dummy's last five cards were the king of spades, three hearts, and a club. East had two spades and three hearts.

West had to save a club and two spades, so he threw his low heart. Dummy discarded the low club, and East had to blank the ace of spades in order to save three hearts.

Thereupon Westerfield cashed the ace of hearts, dropping West's jack, and put East in with the ace of spades to lead up to dummy's hearts.

If West had kept only one spade, dummy would still pitch the club, and East would be obliged to blank his ace of spades. South would then hold on to the ace of hearts and lead one of his two spades. All of the top spades would fall, and South's eight of spades would be good for the twelfth trick.

TV May Cause Aches

Los Angeles, July 29 (AP)—That aching back may be caused by television slump. Dr. N. H. Lidenberg of St. Paul, Minn., told the National Chiropractic Association convention yesterday: "Long hours sitting and watching television frequently bring compression of the important nerve branches because of the relaxed, sagging, overlong body slump. No harmful effects will result, however, if you sit tall."

Wittenberg Shoot Is Held on Sunday

Woodstock, July 28—The hills of Wittenberg rang Sunday afternoon from 1 p. m. to dusk with the almost continuous rounds of shotgun fire as many crack marksmen of the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club and guests from other sportsmen's clubs, matched their respective skills at the club's mid-summer trap shoot. Throughout the afternoon the men in relays of five took aim at the spinning clay disks, while the small fry present carried on their own game of grabbing for the spent shells on the ground at the end of each round.

Officers and members of the club were highly gratified at the substantial amount raised during the afternoon for the benefit of Fred Markle, past president of the club, who was injured in an automobile accident. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the club, which served a cafeteria supper from 3 p. m. until 7 p. m., also contributed to the fund.

One-Man Show Opens

Committee to Study Firehouse Location

Woodstock, Juy 28—A special meeting of the Woodstock Fire Company No. 2, was held at the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club Thursday night.

Company No. 2 had received a letter from the Woodstock Fire Commissioners saying that the fire truck which is now being housed at Augustus Shultis' garage on the Wittenberg road, may be placed in a firehouse to be located anywhere between its present location and the Wittenberg Store.

The commissioners have given permission to the officers of the company to select the location for the firehouse. Two sites are at present being considered, one on the lot adjoining Nelson Shultis new sawmill, and the other is the lumber yard on the Wittenberg road opposite the old Shultis sawmill.

A building and finance committee has been appointed by Everett Cashdollar to fully investigate the necessary steps to be taken toward a new building.

Chairmen Are Named For Festival Plans

Woodstock, July 28—The Woodstock Festival committee, which is planning an event to take place at the Woodstock Playhouse, Friday, September 4, met Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Zaidenberg. The group is now in the process of changing the name of the Woodstock Festival to the Yasuo Kuniyoshi Fund, by which it will be known in the future. Carl Fortess will serve as chairman and will be assisted by Arnold Blanch and Sidney Laufman, co-chairmen.

Other committee chairmen are as follows: Mrs. Sidney Laufman, Hannah Small and Sophie Seigel, tickets; Arthur Zaidenberg, Edward Millman, Anton Refregier and Bruce Currie, program editing and layout; William J. Eisner, advertising; Cecile Forman, Amy Gans Small, Norma Millman, Wendell Jones, and Polly Klein, publicity; Herman Cherry, decorations; Phoebe Towbin and Tommy Beere, box lunch; Bruce Currie, Eugene Ludins, set-ups and soft drinks; Edward Chavez, posters; Ethel Magafan and Gladys Brodsky, special feature; Wendell Jones, dance committee; Edward Chavez, Edward Millman and students, clean-up committee.

Further details will be announced.

Will Meet Wednesday

Woodstock, July 28—There will be a special meeting of the Auxiliary of American Legion Auxiliary, Post 1026, Wednesday at the Legion Hall at 8 p. m.

Horseback Riders Due Here Sept. 15

Woodstock, July 28—The four young people who left June 15, from Austin, Tex., on horseback, with their object Bearsville or Bust, arrived at Helena, Ark., last Sunday. The quartet from Bearsville are Nini Galpin, 22; Candis Hitzig, 17; Bruce Whiteley, 16, and Rupert Hitzig, 15, and their entourage is composed of four saddle horses and four pack horses, as well as tents and other equipment for camping out. In accordance with their schedule they expect to arrive in Bearsville Sept. 15.

The youngest in the group, Rupert Hitzig, also is carrying on the pack of his horse a violin. His teacher, Pierre Henrotte of the New Orleans Symphony and summer resident of the Maverick, is speculating as to how much practicing he is doing while en route Rupert's sister, Candis Hitzig, who is preparing to study Greek and Latin at Oxford next fall, plans to write an account of the trip.

The group also reports that they have been entertained by both Kiwanis Clubs and the Chambers of Commerce of the various cities and towns which they have passed. Since it takes them many hours to cover the same mileage of roads over which the truck drivers in the area pass in several trips, the horse borne group have acquired many friends of the road including railroad men and other travelers.

Nabb Opens Show

Woodstock, July 28—Designs spacial in concept and airily executed are being shown at the Parnassus Gallery in the new show of work by Paul Nabb, which opened Monday night and will continue through Aug. 8. Nabb has undoubtedly derived his inspiration from looking skyward in this age of telephone poles, criss-crossing wires, television masts with even a few creatures of the air included. All of the designs begin with a white background on which has been applied lines of varying thickness down to cobweb thin sprays in colored inks and watercolor. Quite a few contain the elements of mobiles captured in two dimensions. Nabb is a self-taught artist who has spent the past three years painting in Woodstock. His approach is exceedingly original and arresting.

The Mature Parent

There's Reason for Shyness In Explaining Sex to Child

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Kate is 13. Her mother is shy about giving her the sex information she knows she needs. She writes, "Can you recommend a book that will tell her what she should know?"

Yes. Let her send 30 cents to the Child Study Association of America, 132 East 74th street, New York, N. Y., and ask for its publication, "When Children Ask About Sex." Though it is written for parents, it not only contains some of the information Kate should have but also a list of other books on the subject for a girl of her age.

The Child Study Association always hopes that parents and children can read such material together. Because of her shyness, I expect Kate's mother may find this hard to do.

If so, let's face the truth. We are failing Kate in a most vital way.

Let's face it without any shame at all. It is not our fault that we fear to discuss sex with our child. We must be as tender with our fear as we can.

If we are tender with it, we can look at it honestly. We can see that our terror of discussing sex with Kate is really terror of admitting we have experienced it in order to bring her here.

We may see that we fear this admission because we believe it must lose us dignity in her eyes. We may see that in order to preserve our dignity, we want books to mother Kate for us and tell how how she came to be born.

If we can follow this far, we may ready for another step. We may be able to ask ourselves, "Isn't there something terribly wrong about a dignity that wants to duck out of such a personal responsibility as telling our child how we brought her here?"

There is something terribly wrong with it, of course. Our shyness is not true dignity at all. It's fear.

If our all-powerful childhood authority attacked sex as evil and "nasty," we were deeply, deeply affected. The shame we then felt may still be so closey attached to us that when Kate wants to know how she got here, it panics us.

We want books by strangers to break the awful news that mother has had sex experience.

Now we see why we must not condemn ourselves for our shyness. We've had quite enough condemnation without adding our own to the burden. What we need is the tenderness that was withheld by your childhood authority. If we can feel it for ourselves, we'll be able to share some with Kate as we hand her the list of recommended reading.

We may be able to say, "I'm ducking out of this job I should do, dear, because I have not outgrown my baby fear of this subject."

Band Competition Slated This Year At Dutchess Fair

Rhinebeck, July 29—Acting on Dutchess County Agricultural Society President Arthur L. Shepherd's request for more band music at the 108th Dutchess County Fair here Sept. 1-5, fair directors are arranging a high school band competition with award money tentatively set at $100.

Several area high schools, which have summer bands available will be invited to compete. Different bands will participate each day. A panel of judges will rate the groups on a point system considering their marching and playing quality. The winners of a first, second and third awards will be named on the closing day.

"I'm sure these bands will add a lot of color to our county fair," said Shepherd, and added "I'm sure the award money can be put to good use by the bands or the band boosters clubs."

$18,000 in Award Fund

Fair directors this year have set up a fund of more than $18,000 for distribution as award money in the exhibit areas and in other classified competitions.

The 4-H Club section alone, which hopes to have approximately 5,400 separate exhibits, has a fund of $4,797 for awards.

Fair directors are working on several innovations for the 1953 presentation at Springbrook Park, including possibly square dancing under the lights. Regular and expanded features include Grange exhibits, dairy and beef cattle shows, farm produce, crafts, homemaking exhibits, a gigantic midway, fish and game exhibits, horse racing, and a three-day pony and horse show.

Mousetrap Atoms

Pittsburgh (AP)—Carnegie Institute of Technology is using the mousetraps to explain the intricacies of atomic energy. Enclosed in a plexi-glass case are 60 mousetraps (like atomic nuclei) with rubber corks on them (similar to neutrons in the atom nucleus). This represents the critical mass needed to get and keep the chain reaction going. A rubber cork "triggers" the mousetrap-nuclei, dropping like an atom-smashing neutron through a hole in the case. Boom go the snapping traps, bouncing the corks to other traps and other corks, with the whole chain reacting like a slow-motion A-bomb.

Register Buys Star at Hudson

Hudson, July 29 (AP)—The Hudson Register, an afternoon newspaper, today announced the purchase of The Hudson Star, a morning newspaper, and its consolidation with the Register.

The consolidated Register-Star will be published in the afternoon. The Star plant will be operated as a commercial job department.

William F. Decker is president of the Record Printing and Publishing Co. Inc., which will publish the consolidated paper. Miss Anna C. Kennedy is vice president, Mrs. Margaret T. Proctor is secretary, and Mrs. Laura H. Kennedy, widow of the former publisher, is treasurer.

Henry James, editor of the Star, will continue with the Register-Star in an editorial capacity.

Fire Prevention

Chickasha, Okla. (AP)—Fire Chief Bill Suddarth has launched a new fire prevention campaign here to keep drouth-parched yards and roadside area free from glass bottles. He explained: "When the sun beats down on that glass, it acts like a magnifying glass. We believe this is the cause of many grass and brush fires."

As Pegler Sees It

knows, the FBI "cooperates" only at arm's length with the CIA because it regards the CIA as a bunch of silly amateurs, at best, and doesn't trust it. In the second place, although Monroney can roll off the end of his tongue the amount that Congress has given the FBI since 1947, nobody in the entire United States outside a secret circle of persons unknown, is permitted to know how much the taxpayers have handed over to the CIA, subject to absolutely no question or accounting, what was done with it or what results were accomplished by a gang of idle adventurers and loafers.

FLAPPERS, FUN and the ROARING 20's

Clara Bow was Hollywood's "It" girl. Texas Guinan was a queen, even in pants. There were the Ziegfeld girls, the Vanities and John "Hamlet" Barrymore. Atlantic City's first bathing-beauty pageant introduced skin-tight swim suits and bare arms and legs. Women drank next to men in speakeasies. On the dance floor, anything went; and Ted Lewis shouted, "Is everybody happy?"

There's Reason for Shyness In Explaining Sex to Child

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Kate is 13. Her mother is shy about giving her the sex information she knows she needs. She writes, "Can you recommend a book that will tell her what she should know?"

Yes. Let her send 30 cents to the Child Study Association of America, 132 East 74th street, New York, N. Y., and ask for its publication, "When Children Ask About Sex." Though it is written for parents, it not only contains some of the information Kate should have but also a list of other books on the subject for a girl of her age.

The Child Study Association always hopes that parents and children can read such material together. Because of her shyness, I expect Kate's mother may find this hard to do.

If so, let's face the truth. We are failing Kate in a most vital way.

Let's face it without any shame at all. It is not our fault that we fear to discuss sex with our child. We must be as tender with our fear as we can.

If we are tender with it, we can look at it honestly. We can see that our terror of discussing sex with Kate is really terror of admitting we have experienced it in order to bring her here.

We may see that we fear this admission because we believe it must lose us dignity in her eyes. We may see that in order to preserve our dignity, we want books to mother Kate for us and tell how how she came to be born.

If we can follow this far, we may ready for another step. We may be able to ask ourselves, "Isn't there something terribly wrong about a dignity that wants to duck out of such a personal responsibility as telling our child how we brought her here?"

There is something terribly wrong with it, of course. Our shyness is not true dignity at all. It's fear.

If our all-powerful childhood authority attacked sex as evil and "nasty," we were deeply, deeply affected. The shame we then felt may still be so closey attached to us that when Kate wants to know how she got here, it panics us.

We want books by strangers to break the awful news that mother has had sex experience.

Now we see why we must not condemn ourselves for our shyness. We've had quite enough condemnation without adding our own to the burden. What we need is the tenderness that was withheld by your childhood authority. If we can feel it for ourselves, we'll be able to share some with Kate as we hand her the list of recommended reading.

We may be able to say, "I'm ducking out of this job I should do, dear, because I have not outgrown my baby fear of this subject."

Band Competition Slated This Year At Dutchess Fair

Rhinebeck, July 29—Acting on Dutchess County Agricultural Society President Arthur L. Shepherd's request for more band music at the 108th Dutchess County Fair here Sept. 1-5, fair directors are arranging a high school band competition with award money tentatively set at $100.

Several area high schools, which have summer bands available will be invited to compete. Different bands will participate each day. A panel of judges will rate the groups on a point system considering their marching and playing quality. The winners of a first, second and third awards will be named on the closing day.

"I'm sure these bands will add a lot of color to our county fair," said Shepherd, and added "I'm sure the award money can be put to good use by the bands or the band boosters clubs."

$18,000 in Award Fund

Fair directors this year have set up a fund of more than $18,000 for distribution as award money in the exhibit areas and in other classified competitions.

The 4-H Club section alone, which hopes to have approximately 5,400 separate exhibits, has a fund of $4,797 for awards.

Fair directors are working on several innovations for the 1953 presentation at Springbrook Park, including possibly square dancing under the lights. Regular and expanded features include Grange exhibits, dairy and beef cattle shows, farm produce, crafts, homemaking exhibits, a gigantic midway, fish and game exhibits, horse racing, and a three-day pony and horse show.

Mousetrap Atoms

Pittsburgh (AP)—Carnegie Institute of Technology is using the mousetraps to explain the intricacies of atomic energy. Enclosed in a plexi-glass case are 60 mousetraps (like atomic nuclei) with rubber corks on them (similar to neutrons in the atom nucleus). This represents the critical mass needed to get and keep the chain reaction going. A rubber cork "triggers" the mousetrap-nuclei, dropping like an atom-smashing neutron through a hole in the case. Boom go the snapping traps, bouncing the corks to other traps and other corks, with the whole chain reacting like a slow-motion A-bomb.

William F. Decker is president of the Record Printing and Publishing Co. Inc., which will publish the consolidated paper. Miss Anna C. Kennedy is vice president, Mrs. Margaret T. Proctor is secretary, and Mrs. Laura H. Kennedy, widow of the former publisher, is treasurer.

Henry James, editor of the Star, will continue with the Register-Star in an editorial capacity.

Fire Prevention

Chickasha, Okla. (AP)—Fire Chief Bill Suddarth has launched a new fire prevention campaign here to keep drouth-parched yards and roadside area free from glass bottles. He explained: "When the sun beats down on that glass, it acts like a magnifying glass. We believe this is the cause of many grass and brush fires."

As Pegler Sees It

knows, the FBI "cooperates" only at arm's length with the CIA because it regards the CIA as a bunch of silly amateurs, at best, and doesn't trust it. In the second place, although Monroney can roll off the end of his tongue the amount that Congress has given the FBI since 1947, nobody in the entire United States outside a secret circle of persons unknown, is permitted to know how much the taxpayers have handed over to the CIA, subject to absolutely no question or accounting, what was done with it or what results were accomplished by a gang of idle adventurers and loafers.

Lawmakers Differ With Oil Dealers On Gasoline Hikes

New York, July 28 (AP)—Gasoline price hikes just now snag the pocketbooks of many a vacationing motorist.

They puzzle some congressmen who can't see how higher prices fit into the law of supply and demand (supposedly restored with the end of price controls). The supply of crude oil is kept so closely tailored to demand as to look like fixing to some inquiring congressmen.

Oilmen contend price hikes are necessary and just, and in the long run in the interest of national defense. Their arguments run like this:

The price hike in crude oil, and in gasoline, fuel oil and other products which followed, was based on rising operating costs.

The search for oil is becoming more expensive. They have to drill deeper each year to find it. The cost of tranporting oil, refining it and distributing the products to the public keeps going up.

And in the interests of national defense, the oil industry is maintaining a reserve of a million-barrel-a-day capacity from which it gets only carrying costs, no revenue.

Profits Are Behind

Earnings statements of oil companies show that profits for the first half of 1953 are running behind those of a year ago—a trend contrary to that in many other industries. The oil industry expects the recent price hikes to reverse that picture.

Under the law of supply and demand, however, operating costs can be passed along in higher prices only if: 1. The consuming public will accept them; and 2. Competitors don't under-cut the price.

That's where oilmen have to bring up extra arguments. Because the law of supply and demand in their case is frankly tailored by state laws to see that only enough oil is taken from the ground to meet current demand. These conservation laws prevent waste of the nation's reserves of oil.

They also incidentally put a stabilizer on prices, legally maintaining a balance between supply and demand, and thus discouraging price-cutting.

Point to Danger

Without conservation regulation soil might be pumped too fast from a given oil field, so that the underground pressure needed to force oil to the well is quickly expended and a major part of the oil may be lost forever.

The nation needs these oil reserves. For defense it also needs to encourage the search for more oil fields. More than 47,000 new wells are being drilled this year, a record.

Oilmen insist that to get men to take drilling risks (they strike oil less often than they end up with a dry hole) there must be the incentive of profit. With operating costs rising, prices must rise, too, or risk-taking will drop.

So goes the oilmen's argument. It is the same argument used to justify the 27½ per cent tax allowance for oil depletion the industry enjoys.

Small producers and refiners have an added argument in defense of hiking prices although suppliers of oil products are ample. They contend that big oil companies can survive even if running on small profit margins for a time, but that the little man hasn't the financial reserves that sustain the big one. Some contend that without the recent price hikes they'd have had to close down.

CAN'T KEEP HIM "GROUNDED"—The Air Force's only quadruple amputee, Clarence (Red) Mosley, A/2c., of Paterson, N. J., waits behind the wheel of a specially equipped automobile at Walter Reed Hospital, in Washington, as he prepares to take a driver's test. Mosley, 22, suffered multiple wounds when shot down over Korea.

Flier Ends in Sub

Groton, Conn., July 29 (AP)—Air Force Capt. W. G. Siever of the Bronx, N. Y., took off in a jet fighter on an "air alert mission" and ended up in a submarine. Flying about 11 miles south of Westerly, R. I., yesterday his engine failed and he parachuted into the waters of Long Island Sound. Capt. Siever, who is based at the Suffolk County, L. I., Air Force Base, was rescued unhurt by a submarine on a training mission out of the naval base here.

During a normal year, about six million enterprises in the United States hire labor at some time.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

They say the moving picture on the sinking of the Titanic is coming to Kingston. The Kingston Freeman and Journal of Friday, April 19, 1912, cover the actual event. One item reads "Kingston man on the Titanic. William Gwynn of 53 Linderman avenue, a mail clerk whose duties take him back and forth across the ocean, is thought to have been on the ill-fated Titanic. No word, however, has been received by his relatives to verify it." In another part of the paper they say: "As stated in The Freeman, Tuesday evening, William Gwynn, a son of Mrs. A. G. Gwynn, of 53 Linderman avenue, was on the ill-fated Titanic. Mr. Gwynn was one of the three American clerks in charge of the mail on board the boat. The other two were J. S. March, of Newark, and O. S. Woodie of Washington, D. C. No word, however, has been received as yet as to whether he was rescued or not, but hopes are entertained by his relatives that he may possibly be one of the survivors on the Carpathia. Mr. Gwynn has been in the post office service for the past 17 years."

It further says: "Gwynn has a wife and two children, one three years and the other two months old. The family formerly lived in the Ashokan region and bought the Linderman avenue property when driven out by the water works. Gwynn is a nephew of Dr. C. H. Bishop of this city."

The April 23, 1912 Freeman said that "Local mail clerk sank with Titanic. . . . Gwynn worked over mail sacks till explosion occurred . . . he with other clerks stood at their post, registering parcels, letters first, thinking the mail may be saved. When it became apparent that the ship was sinking they only worked more quickly and enlisted the services of the stewards still left aboard to aid them that the work might be hastily completed. Gwynn had long held a reputation for bravery. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American War and was at the front in Cuba with the 71st New York militia. The steward was taken off in life-boat No. 15, and the last he saw of Gwynn, as he described it, was while the life-boat crawled away into the night."

"Gwynn and the other four mail clerks were still working over the mail bags cool and self-contained until the explosion came. No one can say that they attempted to get into the life-boats or thought of themselves for a single moment. They stuck to that which their governments had entrusted to their care, and went down with the ship. Gwynn had been connected with the Sea Post Service of the United States government since 1909 and had never been in a disaster at sea before. Previous to his assignment to ocean duty he had been a clerk in the Manhattan postoffice since 1895."

The Freeman further said: "There were 200 sacks of registered mail containing 400,000 pieces aboard the Titanic, according to Postmaster General Hitchcock. When last seen by survivors, William L. Gwynn, two other American clerks and two British mail clerks were transferring registered mail from the ship's postoffice to the safety of the upperdeck. They were working in two feet of water, one of the officers of the Titanic said, before they went down to their watery grave."

Hunt for Bridegroom

Lawton, Okla., July 29 (AP)—Officers today were looking for Robert D. Bullock, Lubbock, Tex., tree surgeon who was married in an unusual ceremony at a beer tavern here Saturday. A bigamy charge was filed again the newlywed by Mrs. Aline Bullock of Childress, Tex., who claims Bullock is her husband, the father of her three children. Bullock was wed at the bar Saturday to Mrs. Alice Elkin, a waitress there. He said they chose that site for the ceremony because of sentimental reasons.

Has Her 19th Child

Nanticoke, Pa., July 29 (AP)—A 43-year-old wife of a truck driver gave birth to her 19th child, a girl, yesterday. The baby was delivered by Caesarean section to Mrs. Ernest Lanning in Nanticoke State Hospital. Seventeen of the Lanning children—12 girls and five boys—are living.

Pursuit... by Telephone

He was the doctor in a military school. He might have to operate on one of the students within a few hours. But he hadn't been able to reach the parents to get their permission. All he could learn from the boy was that the parents were on an automobile trip. He called friends and relatives to find out where the boy's parents might have gone. No luck. The family's minister thought they had mentioned Cape Cod. The doctor then appealed to our operator for help.

She called hotels in the Cape Cod area . . . and finally found one that the boy's folks had just left. She got a description of their car and the direction it was headed. Within an hour the car was spotted along the route and the doctor's call completed.

Emergencies of this sort don't happen very often. But when they do, you can count on telephone people to find time for the important "extras" that make your telephone service so personal, so friendly, and so dependable 24 hours every day. New York Telephone Company.

Lawmakers Differ With Oil Dealers On Gasoline Hikes

New York, July 28 (AP)—Gasoline price hikes just now snag the pocketbooks of many a vacationing motorist.

They puzzle some congressmen who can't see how higher prices fit into the law of supply and demand (supposedly restored with the end of price controls). The supply of crude oil is kept so closely tailored to demand as to look like fixing to some inquiring congressmen.

Oilmen contend price hikes are necessary and just, and in the long run in the interest of national defense. Their arguments run like this:

The price hike in crude oil, and in gasoline, fuel oil and other products which followed, was based on rising operating costs.

The search for oil is becoming more expensive, They have to drill deeper each year to find it. The cost of tranporting oil, refining it and distributing the products to the public keeps going up.

And in the interests of national defense, the oil industry is maintaining a reserve of a million-barrel-a-day capacity from which it gets only carrying costs, no revenue.

Profits Are Behind

Earnings statements of oil companies show that profits for the first half of 1953 are running behind those of a year ago—a trend contrary to that in many other industries. The oil industry expects the recent price hikes to reverse that picture.

Under the law of supply and demand, however, operating costs can be passed along in higher prices only if: 1. The consuming public will accept them; and 2. Competitors don't under-cut the price.

That's where oilmen have to bring up extra arguments. Because the law of supply and demand in their case is frankly tailored by state laws to see that only enough oil is taken from the ground to meet current demand. These conservation laws prevent waste of the nation's reserves of oil.

They also incidentally put a stabilizer on prices, legally maintaining a balance between supply and demand, and thus discouraging price-cutting.

Point to Danger

Without conservation regulation soil might be pumped too fast from a given oil field, so that the underground pressure needed to force oil to the well is quickly expended and a major part of the oil may be lost forever.

The nation needs these oil reserves. For defense it also needs to encourage the search for more oil fields. More than 47,000 new wells are being drilled this year, a record.

Oilmen insist that to get men to take drilling risks (they strike oil less often than they end up with a dry hole) there must be the incentive of profit. With operating costs rising, prices must rise, too, or risk-taking will drop.

So goes the oilmen's argument. It is the same argument used to justify the 27½ per cent tax allowance for oil depletion the industry enjoys.

Small producers and refiners have an added argument in defense of hiking prices although suppliers of oil products are ample. They contend that big oil companies can survive even if running on small profit margins for a time, but that the little man hasn't the financial reserves that sustain the big one. Some contend that without the recent price hikes they'd have had to close down.

Flier Ends in Sub

Groton, Conn., July 29 (AP)—Air Force Capt. W. G. Siever of the Bronx, N. Y., took off in a jet fighter on an "air alert mission" and ended up in a submarine. Flying about 11 miles south of Westerly, R. I., yesterday his engine failed and he parachuted into the waters of Long Island Sound. Capt. Siever, who is based at the Suffolk County, L. I., Air Force Base, was rescued unhurt by a submarine on a training mission out of the naval base here.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

They say the moving picture on the sinking of the Titanic is coming to Kingston. The Kingston Freeman and Journal of Friday, April 19, 1912, cover the actual event. One item reads "Kingston man on the Titanic. William Gwynn of 53 Linderman avenue, a mail clerk whose duties take him back and forth across the ocean, is thought to have been on the ill-fated Titanic. No word, however, has been received by his relatives to verify it." In another part of the paper they say: "As stated in The Freeman, Tuesday evening, William Gwynn, a son of Mrs. A. G. Gwynn, of 53 Linderman avenue, was on the ill-fated Titanic. Mr. Gwynn was one of the three American clerks in charge of the mail on board the boat. The other two were J. S. March, of Newark, and O. S. Woodie of Washington, D. C. No word, however, has been received as yet as to whether he was rescued or not, but hopes are entertained by his relatives that he may possibly be one of the survivors on the Carpathia. Mr. Gwynn has been in the post office service for the past 17 years."

It further says: "Gwynn has a wife and two children, one three years and the other two months old. The family formerly lived in the Ashokan region and bought the Linderman avenue property when driven out by the water works. Gwynn is a nephew of Dr. C. H. Bishop of this city."

The April 23, 1912 Freeman said that "Local mail clerk sank with Titanic. . . . Gwynn worked over mail sacks till explosion occurred . . . he with other clerks stood at their post, registering parcels, letters first, thinking the mail may be saved. When it became apparent that the ship was sinking they only worked more quickly and enlisted the services of the stewards still left aboard to aid them that the work might be hastily completed. Gwynn had long held a reputation for bravery. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American War and was at the front in Cuba with the 71st New York militia. The steward was taken off in life-boat No. 15, and the last he saw of Gwynn, as he described it, was while the life-boat crawled away into the night."

"Gwynn and the other four mail clerks were still working over the mail bags cool and self-contained until the explosion came. No one can say that they attempted to get into the life-boats or thought of themselves for a single moment. They stuck to that which their governments had entrusted to their care, and went down with the ship. Gwynn had been connected with the Sea Post Service of the United States government since 1909 and had never been in a disaster at sea before. Previous to his assignment to ocean duty he had been a clerk in the Manhattan postoffice since 1895."

The Freeman further said: "There were 200 sacks of registered mail containing 400,000 pieces aboard the Titanic, according to Postmaster General Hitchcock. When last seen by survivors, William L. Gwynn, two other American clerks and two British mail clerks were transferring registered mail from the ship's postoffice to the safety of the upperdeck. They were working in two feet of water, one of the officers of the Titanic said, before they went down to their watery grave."

Hunt for Bridegroom

Lawton, Okla., July 29 (AP)—Officers today were looking for Robert D. Bullock, Lubbock, Tex., tree surgeon who was married in an unusual ceremony at a beer tavern here Saturday. A bigamy charge was filed again the newly-wed by Mrs. Aline Bullock of Childress, Tex., who claims Bullock is her husband, the father of her three children. Bullock was wed at the bar Saturday to Mrs. Alice Elkin, a waitress there. He said they chose that site for the ceremony because of sentimental reasons.

Has Her 19th Child

Nanticoke, Pa., July 29 (AP)—A 43-year-old wife of a truck driver gave birth to her 19th child, a girl, yesterday. The baby was delivered by Caesarean section to Mrs. Ernest Lanning in Nanticoke State Hospital. Seventeen of the Lanning children—12 girls and five boys—are living.

Pursuit . . .
by Telephone

He was the doctor in a military school. He might have to operate on one of the students within a few hours. But he hadn't been able to reach the parents to get their permission. All he could learn from the boy was that the parents were on an automobile trip. He called friends and relatives to find out where the boy's parents might have gone. No luck. The family's minister thought they had mentioned Cape Cod. The doctor then appealed to our operator for help.

She called hotels in the Cape Cod area . . . and finally found one that the boy's folks had just left. She got a description of their car and the direction it was headed. Within an hour the car was spotted along the route and the doctor's call completed.

Emergencies of this sort don't happen very often. But when they do, you can count on telephone people to find time for the important "extras" that make your telephone service so personal, so friendly, and so dependable 24 hours every day. New York Telephone Company.

Dulles Eliminates Any Deal With Reds on Korean Unity

Washington, July 29 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles has virtually eliminated the possibility of making a deal with the Reds for unification of Korea.

Instead, he appeared to be shaping a policy similar to that of the west towards Germany—sticking to principles, counting on the attraction exerted by the free world on Communist satellites, and constantly keeping open the possibility of unification.

As applied to the Korean situation, such a policy contemplates failure of the forthcoming political conference to achieve Korean unification. Thus it sharpens the problem of what to do about South Korean President Syngman Rhee's threat to resume fighting for unity if it is not accomplished by agreement 90 days after the conference.

Will Go To Korea

Dulles will fly to Korea, leaving here next Sunday morning, one of his principal tasks well may be to try to persuade Rhee against resuming the war, whatever happens in the political meeting.

Meeting reporters for the first time since the armistice, Dulles said yesterday:

"As far as I am personally concerned, I think I have made it clear I would not be prepared on behalf of the United States to try to buy the unity of Korea at the price of a concession which would involve bringing Communist China into the United Nations and, above all, into the Security Council."

If the issue arose, he said, the United States would use its influence with other nations to swing a vote against UN admission of the Peiping regime.

Under questioning, he declined to say flatly that the United States would, if necessary, veto Red Chinese membership but he did say that the United States has the right of veto if it wants to use it.

Despite Dulles' assertion, most UN legal experts doubt that U. S. veto alone could keep Red China out of the UN. The question is not one of admitting a new member—which is subject to veto in the Security Council—but of which Chinese regime is entitled to China's membership.

Eisenhower Plans Benefits Message

Washington, July 29 (AP)—President Eisenhower was reported today to be planning a message to Congress this week urging an increase in social security benefits and greatly expanded coverage.

The President had been expected to seek coverage for more persons. But the proposal to liberalize methods of determining benefits would come as a surprise.

Sources close to the situation, who asked not to be identified, said the proposals would be intended for Congressional action next year—not in the current session.

Two Chief Points

They said the President's plan, his first step in carrying out a campaign pledge to improve social security, would have these two main points:

1. Adding more than 10 million persons to the present total of more than 60 million covered by the old age and survivors' insurance program.

The additions would include farm operators, migratory farm workers, professional people such as doctors and lawyers, transient domestic workers, some religious workers and some merchant seamen now excluded.

2. A new provision for determining benefits, letting workers deduct their four years of lowest pay in determining their average annual income under the system. Benefits are based on this average.

This would tend to increase the income average and thus increase benefits, especially for lower income groups who would need them most.

The administration was said to feel increased revenue from bringing an additional 10 million persons under the system would tend to offset higher costs of the increased benefits.

DA Might Probe

resort, said today: "We will continue business in the remaining buildings, and the hotel will be operated more or less on a European plan." He also indicated he plans to rebuild in the future.

Present buildings, he said, will accommodate about 100 guests. Before the fire the resort accommodated about 250.

Williams said 30 of the staff of 120 employes will be retained to operate the business, and most of the other 90 service employes who lost their jobs because of the fire, he expected, would get employment in other area resorts.

A temporary restaurant is being established in the Arch building which is near the two destroyed in the fire, and Williams said, "We will endeavor to feed as many as possible as best we can and those which we cannot handle we will make arrangements for elsewhere."

Different Slant on Origin

Williams said there appears to be "a different slant today" on the apparent starting place of the fire. It apparently started on the upper floor of the lodge instead of on the ground floor as was first believed, he said.

Two guests, whose names were not available, he said, had been sitting on the porch near the front entrance of the lodge at the time the fire was discovered.

One of these, it is believed, tapped on the window of the bake shop where the baker, Charles Kress, was rolling dough at the time, to notify him of the fire in the building.

Flames Came Downward

The watchman William Green, of Rosendale, was near Kress, Williams said, when the latter opened the front door, and Green reported that the flames appeared to come downward from the other floor. It is now believed the blaze started in an upper room or hallway.

Williams said that all guests' valuables left in a safe were intact and a "good portion of the bookkeeping records were saved," but the books used for the registering of guests were destroyed.

Most of the baggage, clothing, and personal effects of the estimated 120 guests, who fled the fire were lost in the blaze, Williams said.

Another Woman Admitted

Added to the list of injured released yesterday was the name of Mrs. Bertha Goldner, 77, of 46 Ayersport street, West Englewood, N. J., who was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment of shock some time after the others were admitted.

She and three others were reported in good condition today, but the condition of Miss Josephine Sheridan, 23, of 206 Windsor Place, Brooklyn, was reported in fair condition. She was reported as serious shortly after she was admitted yesterday morning for treatment of back injuries and shock.

The others were Frances Timmel, 31, of 156-01 28th avenue, Flushing, who suffered back injuries and shock; George Westerlund, 46, and his wife, May 46, of 847 Belle avenue, Teaneck, N. J. He suffered a leg injury and she multiple bruises and contusions.

All the injured at the Benedictine Hospital were reported in fair condition. They are:

Theodore Eckerlin, husband of the woman who was fatally injured, 58, of 115-28 104th Place, Ozone Park, who suffered a compound fracture of the left leg. Miss Mary McGurk, 46, of 77-54 Austin street, Forest Hills, who suffered a fracture of the right ankle and possible pelvic and chest injuries; Elaine Lachenmeyer, 16, and Rose Lachenmeyer, 38, both of 76-66 Austin street, Forest Hills, who suffered arm and leg injuries, and Mrs. Josephine Sheridan, 57, of 206 Windsor Place, Brooklyn, who suffered burns of the hands and face.

Clark Bonesteel, 46, of Port Ewen, engineer, and Hildreth A. Haines, 28, of 23 Stickles avenue, fireman on the Wallkill Valley freight train, late yesterday afternoon reported the fire as they saw it when the train was passing the hotel.

The sounding of air horns on the two-unit Diesel engine, said those who arrived early at the fire, was undoubtedly responsible for the saving of many lives.

Whole Inside Afire

Bonesteel said that he saw smoke as the train approached the area of the hotel and Haines said he could see that "the whole inside of the smaller house was on fire."

The two saw "a man in white, "believed to be the baker Charles Kess, running near the entrance of the lodge building.

Bonesteel said it appeared as though the fire was burning mostly in the middle of the building as the train drew near. Haines said "The engineer grabbed one air horn and I grabbed the other." And they sounded them for some time to rout the hotel guests.

The train continued toward the site of the former station with the air horns sounding, they said, and as the train drew near there, attempts were made to locate a fire signal unit that use to be in the vicinity, but it either had been removed, or they were unable to locate it in the darkness.

They then thought of notifying John Anderson, chief of the Binnewater fire department, but soon after they stopped near the station, they heard the fire siren.

Others on the train were J. J. Bowers, conductor and C. J. Lenihan and J. K. Scism, brakemen. One of the brakemen and the conductor were in the caboose.

Expresses Thanks

Walter Williams yesterday thanked the many individuals, organizations and officials who assisted at the resort after the fire. Among those not mentioned yesterday were the Rev. Donald Reedy, of St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, and the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra, of the Fair Street Reformed Church, Kingston. They assisted on the switch board, set in operation after the fire, and talked to relatives of the fire victims on the telephone.

The sheriff's office stationed Deputy Sheriff's Charles McCullough and Thomas Mayone at the scene of the fire throughout last night and Deputy Sheriff Chester E. Wolven was there during part of the night.

Sgt. Arthur Reilly, of the local state police station, said state police patrolled the area until midnight. Traffic to and from the area was heavy throughout the day.

Charles W. Smith, a New York city draftsman, one of the guests at the hotel, said he saw flames leap from the lodge to the main building, and he said, "When it hit the dining room, the flames swept through like a cannon and it soon was an inferno." He said he could hear screams above the crackling of the flames.

Other witnesses indicated that the flames were fanned by an early morning breeze.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 29 (AP)—Broad demand sent the stock market moderately higher today in quiet trading.

Gains ran into the major fractions with many leaders unchanged. Losses were small and scattered.

Volume stepped down to a rate a little less than a million shares for the entire day. Yesterday's total was 1,080,000 shares and 1,210,000 shares the previous day.

Steels were in demand early in the session and became rather a focal point for the rise. That section was bolstered by predictions of continued high production rates for the industry.

The motors and aircrafts also were higher along with the radio-televisions, air lines, and most coppers and chemicals. Holding steady were the utilities and oils.

U. S. Steel's fine earnings report yesterday after the close helped to bolster the list today, and other corporations continued to show high first half profits.

Plan to Return Slain Hunters

Gaspe, Que., July 29 (AP)—Relatives plan today to bring the remains of three mysteriously-slain bear hunters home to Pennsylvania for burial.

Clarence Claar, father of one victim, will drive from Gaspe to Hollidaysburg, Pa., carrying the bones of the dead hunters in a welded box strapped to the top of his car.

Motoring with him will be his wife and daughter and Clyde Sell, brother-in-law of Eugene Lindsey, another of the dead hunters. They had identified the remains at an inquest Monday.

The relatives will leave behind them the hunters' belongings—a truck, guns, hunting equipment and a few ragged pieces of clothing. All have been impounded by Quebec provincial police investigating the deaths.

A coroner's jury ruled that two of the men—17-year-old Richard Lindsey of Hollidaysburg, Pa., and 20-year-old Fred Claar of East Freedon, Pa., were "murdered by gunshot wounds at the hands of a person or persons unknown."

The jury found that the leader of the party, Richard Lindsey's 45-year-old father, Eugene H. Lindsey, died of "unknown causes."

Practice Is Held On PW Transfer

Seoul, July 29 (AP)—U. S. Marines simulating returned war prisoners ran through a practice session today in preparation for handling the flood of allied soldiers to be freed from Communist prison camps next week.

They skipped only one step—the ice cream that will be waiting at the end of the line.

Sixty leathernecks were rushed through the entire procession that will begin Aug. 5—the date set for the first allied POWs to begin streaming into Freedom Village.

Freedom Village—the name was coined during the exchange of sick and wounded allied POWs last April—is being moved about a mile from the original tent city.

The new quarters—bigger and more elaborate—will be only 100 yards from a rail line leading south to Seoul.

Processing will be done in a huge warehouse 334 feet by 110. Marines of the first shore party battalion are clearing the warehouse and partitioning rooms.

May Seek Tobey's Seat

Washington, July 29 (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R.-Vt.), who has declared the administration "foozled" the Korean settlement, appeared today to have first call on a vacant seat in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Unless his colleague, Sen. Aiken (R.-Vt.), should decide to claim the place, Flanders topped a list of GOP members eligible to succeed the late Sen. Tobey (R.-N.H.) on the important committee. Aiken was reported unlikely to give up either of his present assignments—as chairman of the Agriculture Committee and third ranking Republican on the Labor Committee—for a seat on the foreign relations group. Flanders has supported most of the administration's foreign policy programs but he told the Senate on July 8 that "not everyone is in favor of ending the conflict in Korea with a dishonorable truce or on dishonorable terms."

George McAneny Dies

Princeton, N. J., July 29 (AP)—George McAneny, 83, an organizer and first president of the New York World's Fair, died today at Princeton Hospital. His home was at 252 Bayard Lane, Princeton. McAneny engaged in a number of varied vocations during his long career in New York city civic and political affairs. He was a newspaperman, banker, publicist, an authority on civil service and transit.

Raising Debt Limit

President would request the limit raise a day or two before the scheduled weekend adjournment of Congress. But Johnson said he did not think the request would or should be made.

Asked what would happen to adjournment plans if it were, acting Senate Majority Leader Knowland (R.-Calif.) said, "let us not borrow trouble."

Several senators said they understood Speaker Joseph Martin (R.-Mass.) had predicted speedy House clearance for a bill to raise the ceiling. George said he thinks Senate Democrats will be solidly against it.

The Georgia senator says his present opposition is based on belief that if the debt limit isn't raised, "the administration will be forced to cut spending in the last half of the calendar year.

Big Money Bill Will Be Approved

Washington, July 29 (AP)—Congressional leaders driving for adjournment this weekend ticketed for quick approval in the House and Senate today the biggest money bill of the session, a defense budget of $34,371,541,000.

The figure was a compromise reached late yesterday by a Senate- House conference committee which ironed out some 50 differences in versions of the bill passed earlier by the two branches.

The group accomplished the rare congressional feat of agreeing to a total that was about 62½ million dollars below that originally voted by the House and nearly 140 millions less than voted by the Senate. The usual practice is to arrive at a figure between the two.

Final action was planned today, first by the House and then by the Senate, to send the bill to the White House. The total it carries is about 1½ billion dollars less than President Eisenhower asked and more than 6 billions below the budget recommendations of former President Truman.

Counting the defense budget, five of the 13 regular money bills Congress must pass to run the government in the fiscal year which started July 1 are still in Congress. Eight have been sent to the White House—three of them yesterday, carrying funds for the Labor and Welfare Departments, for a score of non-departmental agencies, and for the District of Columbia.

Sentences Reduced

Ft. Dix, N. J., July 29 (AP)—Heavy prison sentences for seven soldiers convicted of mutiny for failing to fall in for drill have been reduced to 10 years, the army announced today. Six of the men had been sentenced by a court martial to 20 years and one to 15 years. Maj. Gen. Homer W. Kiefer, commanding officer of Ft. Dix, reviewed the case and reduced all seven sentences to 10 years.

Red Police Arrest

set up to investigate the conduct of all party members during the June rebellion.

Another West Berlin paper, Der Tag, reported that 30 high officials in the secret police had been arrested since that group's Chief Wilhelm Zaisser, was kicked out of his job last week. The paper added that one secret police official in Erfurt committed suicide to avoid arrest.

Address Is Published

The Communist press published for the first time an address last weekend by East German Premier Otto Grotewohl in which he backhandedly revealed the great extent of the June riots, in which hundred's were killed and thousands arrested.

Denying the majority of the East Germans rose against his government, Grotewohl insisted "only" 272 communities were in revolt.

Grotewohl ominously warned that "our defenses against internal and external enemies will be increased," a statement that was taken by some western observers to mean that the 100,000 secret police and the 125,000-man Communist "People's Army" are going to be enlarged.

Dulles Eliminates Any Deal With Reds on Korean Unity

Washington, July 29 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles has virtually eliminated the possibility of making a deal with the Reds for unification of Korea.

Instead, he appeared to be shaping a policy similar to that of the west towards Germany—sticking to principles, counting on the attraction exerted by the free world on Communist satellites, and constantly keeping open the possibility of unification.

As applied to the Korean situation, such a policy contemplates failure of the forthcoming political conference to achieve Korean unification. Thus it sharpens the problem of what to do about South Korean President Syngman Rhee's threat to resume fighting for unity if it is not accomplished by agreement 90 days after the conference.

Will Go To Korea

Dulles will fly to Korea, leaving here next Sunday morning, one of his principal tasks well may be to try to persuade Rhee against resuming the war, whatever happens in the political meeting.

Meeting reporters for the first time since the armistice, Dulles said yesterday:

"As far as I am personally concerned, I think I have made it clear I would not be prepared on behalf of the United States to try to buy the unity of Korea at the price of a concession which would involve bringing Communist China into the United Nations and, above all, into the Security Council."

If the issue arose, he said, the United States would use its influence with other nations to swing a vote against UN admission of the Peiping regime.

Under questioning, he declined to say flatly that the United States would, if necessary, veto Red Chinese membership but he did say that the United States has the right of veto if it wants to use it.

Despite Dulles' assertion, most UN legal experts doubt that U. S. veto alone could keep Red China out of the UN. The question is not one of admitting a new member—which is subject to veto in the Security Council—but of which Chinese regime is entitled to China's membership.

Eisenhower Plans Benefits Message

Washington, July 29 (AP)—President Eisenhower was reported today to be planning a message to Congress this week urging an increase in social security benefits and greatly expanded coverage.

The President had been expected to seek coverage for more persons. But the proposal to liberalize methods of determining benefits would come as a surprise.

Sources close to the situation, who asked not to be identified, said the proposals would be intended for Congressional action next year—not in the current session.

Two Chief Points

They said the President's plan, his first step in carrying out a campaign pledge to improve social security, would have these two main points:

1. Adding more than 10 million persons to the present total of more than 60 million covered by the old age and survivors' insurance program.

The additions would include farm operators, migratory farm workers, professional people such as doctors and lawyers, transient domestic workers, some religious workers and some merchant seamen now excluded.

2. A new provision for determining benefits, letting workers deduct their four years of lowest pay in determining their average annual income under the system. Benefits are based on this average.

This would tend to increase the income average and thus increase benefits, especially for lower income groups who would need them most.

The administration was said to feel increased revenue from bringing an additional 10 million persons under the system would tend to offset higher costs of the increased benefits.

DA Might Probe

resort, said today: "We will continue business in the remaining buildings, and the hotel will be operated more or less on a European plan." He also indicated he plans to rebuild in the future.

Present buildings, he said, will accommodate about 100 guests. Before the fire the resort accommodated about 250.

Williams said 30 of the staff of 120 employes will be retained to operate the business, and most of the other 90 service employes who lost their jobs because of the fire, he expected, would get employment in other area resorts.

A temporary restaurant is being established in the Arch building which is near the two destroyed in the fire, and Williams said, "We will endeavor to feed as many as possible as best we can and those which we cannot handle we will make arrangements for elsewhere."

Different Slant on Origin

Williams said there appears to be "a different slant today" on the apparent starting place of the fire. It apparently started on the upper floor of the lodge instead of on the ground floor as was first believed, he said.

Two guests, whose names were not available, he said, had been sitting on the porch near the front entrance of the lodge at the time the fire was discovered.

One of these, it is believed, tapped on the window of the bake shop where the baker, Charles Kress, was rolling dough at the time, to notify him of the fire in the building.

Flames Came Downward

The watchman William Green, of Rosendale, was near Kress, Williams said, when the latter opened the front door, and Green reported that the flames appeared to come downward from the other floor. It is now believed the blaze started in an upper room or hallway.

Williams said that all guests' valuables left in a safe were intact and a "good portion of the bookkeeping records were saved," but the books used for the registering of guests were destroyed.

Most of the baggage, clothing, and personal effects of the estimated 120 guests, who fled the fire were lost in the blaze, Williams said.

Another Woman Admitted

Added to the list of injured released yesterday was the name of Mrs. Bertha Goldner, 77, of 46 Ayersport street, West Englewood, N. J., who was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment of shock some time after the others were admitted.

She and three others were reported in good condition today, but the condition of Miss Josephine Sheridan, 23, of 206 Windsor Place, Brooklyn, was reported in fair condition. She was reported as serious shortly after she was admitted yesterday morning for treatment of back injuries and shock.

The others were Frances Timmel, 31, of 156-01 28th avenue, Flushing, who suffered back injuries and shock; George Westerlund, 46, and his wife, May 46, of 847 Belle avenue, Teaneck, N. J. He suffered a leg injury and she multiple bruises and contusions.

All the injured at the Benedictine Hospital were reported in fair condition. They are:

Theodore Eckerlin, husband of the woman who was fatally injured, 58, of 115-28 104th Place, Ozone Park, who suffered a compound fracture of the left leg. Miss Mary McGurk, 46, of 77-54 Austin street, Forest Hills, who suffered a fracture of the right ankle and possible pelvic and chest injuries; Elaine Lachenmeyer, 16, and Rose Lachenmeyer, 38, both of 76-66 Austin street, Forest Hills, who suffered arm and leg injuries, and Mrs. Josephine Sheridan, 57, of 206 Windsor Place, Brooklyn, who suffered burns of the hands and face.

Clark Bonesteel, 46, of Port Ewen, engineer, and Hildreth A. Haines, 28, of 23 Stickles avenue, fireman on the Wallkill Valley freight train, late yesterday afternoon reported the fire as they saw it when the train was passing the hotel.

The sounding of air horns on the two-unit Diesel engine, said those who arrived early at the fire, was undoubtedly responsible for the saving of many lives.

Whole Inside Afire

Bonesteel said that he saw smoke as the train approached the area of the hotel and Haines said he could see that "the whole inside of the smaller house was on fire."

The two saw "a man in white, "believed to be the baker Charles Kess, running near the entrance of the lodge building.

Bonesteel said it appeared as though the fire was burning mostly in the middle of the building as the train drew near. Haines said "The engineer grabbed one air horn and I grabbed the other." And they sounded them for some time to rout the hotel guests.

The train continued toward the site of the former station with the air horns sounding, they said, and as the train drew near there, attempts were made to locate a fire signal unit that use to be in the vicinity, but it either had been removed, or they were unable to locate it in the darkness.

They then thought of notifying John Anderson, chief of the Binnewater fire department, but soon after they stopped near the station, they heard the fire siren.

Others on the train were J. J. Bowers, conductor and C. J. Lenihan and J. K. Scism, brakemen. One of the brakemen and the conductor were in the caboose.

Expresses Thanks

Walter Williams yesterday thanked the many individuals, organizations and officials who assisted at the resort after the fire. Among those not mentioned yesterday were the Rev. Donald Reedy, of St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, and the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra, of the Fair Street Reformed Church, Kingston. They assisted on the switch board, set in operation after the fire, and talked to relatives of the fire victims on the telephone.

The sheriff's office stationed Deputy Sheriff's Charles McCullough and Thomas Mayone at the scene of the fire throughout last night and Deputy Sheriff Chester E. Wolven was there during part of the night.

Sgt. Arthur Reilly, of the local state police station, said state police patrolled the area until midnight. Traffic to and from the area was heavy throughout the day.

Charles W. Smith, a New York city draftsman, one of the guests at the hotel, said he saw flames leap from the lodge to the main building, and he said, "When it hit the dining room, the flames swept through like a cannon and it soon was an inferno." He said he could hear screams above the crackling of the flames.

Other witnesses indicated that the flames were fanned by an early morning breeze.

Boy Reported Injured

The sheriff's office reported today that Kenneth William White, 6, of St. Remy, was injured when he came in contact with a truck near the post office in that place Monday. The truck was driven by George Hotaling, 46, of 63 Stephan street at about 4:45 p. m. The boy was taken to Kingston Hospital by the driver for treatment of lacerations of the left side of the face, ear and neck. Deputy Sheriff Chester E. Wolven investigated. They boy ran into the left rear fender the driver said.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 29 (AP)—Broad demand sent the stock market moderately higher today in quiet trading.

Gains ran into the major fractions with many leaders unchanged. Losses were small and scattered.

Volume stepped down to a rate a little less than a million shares for the entire day. Yesterday's total was 1,080,000 shares and 1,210,000 shares the previous day.

Steels were in demand early in the session and became rather a focal point for the rise. That section was bolstered by predictions of continued high production rates for the industry.

The motors and aircrafts also were higher along with the radio-televisions, air lines, and most coppers and chemicals. Holding steady were the utilities and oils.

U. S. Steel's fine earnings report yesterday after the close helped to bolster the list today, and other corporations continued to show high first half profits.

Gasoline Prices

cents to 28.5 for regular gas and 29.9 cents to 30.5 for quality gas.

A few of the station operators expressed the feeling that it would be better in general if gasoline prices were to drop, that it wouldn't make much difference to the individual station in matter of profit.

Plan to Return Slain Hunters

Gaspe, Que., July 29 (AP)—Relatives plan today to bring the remains of three mysteriously-slain bear hunters home to Pennsylvania for burial.

Clarence Claar, father of one victim, will drive from Gaspe to Hollidaysburg, Pa., carrying the bones of the dead hunters in a welded box strapped to the top of his car.

Motoring with him will be his wife and daughter and Clyde Sell, brother-in-law of Eugene Lindsey, another of the dead hunters. They had identified the remains at an inquest Monday.

The relatives will leave behind them the hunters' belongings—a truck, guns, hunting equipment and a few ragged pieces of clothing. All have been impounded by Quebec provincial police investigating the deaths.

A coroner's jury ruled that two of the men—17-year-old Richard Lindsey of Hollidaysburg, Pa., and 20-year-old Fred Claar of East Freedon, Pa., were "murdered by gunshot wounds at the hands of a person or persons unknown."

The jury found that the leader of the party, Richard Lindsey's 45-year-old father, Eugene H. Lindsey, died of "unknown causes."

Practice Is Held On PW Transfer

Seoul, July 29 (AP)—U. S. Marines simulating returned war prisoners ran through a practice session today in preparation for handling the flood of allied soldiers to be freed from Communist prison camps next week.

They skipped only one step—the ice cream that will be waiting at the end of the line.

Sixty leathernecks were rushed through the entire procession that will begin Aug. 5—the date set for the first allied POWs to begin streaming into Freedom Village.

Freedom Village—the name was coined during the exchange of sick and wounded allied POWs last April—is being moved about a mile from the original tent city.

The new quarters—bigger and more elaborate—will be only 100 yards from a rail line leading south to Seoul.

Processing will be done in a huge warehouse 334 feet by 110. Marines of the first shore party battalion are clearing the warehouse and partitioning rooms.

May Seek Tobey's Seat

Washington, July 29 (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R.-Vt.), who has declared the administration "foozled" the Korean settlement, appeared today to have first call on a vacant seat in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Unless his colleague, Sen. Aiken (R.-Vt.), should decide to claim the place, Flanders topped a list of GOP members eligible to succeed the late Sen. Tobey (R.-N.H.) on the important committee. Aiken was reported unlikely to give up either of his present assignments—as chairman of the Agriculture Committee and third ranking Republican on the Labor Committee—for a seat on the foreign relations group. Flanders has supported most of the administration's foreign policy programs but he told the Senate on July 8 that "not everyone is in favor of ending the conflict in Korea with a dishonorable truce or on dishonorable terms."

George McAneny Dies

Princeton, N. J., July 29 (AP)—George McAneny, 83, an organizer and first president of the New York World's Fair, died today at Princeton Hospital. His home was at 252 Bayard Lane, Princeton. McAneny engaged in a number of varied vocations during his long career in New York city civic and political affairs. He was a newspaperman, banker, publicist, an authority on civil service and transit.

Raising Debt Limit

President would request the limit raise a day or two before the scheduled weekend adjournment of Congress. But Johnson said he did not think the request would or should be made.

Asked what would happen to adjournment plans if it were, acting Senate Majority Leader Knowland (R.-Calif.) said, "let us not borrow trouble."

Several senators said they understood Speaker Joseph Martin (R.-Mass.) had predicted speedy House clearance for a bill to raise the ceiling. George said he thinks Senate Democrats will be solidly against it.

The Georgia senator says his present opposition is based on belief that if the debt limit isn't raised, the administration will be forced to cut spending in the last half of the calendar year.

Big Money Bill Will Be Approved

Washington, July 29 (AP)—Congressional leaders driving for adjournment this weekend ticketed for quick approval in the House and Senate today the biggest money bill of the session, a defense budget of $34,371,541,000.

The figure was a compromise reached late yesterday by a Senate- House conference committee which ironed out some 50 differences in versions of the bill passed earlier by the two branches.

The group accomplished the rare congressional feat of agreeing to a total that was about 62½ million dollars below that originally voted by the House and nearly 140 millions less than voted by the Senate. The usual practice is to arrive at a figure between the two.

Final action was planned today, first by the House and then by the Senate, to send the bill to the White House. The total it carries is about 1½ billion dollars less than President Eisenhower asked and more than 6 billions below the budget recommendations of former President Truman.

Counting the defense budget, five of the 13 regular money bills Congress must pass to run the government in the fiscal year which started July 1 are still in Congress. Eight have been sent to the White House—three of them yesterday, carrying funds for the Labor and Welfare Departments, for a score of non-departmental agencies, and for the District of Columbia.

Sentences Reduced

Ft. Dix, N. J., July 29 (AP)—Heavy prison sentences for seven soldiers convicted of mutiny for failing to fall in for drill have been reduced to 10 years, the army announced today. Six of the men had been sentenced by a court martial to 20 years and one to 15 years. Maj. Gen. Homer W. Kiefer, commanding officer of Ft. Dix, reviewed the case and reduced all seven sentences to 10 years.

Memoriam

In sad and loving remembrance of our darling daughter, Merlene Rose Tiano, who passed away seven (7) years ago today, July 29, 1946.

So often we look at your picture,
You are smiling and seem to say,
Do not grieve, I am only asleep,
We will all meet again someday.
Loving Parents,
MR. and MRS. LOUIS TIANO.

Memoriam

In loving memory of my husband, William J. Carpenter, who passed away 1 year ago today, July 29th, 1952.

Remembrance of one so dear
Often brings a silent tear.
Thoughts return of things long past
Time rolls on but memories last.
MARIE E. CARPENTER, Wife.

Red Police Arrest

set up to investigate the conduct of all party members during the June rebellion.

Another West Berlin paper, Der Tag, reported that 30 high officials in the secret police had been arrested since that group's Chief Wilhelm Zaisser, was kicked out of his job last week. The paper added that one secret police official in Erfurt committed suicide to avoid arrest.

Address Is Published

The Communist press published for the first time an address last weekend by East German Premier Otto Grotewohl in which he backhandedly revealed the great extent of the June riots, in which hundred's were killed and thousands arrested.

Denying the majority of the East Germans rose against his government, Grotewohl insisted "only" 272 communities were in revolt.

Grotewohl ominously warned that "our defenses against internal and external enemies will be increased," a statement that was taken by some western observers to mean that the 100,000 secret police and the 125,000-man Communist "People's Army" are going to be enlarged.

Berardi Hustles Broken Sewer Job

Progress in repairing the trunkline sewer at Greenkill and Clinton avenues was described today by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk as "excellent."

He said completion of repairs could be anticipated by Saturday night "if everything goes along as it has been."

The present break, which was reported to police headquarters late Thursday afternoon, July 23, is one of several which have plagued the city this summer.

Helps Street Work

The Board of Public Works awarded contract for the job to James Berardi of 50 Roosevelt avenue in order that the department not be hampered in pressing its street repair program.

The mayor explained at the time that a private contractor should do the job "so that our street work will not be held up."

Newkirk said crews were working until 2 a. m. today on the job.

Polio Inoculations Seem to Reduce Upstate Epidemic

Albany, July 29 (AP)—The State Health Department said today the mass inoculation of 37,125 Steuben and Chemung county children appeared to have brought about a "sizeable reduction" in polio cases in the two-county epidemic area.

The epidemic "may still be continuing" in the age groups over 10, especially in Steuben county, the department said.

The department issued this opinion despite its announcement a few hours earlier that polio cases in the counties outside New York city were running 90 per cent above last year's total and that the number of new cases in Steuben and Chemung counties had risen from 89 to 112 in the week ending July 27.

Britain Authorizes Exports to Reds

London, July 29 (AP) — Britain has authorized the immediate export of nearly 10 million dollars worth of non-strategic goods ordered by Red China, an unofficial east-west trade group said today.

It added that British businessmen are seeking permission to export a further 10 millions worth of goods in a borderline category between Britain's definitions of what is strategic and non-strategic.

The Board of Trade (commerce department) would not comment on the information given out by the private group, which goes under the name of the British Council for the Promotion of International Trade. Its main purpose is to foster trade with iron curtain countries.

Council Director Roland Berger said licenses have been received from the government for the export of such items as wool tops, chemicals, fertilizers, light engineering products, some scientific instruments, surgical and medical equipment—all considered non-strategic.

Licenses are awaited, he said, for automobiles, electrical equipment, electric cables, generators, electric motors, switchgear, small tools, lathes, cranes, metals and pharmaceuticals.

Premier Says His Cabinet Meets To Counter Move

Amman, Jordan, July 29 (AP)—Premier Fawzi Mulki told Parliament today his cabinet met in Jerusalem last week to counter Israel's move in setting up its capital there.

Mulki said that another reason for moving the cabinet session from Amman, Jordan capital, was to emphasize that the problem of Palestine and the problem of Jerusalem are one.

Under the United Nations Palestine plan, Jerusalem was to be internationalized. However, Israeli forces now control most of the new city and Jordan forces the old city, which contains the bulk of the ancient holy places. Israel has transferred its capital from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem.

Mulki said he will meet again with his ministers in Jerusalem Aug. 6.

Polio Inoculations Seem to Reduce Upstate Epidemic

Albany, July 29 (AP)—The State Health Department said today the mass inoculation of 37,125 Steuben and Chemung county children appeared to have brought about a "sizeable reduction" in polio cases in the two-county epidemic area.

The epidemic "may still be continuing" in the age groups over 10, especially in Steuben county, the department said.

The department issued this opinion despite its announcement a few hours earlier that polio cases in the counties outside New York city were running 90 per cent above last year's total and that the number of new cases in Steuben and Chemung counties had risen from 89 to 112 in the week ending July 27.

It was charged that Scott obtained unemployment benefits late last year while employed by the New York Bakery drawing wages of $40.50 a week and that Huben was employed by the village of Rosendale last summer at $30 a week while receiving unemployment payments.

Britain Authorizes Exports to Reds

London, July 29 (AP) — Britain has authorized the immediate export of nearly 10 million dollars worth of non-strategic goods ordered by Red China, an unofficial east-west trade group said today.

It added that British businessmen are seeking permission to export a further 10 millions worth of goods in a borderline category between Britain's definitions of what is strategic and non-strategic.

The Board of Trade (commerce department) would not comment on the information given out by the private group, which goes under the name of the British Council for the Promotion of International Trade. Its main purpose is to foster trade with iron curtain countries.

Council Director Roland Berger said licenses have been received from the government for the export of such items as wool tops, chemicals, fertilizers, light engineering products, some scientific instruments, surgical and medical equipment—all considered non-strategic.

Licenses are awaited, he said, for automobiles, electrical equipment, electric cables, generators, electric motors, switchgear, small tools, lathes, cranes, metals and pharmaceuticals.

Premier Says His Cabinet Meets To Counter Move

Amman, Jordan, July 29 (AP)—Premier Fawzi Mulki told Parliament today his cabinet met in Jerusalem last week to counter Israel's move in setting up its capital there.

Mulki said that another reason for moving the cabinet session from Amman, Jordan capital, was to emphasize that the problem of Palestine and the problem of Jerusalem are one.

Under the United Nations Palestine plan, Jerusalem was to be internationalized. However, Israeli forces now control most of the new city and Jordan forces the old city, which contains the bulk of the ancient holy places. Israel has transferred its capital from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem.

Mulki said he will meet again with his ministers in Jerusalem Aug. 6.

Shirley Hughes Wed To Ronald Rifenburg At Old Dutch Church

Miss Shirley Mae Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hughes, 54 Hurley avenue, became the bride of E. Ronald Rifenburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Rifenburg, 121 Fairview avenue, at a 2:30 p. m. ceremony at the Old Dutch Church Sunday, July 26. The double ring service was officiated by the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of antique white taffeta faille, styled in the Renaissance period, with an off-the-shoulder neckline decorated with re-embroidered Alencon lace, long tapered sleeves and a bouffant floor length skirt terminating in a circular train. Attached to a crown type bridal cap was her mother's wedding veil which was cathedral length with a deep border of silken lace. Her bouquet was of white gladioli, laceon and swansonia.

Miss Sylvia Hughes served as her sister's maid of honor and wore a gown of aqua nylon net fashioned with an Empire bodice and a waltz length tiered skirt, flower trimmed. A draped stole and small hat trimmed with matching flowers completed her ensemble. She carried a cascade of yellow gladioli trimmed with an aqua bow.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. John Chester, East Patchogue, L. I.; Mrs. William Brutsman, Miller's Lane; Miss Betty Lewis, Grandview avenue; and Miss Maureen Dugan, Sterling avenue. They wore blue, violet, maize and pink gowns, respectively, identical to that of the honor attendant. They carried cascade bouquets of mixed colored gladioli with bows to match their gowns.

Miss Diane Rifenburg, sister of the groom, served as junior bridesmaid and Miss Dorothy Brady, cousin of the bride, wore miniature copies of the attendants' gowns in Nile green. Their headbands were of matching flowers. Miss Rifenburg carried a cascade similar to that of the other attendants and Miss Brady carried a basket of yellow roses and yellow African daisies.

Robert Rifenburg of Woodstock was his brother's best man. The ushers were Edward Smith, Hurley avenue, cousin of the groom; Kenneth Whispell, Washington avenue; Robert Dennis of Kingston; William Cross, Fairview avenue; and William Brutsman, Miller's Lane.

Dior Decree Hikes Milady's Skirts

Paris, July 29 (AP)—Christian Dior, father of the New Look, charged full speed anew at feminine windmills and hubby's pocketbook today. The man who covered most of milady's calf in 1947 said this year she should show nearly to the knee.

Dior christened his new skirt length—16 to 17 inches from the floor—the "Live Line."

And he tried to make sure that not only will the wolf callers liven up the additional cheesecake. He decreed a whole new cut —more bosom, different waistline, new skirt draping—to make obsolete last year's wardrobe. Obsolete, that is, if the "Live Line" revolutionizes the fashion world as did the "New Look."

It all looked like a deliberate test of strength in the middle of a quiet season. Other showings so far had unveiled few changes in length (12 or 13 inches from the floor) and general line. Apparently fewer than the usual numbers of American buyers were on hand.

Dior's asault may decide whether the ladies still look to Paris for the final word on what to wear.

Waistelines Hung Loosely

For its new silhouette, Dior draped most waistlines loosely between the bottom of the bust and the top of the hip. Bosoms were exaggerated and two kinds of skirts prevailed—tight sheaths and inflated bells. The former he calls "Eiffel Tower," the latter "Cupola."

Then for variety, he whipped up some cocktail dresses in direct contrast. They sported hourglass waistlines and skirts rounded like a ball. Again, though, the emphasis was on the bosom.

"Agile, dancing, full of life," were Dior's words for his new clothes.

Make Smart Fashions for Pennies

Summer clothes to make inexpensively from cotton feed bags include "sack separates" with blouse in neat check and skirt in solid color. Pedal pushers (center) were made from two feed bags dyed charcoal gray while weskit came out of one plaid sack in a red, gray, navy and white. Halter dress (right) evolved from three feed bags in yellow, brown and white stripe while single pastel bag was used for bolero. These clothes are made from pattern and at a cost that's truly kind to the budget. A single 100 pound cotton bag contains about one and a third yards of fabric that can be used for many home sewing purposes.

New York — (NEA) — Making your own cool summer clothes from cotton feed-bag fabric is one way to beat not only the heat but the cost of living.

These cotton bags come in tropical prints, neat checks and plaids, gay stripes, polka dots and designs particularly suited to playclothes and casual clothes.

Often, it's an easy matter to get a blouse from only one feed or fertilizer bag, with skirts requiring two or three. The average dress will take three to four cotton bags.

"Sack separates," as they're known, fit beautifully into the teen-age wardrobe. Teen-agers can make these to patterns themselves, and take their pick of pedal pushers, shorts and skirt-and-blouse sets.

We show sack separates above in blouse and skirt. These combine plain, green skirt with blouse in a neat navy, green, red and white check. Pattern number is 8878.

Pedal pushers were made from two white cotton bags dyed a smart charcoal gray. Westkit came from one plaid sack in red, gray, navy and white. Pattern number for this is 8891.

Dress and bolero were made from three feed bags in a pretty stripe, with one pastel bag in solid color used for bolero. Pattern number here is 8713. (National Cotton Council)

DINNER FOR DINNER

A reader this morning explains: "For the past six months we have had a standing date for dinner and bridge on Saturday evening with another married couple. We alternate houses each week. From the beginning we had the understanding that should anything of importance come up for either one of us, we would feel free to postpone our regular engagement. The Friday evening before they were to come to my house, the wife called and said they could not make it for Saturday as they had to go somewhere. During the week, while speaking to her on the telephone, I said we would come to their house Saturday evening. She said that it was our turn to have them since they did not come to our house the week before. I disagree! It was she who cancelled the invitation and I have always thought that an invitation, whether accepted or declined, cancelled an obligation. Will you please let me hear from you about this?"

Correctly your arrangement is dinner for dinner not invitation for invitation and it is you who owes the next dinner; otherwise she is giving two dinners to your one.

Shower for Second Bride

Dear Mrs. Post: A dear friend of mine, a widow, is going to be married again in a month. As she gave me a shower when I was married, I would like to reciprocate by doing the same for her. However, I have been told that it is improper to give a shower for a bride who is marrying for the second time. Will you please advise me?

Answer: While not customary, it is not unheard of.

Dear Mrs. Post: My boy friend is going to have a birthday soon and I would like to know if it would be proper to give him a gift certificate of $10 from one of the leading men's stores. I don't know what to get him and I thought this would be the solution, but I want to be sure it is correct before getting it.

Answer: Am sorry, but your idea would be embarrassing to him.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Her booklet No. 504, describes "Table Setting." To obtain a copy send 25 cents in coin to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

From the beginning we had the understanding that should anything of importance come up for either one of us, we would feel free to postpone our regular engagement. The Friday evening before they were to come to my house, the wife called and said they could not make it for Saturday as they had to go somewhere. During the week, while speaking to her on the telephone, I said we would come to their house Saturday evening. She said that it was our turn to have them since they did not come to our house the week before. I disagree! It was she who cancelled the invitation and I have always thought that an invitation, whether accepted or declined, cancelled an obligation. Will you please let me hear from you about this?"

Correctly your arrangement is dinner for dinner not invitation for invitation and it is you who owes the next dinner; otherwise she is giving two dinners to your one.

Shower for Second Bride

Dear Mrs. Post: A dear friend of mine, a widow, is going to be married again in a month. As she gave me a shower when I was married, I would like to reciprocate by doing the same for her. However, I have been told that it is improper to give a shower for a bride who is marrying for the second time. Will you please advise me?

Answer: While not customary, it is not unheard of.

Dear Mrs. Post: My boy friend is going to have a birthday soon and I would like to know if it would be proper to give him a gift certificate of $10 from one of the leading men's stores. I don't know what to get him and I thought this would be the solution, but I want to be sure it is correct before getting it.

Answer: Am sorry, but your idea would be embarrassing to him.

Summer — the clever old lady won't go,
She's old, but she seems well to know
That though not in her prime,
She has mellowed with time,
And she still can put on a great show.

By the time you're important enough to take two hours for lunch, the doctor limits you to a glass of milk.

The housewife had hired a handyman on an hourly basis to paint the upstairs. After an initial period of some banging around all was quiet in the upper regions of the house. Concerned that her painter was loafing on the job, the housewife called up the stairs:

She—Are you painting, now?

He—Yes'm.

She—I was wondering, because I hadn't heard any noise.

He—Sorry, lady, but I ain't putting it on with a hammer.

A father was asked what his son was going to be when he got through college. "Old," he answered.

The following admonition was addressed by a Quaker to a man who was pouring forth a volley of ill language against him:

"Have a care, friend, thou mayest run thy face against my fist."

One of the certain rewards of learning to do hard things is the capacity for performing still harder tasks.

Six-Member Gang Is Broken; Preyed on Taverns, Movies

New York, July 29 (AP)—Police last night reported the smashing of a six-member gang they said preyed on movies and taverns in Queens, Brooklyn and the Bronx.

Four men and a woman were seized for questioning and two others were being sought, Bronx police said. These two and two prisoners were alleged to have taken almost $400 in a bold robbery Monday night of the Dover Theatre, 1723 Boston road, the Bronx.

All six gang members did not take part in each of the robberies, police said.

In the Dover Theatre holdup, two waited in an automobile while two others, both armed with guns, forced the cashier to hand over the $400. One gunman fired three shots at a protesting manager and his assistant.

Police said Lawrence Debe, 23, of (24-46 29th street) Astoria, Queens, was one of the gunmen and that Herbert Frakt, 25, of (1239 Simpson street) the Bronx, drove the getaway car.

Both were described by police as ex-convicts.

Did Not Fire Shots

Debe was not the gunman who fired the three shots, police said.

He was taken into custody yesterday morning after a brief struggle with detectives. The detectives allegedly found four loaded guns, a quantity of ammunition and $75, assertedly part of the Dover Theatre receipts, in his home.

His apprehension was the direct result of Detective Aubrey Ferguson's reaction Monday night to a quick start by the getaway car.

Police said the detective, on vacation at the time, saw the thugs' car pull away from the front of the theatre. He automatically made a mental note of the license number because the car started up quickly, police said.

A few moments later, William Werner, the manager, and Benjamin Bruno, his assistant, rushed from the movie, sounding an alarm.

Relays It to Police

Detective Ferguson, the license number fresh in his mind, relayed it to Bronx police headquarters and the search was on.

After questioning Debe throughout the day, five detectives, including Ferguson, went to 143 West 76th street late last night and in a basement apartment seized:

John Stelling, 25, of Brooklyn; Patrick Huston, 23, of Jackson Heights, Queens; Frakt; and the woman, Terry Carter, 25, of the West 76th street address.

Assistant District Attorney Joseph Tiger said Stelling, Huston, Debe and Frakt held up a Queens movie house last week.

Queens detectives left the Bathgate avenue police station in the Bronx, with Stelling, Huston, Miss Carter and a man said to have shared her 76th street apartment for the Maspeth station house in Queens at 2:30 a. m.

Before they departed, the Queens detectives said the four would be questioned in connection with the $1,700 holdup last Sunday of the Elmwood Theatre, Queens boulevard and 57th avenue.

Detectives of the Long Island City station house said they wanted to question the prisoners about two movie holdups in which $1,800 and $1,320 were taken.

Debe and Frakt were booked in the Bronx on assault and robbery charges. Debe was also charged with violation of the Sullivan law.

Eggplant Served in 'Dreams'

TEXAS EGGPLANT DREAM—This eggplant dish is extra delicious on hot days when fresh vegetables come into their own.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Here's a wonderful new fresh vegetable luncheon dish. Mrs. Willis Davis of San Antonio, Tex., invented it. She's a tournament bridge player, Texas U. graduate, and a believer in the high health value and low cost of fresh vegetables in their peak season.

On extra hot days, and it gets hot in Texas, this is what she serves for luncheon: Fresh eggplant "dreams," tossed green salad, lemon French dressing, rye bread, butter or margarine, fresh fruit bowl, iced tea, milk.

Eggplant "Dreams"

Six slices fresh eggplant, ¾ inch thick, ½ pound American cheese, flour, 6 slices bacon, 3 tablespoons butter (or margarine), ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper, 4 tomatoes, sliced ½ inch thick.

Cover eggplant with flour. Melt butter, or margarine, in large skillet Saute eggplant slowly until brown. Drain on paper towels. Place on baking sheet. Arrange 2 or 3 slices of tomatoes on top, then the cheese. Top with bacon. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place under broiler until bacon is crisp, about 5-7 minutes. Serve at once. Serves 6.

If very small eggplant is used, increase number of slices per serving. Contains approximately 258 calories per serving.

Tomatoes Stuffed With Okra

Six large tomatoes, ¼ cup cooked fresh corn, cut from cob, 12 fresh okra pods, cooked and diced, ¼ cup bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley.

Remove thin slice from steam end of tomatoes. Scoop out centers. Reserve pulp. Invert and drain for 10 minutes. Combine all ingredients, including tomato pulp. Stuff tomatoes with the mixture. Place in baking dish in which has been placed 3 tablespoons water. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 25 minutes or until tender. Serves 6.

Contains approximately 68 calories per serving.

'Oldest' Inmate Ill

Ossining, July 29 (AP)—Sing Sing prison's oldest inmate in point of time served, Francis Fowler, 69, is seriously ill in the prison hospital. Fowler, who has been behind bars for 38 years, was admitted to the hospital yesterday with hardening of the arteries. He is under care of Dr. Harold Kipp, chief official prison physician. The veteran lifer, who has served under 10 wardens, has been working in the prison metal shop recently. Fowler, then a resident of Port Jefferson on Long Island, was sentenced to the electric chair in 1915 for the murder of a seaman in Suffolk county. The late Gov. Charles S. Whitman commuted the sentence to life imprisonment in 1916.

15 Pickets Held At Arma Factory Following Clash

Carle Place, July 29 (AP)—A renewal of clashes at the gates of the strikebound Arma Corp. plant here yesterday resulted in the arrest of 15 pickets.

Some 200 Nassau county police, on emergency duty, were kept busy as 2,000 strikers surged around the Long Island plant when non-strikers appeared for work.

It was the second day in a row that the strike over wages and a new contract was marked by skirmishes.

Irving Abramson, attorney for the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers, whose members are involved, charged police brutality when the pickets were arraigned on disorderly conduct charges.

One picket, Arthur Moyano, of (1-04 Astoria Boulevard) Astoria, Queens, was held on an additional assault charge for allegedly attacking a policeman.

Each of the 15 was held in $500 bail for trial Aug. 13. All pleaded innocent.

Vice President Arraigned

Also arraigned yesterday in Nassau County District Court in Mineola was Richard C. Smyth, 39, vice president of Arma in charge of labor relations. Smyth was released in $1,000 bail for a hearing Aug. 4 on a charge of felonious assault. He was accused of attempting to run down two pickets with his car on Monday.

The Monday scuffles also resulted in the arrest of a picket on a disorderly conduct charge and the breaking of some plant windows.

The Engineers Association of Arma, an independent union, voted Monday to respect the CIO picket line.

$100,000 Appropriated

Representatives of 47 locals of IUE district four met at the Belmont Plaza Hotel in New York yesterday and voted to appropriate $100,000 "as a starter" for the relief of Arma IUE strikers.

The district encompasses northern New Jersey and the New York metropolitan area.

The Engineers Association announced it would file charges of refusal to bargain against the corporation. The charges will be lodged with the National Labor Relations Board.

An association statement said Smyth cancelled a meeting with the engineers yesterday on the ground that they aided and abetted disorders at the gates.

The association denied any part in the incidents and said its officials were in the vicinity with police permission to talk to engineering supervisors.

Teacher Problem Settled

Grangeville, Idaho, July 29 (AP)—A long controversy over the right of teachers to wear religious garb while teaching in public schools has ended. School trustees decided not to hire Catholic nuns next year. The 3-2 vote against the hiring of nuns for work in the predominantly Catholic district came last night after a stormy session. One trustee said the failure of Idaho's Attorney General, Robert Smylie, to give an opinion on the right of teachers to wear religious habit in public classrooms prompted the action.

Jamboree Notes

By RICHARD CONSTANT

July 24, 1953

The Jamboree is over.

In the morning scouts either worked on their achievement award or went swapping. Swapping has turned out to be the main event and topic of conversation.

After lunch, the boys boarded buses and proceeded to the Long Beach, Calif., amusement park. Here the Scouts spent two hours on the different rides. There were roller coasters, arcades, the whip, the divebomber, ferris wheel and many others.

When supper was over a few went out collecting articles.

Tomorrow, they will go to Knotts Berry Farm.

Storing Eggs

Six-Member Gang Is Broken; Preyed on Taverns, Movies

New York, July 29 (AP)—Police last night reported the smashing of a six-member gang they said preyed on movies and taverns in Queens, Brooklyn and the Bronx.

Four men and a woman were seized for questioning and two others were being sought, Bronx police said. These two and two prisoners were alleged to have taken almost $400 in a bold robbery Monday night of the Dover Theatre, 1723 Boston road, the Bronx.

All six gang members did not take part in each of the robberies, police said.

In the Dover Theatre holdup, two waited in an automobile while two others, both armed with guns, forced the cashier to hand over the $400. One gunman fired three shots at a protesting manager and his assistant.

Police said Lawrence Debe, 23, of (24-46 29th street) Astoria, Queens, was one of the gunmen and that Herbert Frakt, 25, of (1239 Simpson street) the Bronx, drove the getaway car.

Both were described by police as ex-convicts.

Did Not Fire Shots

Debe was not the gunman who fired the three shots, police said.

He was taken into custody yesterday morning after a brief struggle with detectives. The detectives allegedly found four loaded guns, a quantity of ammunition and $75, assertedly part of the Dover Theatre receipts, in his home.

His apprehension was the direct result of Detective Aubrey Ferguson's reaction Monday night to a quick start by the getaway car.

Police said the detective, on vacation at the time, saw the thugs' car pull away from the front of the theatre. He automatically made a mental note of the license number because the car started up quickly, police said.

Relays It to Police

Detective Ferguson, the license number fresh in his mind, relayed it to Bronx police headquarters and the search was on.

After questioning Debe throughout the day, five detectives, including Ferguson, went to 143 West 76th street late last night and in a basement apartment seized:

John Stelling, 25, of Brooklyn; Patrick Huston, 23, of Jackson Heights, Queens; Frakt; and the woman, Terry Carter, 25, of the West 76th street address.

Assistant District Attorney Joseph Tiger said Stelling, Huston, Debe and Frakt held up a Queens movie house last week.

Queens detectives left the Bathgate avenue police station in the Bronx, with Stelling, Huston, Miss Carter and a man said to have shared her 76th street apartment for the Maspeth station house in Queens at 2:30 a. m.

Before they departed, the Queens detectives said the four would be questioned in connection with the $1,700 holdup last Sunday of the Elmwood Theatre, Queens boulevard and 57th avenue.

Detectives of the Long Island City station house said they wanted to question the prisoners about two movie holdups in which $1,800 and $1,320 were taken.

Debe and Frakt were booked in the Bronx on assault and robbery charges. Debe was also charged with violation of the Sullivan law.

Eggplant Served in 'Dreams'

TEXAS EGGPLANT DREAM—This eggplant dish is extra delicious on hot days when fresh vegetables come into their own.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Here's a wonderful new fresh vegetable luncheon dish. Mrs. Willis Davis of San Antonio, Tex., invented it. She's a tournament bridge player, Texas U. graduate, and a believer in the high health value and low cost of fresh vegetables in their peak season.

On extra hot days, and it gets hot in Texas, this is what she serves for luncheon: Fresh eggplant "dreams," tossed green salad, lemon French dressing, rye bread, butter or margarine, fresh fruit bowl, iced tea, milk.

Eggplant "Dreams"

Six slices fresh eggplant, ¾ inch thick, ½ pound American cheese, flour, 6 slices bacon, 3 tablespoons butter (or margarine), ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper, 4 tomatoes, sliced ½ inch thick.

Cover eggplant with flour. Melt butter, or margarine, in large skillet Saute eggplant slowly until brown. Drain on paper towels. Place on baking sheet. Arrange 2 or 3 slices of tomatoes on top, then the cheese. Top with bacon. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place under broiler until bacon is crisp, about 5-7 minutes. Serve at once. Serves 6.

If very small eggplant is used, increase number of slices per serving. Contains approximately 258 calories per serving.

Tomatoes Stuffed With Okra

Six large tomatoes, ¼ cup cooked fresh corn, cut from cob, 12 fresh okra pods, cooked and diced, ¼ cup bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley.

Remove thin slice from steam end of tomatoes. Scoop out centers. Reserve pulp. Invert and drain for 10 minutes. Combine all ingredients, including tomato pulp. Stuff tomatoes with the mixture. Place in baking dish in which has been placed 3 tablespoons water. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 25 minutes or until tender. Serves 6.

Contains approximately 68 calories per serving.

'Oldest' Inmate Ill

Ossining, July 29 (AP)—Sing Sing prison's oldest inmate in point of time served, Francis Fowler, 69, is seriously ill in the prison hospital. Fowler, who has been behind bars for 38 years, was admitted to the hospital yesterday with hardening of the arteries. He is under care of Dr. Harold Kipp, chief official prison physician. The veteran lifer, who has served under 10 wardens, has been working in the prison metal shop recently. Fowler, then a resident of Port Jefferson on Long Island, was sentenced to the electric chair in 1915 for the murder of a seaman in Suffolk county. The late Gov. Charles S. Whitman commuted the sentence to life imprisonment in 1916.

15 Pickets Held At Arma Factory Following Clash

Carle Place, July 29 (AP)—A renewal of clashes at the gates of the strikebound Arma Corp. plant here yesterday resulted in the arrest of 15 pickets.

Some 200 Nassau county police, on emergency duty, were kept busy as 2,000 strikers surged around the Long Island plant when non-strikers appeared for work.

It was the second day in a row that the strike over wages and a new contract was marked by skirmishes.

Irving Abramson, attorney for the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers, whose members are involved, charged police brutality when the pickets were arraigned on disorderly conduct charges.

One picket, Arthur Moyano, of (1-04 Astoria Boulevard) Astoria, Queens, was held on an additional assault charge for allegedly attacking a policeman.

Each of the 15 was held in $500 bail for trial Aug. 13. All pleaded innocent.

Vice President Arraigned

Also arraigned yesterday in Nassau County District Court in Mineola was Richard C. Smyth, 39, vice president of Arma in charge of labor relations. Smyth was released in $1,000 bail for a hearing Aug. 4 on a charge of felonious assault. He was accused of attempting to run down two pickets with his car on Monday.

The Monday scuffles also resulted in the arrest of a picket on a disorderly conduct charge and the breaking of some plant windows.

The Arma strike started Friday at the plant here and another in Brooklyn. IUE is seeking a 15-cent-an-hour pay boost and other benefits. The union estimates the present hourly wage average at $2.10.

The Engineers Association of Arma, an independent union, voted Monday to respect the CIO picket line.

$100,000 Appropriated

Representatives of 47 locals of IUE district four met at the Belmont Plaza Hotel in New York yesterday and voted to appropriate $100,000 "as a starter" for the relief of Arma IUE strikers.

The district encompasses northern New Jersey and the New York metropolitan area.

The Engineers Association announced it would file charges of refusal to bargain against the corporation. The charges will be lodged with the National Labor Relations Board.

An association statement said Smyth cancelled a meeting with the engineers yesterday on the ground that they aided and abetted disorders at the gates.

The association denied any part in the incidents and said its officials were in the vicinity with police permission to talk to engineering supervisors.

Teacher Problem Settled

Grangeville, Idaho, July 29 (AP)—A long controversy over the right of teachers to wear religious garb while teaching in public schools has ended. School trustees decided not to hire Catholic nuns next year. The 3-2 vote against the hiring of nuns for work in the predominantly Catholic district came last night after a stormy session. One trustee said the failure of Idaho's Attorney General, Robert Smylie, to give an opinion on the right of teachers to wear religious habit in public classrooms prompted the action.

Jamboree Notes

By RICHARD CONSTANT

July 24, 1953

The Jamboree is over.

In the morning scouts either worked on their achievement award or went swapping. Swapping has turned out to be the main event and topic of conversation.

After lunch, the boys boarded buses and proceeded to the Long Beach, Calif., amusement park. Here the Scouts spent two hours on the different rides. There were roller coasters, arcades, the whip, the divebomber, ferris wheel and many others.

When supper was over a few went out collecting articles.

Tomorrow, they will go to Knotts Berry Farm.

Storing Eggs

When buying eggs and storing them, do not wash them until ready to use as this destroys the natural protective coating on the outside of the shell.

American Stars Clobber Pine Bush, 32-1

14 Hits, 14 Walks, Errors Turn Game Into Debacle

Combining 14 hits with 14 errors by Pine Bush, the American Little League All Stars crushed the Orange county small fry, 32 to 1, in yesterday's District 3 tournament at Little League stadium.

Kingston's "old pros" were solid favorites to win, but nobody expected the debacle that was unfolded before 300 fans. It was the most lopsided score in local Little League history.

Generous scorekeeping limited the official Pine Bush total of miscues to 14 and it could have been worse. The Americans scored only one run in the first inning! After that they reeled them off in telephone fashion . . . 7-6-6-12.

Thomas Excels

Submerged in the riot of base-hits and never-ending clattering of Kingston runners across home plate was a brilliant pitching performance by Bill Thomas.

The slim, blond right hander allowed only one hit and one unearned run in four innings and struck out 10 batters. He retired the side on strikeouts in the first and third innings. Timmy Fisher mopped up and gave the other hit in the fifth inning.

The onrushing darkness and Umpire Tom Heneberry's compassion combined to halt the slaughter at the end of five frames. Another motivating factor was the realization that Kingston would have to bat again, since Pine Bush got last licks.

Locke Hits Homer

Of course, there had to be a homer in that carnage but it didn't arrive until the fifth inning to climax a 12-run barrage. Victor Locke, who hadn't hit a homer all season in regular league competition, wafted a high drive over the left field wall with two aboard to close out the Kingston scoring.

Tom Cragan belted a pair of doubles and a single to pace the Kingston attack. Don Krueger and Bill Thomas each had two hits. Manager Bill Thomas cleared the bench after Kingston's riotous fifth and got 14 players into the lineup.

Pine Bush was woefully weak in the pitching department and the last two flingers had difficulty in even reaching the plate. They contributed 14 walks along with the 14 hits and errors and a flock of miscues of omission.

The Americans are now set for the second round with a well rested Charlie Boice for the pitching assignment and young Thomas for relief, if needed.

The Port Ewen league is a second-year aggregation and has a flock of solid performers, including MacIntosh, Richie Wenzel, Emory LeMay, Harry Kearse and others.

Saugerties whipped Catskill, 2-0, last Saturday in the game that launched the District 3 playoffs.

Countess Vivian First

Westbury, N. Y., July 29 (AP)—Countess Vivian, owned by Christy Hayes of Columbus, Ohio, scored a three length victory last night in the $9,650 Abbedale Stakes, feature of the Grand Circuit program at Roosevelt Raceway. Jimmy Cruise took Countess Vivian to the front at the half mile, overtaking pace-setting Bonnie Widow, then went on to score in 2:04.1. Billy's Lady, a long shot in the field of 13, came on fast to take second in this stake for three-year-old pacing fillies. Favored Uhleen Fingo was third.

Golf

Cincinnati—Mae Murray, Rutland, Vt., fired a five-under-par 70 to whip Mrs. Dorothy Germain Porter of Havertown, Pa., 2 up in the first round of match play in the Women's Western Amateur tournament.

Legion Juniors Here Thursday

Kingston's District 3, American Legion Junior, baseball champions will play Schenectady Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock at municipal stadium for the 1st Regional title.

Andrew Murphy III, director of Legion baseball in Ulster county, made the announcement this morning and said the local squad was elated at the opportunity to play such a crucial game on its home grounds.

In the three games, Bruce Bechtold, Jack Houghtaling and southpaw Frank Reis permitted only five hits and one run.

The SCOREBOARD

(By The Associated Press)

By BEN PHLEGAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Could it be that New York and Chicago are going to settle down and make it a nice simple two team race for the American League pennant?

Today and tomorrow should tell the story. The Yankees have a chance to wipe out the flag hopes for fourth place Cleveland. The White Sox are in a position to do the same for Boston.

Neither series is the kind on which you'd want to risk the family jewels although both the Yanks and the White Sox looked good in winning last night. New York ran up a 4-0 margin in the first six innings against Cleveland and whipped the Indians 4-2. Chicago took the measure of Boston by the same count with Sam Mele, one-time member of the Red Sox, banging home three of the four tallies.

The Yankees hadn't looked like champions since they captured a doubleheader in Chicago a week ago Sunday and the White Sox had dropped six of their last nine games.

Tribe Fading

But the gap is widening now. New York leads Chicago by 5½ games and has an 8½ game bulge over Boston and 9 over Cleveland.

The Indians had stayed close mainly because they had won six in a row from New York. With this bubble broken they are in danger of fading fast.

Boston, on the other hand, stands to get a big psychological lift today when Ted Williams returns to Fenway Park. The handsome slugger was released from the Marine Corps yesterday. Whether his mere presence—since he says he's not yet in shape to play—will be enough to keep the Red Sox going remains to be seen.

Dodgers Blazing

Brooklyn maintained its seven game edge over Milwaukee in the National League by swamping Chicago 13-2. The Braves edged New York 2-0. Third place Philadelphia slipped nine games behind by losing 5-4 to Cincinnati and St. Louis pulled into a fourth place tie with the Giants with a 6-4 triumph over Pittsburgh.

In the other American League games Detroit outlasted Washington 8-5 and Philadelphia downed St. Louis 9-7 on Ray Murray's two-run homer in the eighth.

The largest New York crowd in two years—57,461—showed up to watch the Yankees break their Cleveland jinx. Joe Collins and Gil McDougald hit home runs and the other two Yankee tallies scored on a double by Irv Noren and a single by Phil Rizzuto in the sixth. Cleveland got its two in the seventh on a walk, a double by Al Rosen and a single by Luke Easter.

The Red Sox also drew their largest crowd—35,385—to watch them lose for the third time in 13 games. The loss went against Hector (Skinny) Brown who had won 10 this year and seven in a row. Mele and Minnie Minoso accounted for all of the Chicago runs. Both had homers.

The Cubs gave the game away to Brooklyn in Chicago as a pair of errors contributed to seven unearned runs in the second inning. Johnny Podres checked the Cubs on four hits, three of them singles by Randy Jackson.

Worthington Loses

Al Worthington and Hoyt Wilhelm held Milwaukee to three hits but the Braves didn't need any of them to score their two runs against the Giants. Three walks, two sacrifices and a long fly got the runs home. Bob Buhl, who scored one of the runs, won his seventh game.

Fren Enke has coached the University of Arizona basketball team for 28 years. During that time his squads have won 426 games and lost 206.

Woodstock Country Club Expects 60 for Annual Women's Tourney

Woodstock Country Club expects approximately 60 entries for its annual Women's Invitational on Tuesday, Aug. 4, Mrs. Jessie Burnett, chairman of the tournament committee, said today.

Delegations are expected from both Kingston clubs, Twaalfskill and Wiltwyck, Catskill Country Club and at least 20 are expected from Dutchess Golf Club at Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Gertrude Hallenbeck, the crack Catskill shooter, is expected to make a bid for the Class A crown and the tournament committee hopes to be able to lure Miss Naomi Venable and Mrs. Norris Dauchy, the Dutchess club stars.

Doris Murray, who shared the 1952 Class B crown with Mrs. Robert Cullum of Kingston, is now in Japan. Mrs. A. Reynolds and Mrs. Lewis Shaw, the Class C and A champions, respectively, of Dutchess, are expected to defend their titles. Mrs. Reynolds posted a 97 and Mrs. Shaw took the A honors with 83.

Several Prizes

Competition will be in three divisions, with prizes for low gross and low net in each section. Many valuable merchandise prizes have been contributed by members of the Woodstock club for awarding at the tournament.

Members of the Tournament Committee, who will conduct the day of golf are: Mrs. Jessie Burnett, chairman; Mrs. Harold Mellin, Mrs. J. Carson Hutchins, Mrs. Anthony DeLisio, Mrs. Allen D. Elwyn, Mrs. Joseph F. Marr, Mrs. Thomas Dendy and Mrs. Bruff W. Olin.

One of the prize feats in Joe Culmone's career as a jockey was that of winning six races in one day at Bowie.

Charlie Murphy Hurls No-Hitter At Woodstock

Charlie Murphy pitched no-hit ball for five innings, as St. Peter's Holy Name nine defeated Woodstock, 6 to 3, Sunday at Woodstock.

Walks and St. Peter's miscues accounted for the home club tallies. The locals cemented the game with a four-run rally in the third.

Reilly, Peters and Dittus each stroked two hits for the winners. Lamb and Peters each turned in spectacular catches. The Saints travel to Peekskill Sunday for their fourth road game of the season.

Schoendienst Returns

St. Louis, July 29 (AP)—St. Louis Cardinal second baseman Red Schoendienst, sidelined with an eye injury for the past week, was back in action last night for one inning of defensive play. The Redhead, who was hit by a thrown ball in New York last Tuesday, played second base in the ninth inning after utility infielder Pete Castiglione had been lifted for a pinch hitter.

American Stars Clobber Pine Bush, 32-1

14 Hits, 14 Walks, Errors Turn Game Into Debacle

Combining 14 hits with 14 errors by Pine Bush, the American Little League All Stars crushed the Orange county small fry, 32 to 1, in yesterday's District 3 tournament at Little League stadium.

Kingston's "old pros" were solid favorites to win, but nobody expected the debacle that was unfolded before 300 fans. It was the most lopsided score in local Little League history.

Generous scorekeeping limited the official Pine Bush total of miscues to 14 and it could have been worse. The Americans scored only one run in the first inning! After that they reeled them off in telephone fashion . . . 7-6-6-12.

Thomas Excels

Submerged in the riot of base-hits and never-ending clattering of Kingston runners across home plate was a brilliant pitching performance by Bill Thomas.

The slim, blond right hander allowed only one hit and one unearned run in four innings and struck out 10 batters. He retired the side on strikeouts in the first and third innings. Timmy Fisher mopped up and gave the other hit in the fifth inning.

The onrushing darkness and Umpire Tom Heneberry's compassion combined to halt the slaughter at the end of five frames. Another motivating factor was the realization that Kingston would have to bat again, since Pine Bush got last licks.

Locke Hits Homer

Of course, there had to be a homer in that carnage but it didn't arrive until the fifth inning to climax a 12-run barrage. Victor Locke, who hadn't hit a homer all season in regular league competition, wafted a high drive over the left field wall with two aboard to close out the Kingston scoring.

Tom Cragan belted a pair of doubles and a single to pace the Kingston attack. Don Krueger and Bill Thomas each had two hits. Manager Bill Thomas cleared the bench after Kingston's riotous fifth and got 14 players into the lineup.

Pine Bush was woefully weak in the pitching department and the last two flingers had difficulty in even reaching the plate. They contributed 14 walks along with the 14 hits and errors and a flock of miscues of omission.

The Americans are now set for the second round with a well rested Charlie Boice for the pitching assignment and young Thomas for relief, if needed.

Legion Juniors Here Thursday

Kingston's District 3, American Legion Junior, baseball champions will play Schenectady Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock at municipal stadium for the 1st Regional title.

Andrew Murphy III, director of Legion baseball in Ulster county, made the announcement this morning and said the local squad was elated at the opportunity to play such a crucial game on its home grounds.

The winner of Thursday's game will meet the District 3-4 champions (Buffalo-Rochester-Syracuse) at a later date.

The Kingston team rolled to impressive victories over Jeffersonville, Hoosick Falls and Voorheesville en route to the District 3 crown.

In the three games, Bruce Bechtold, Jack Houghtaling and southpaw Frank Reis permitted only five hits and one run.

Bechtold is the probable starter against the Dorpian nine.

The SCOREBOARD

(By The Associated Press)

By BEN PHLEGAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Could it be that New York and Chicago are going to settle down and make it a nice simple two team race for the American League pennant?

Today and tomorrow should tell the story. The Yankees have a chance to wipe out the flag hopes for fourth place Cleveland. The White Sox are in a position to do the same for Boston.

Neither series is the kind on which you'd want to risk the family jewels although both the Yanks and the White Sox looked good in winning last night. New York ran up a 4-0 margin in the first six innings against Cleveland and whipped the Indians 4-2. Chicago took the measure of Boston by the same count with Sam Mele, one-time member of the Red Sox, banging home three of the four tallies.

The Yankees hadn't looked like champions since they captured a doubleheader in Chicago a week ago Sunday and the White Sox had dropped six of their last nine games.

Tribe Fading

But the gap is widening now. New York leads Chicago by 5½ games and has an 8½ game bulge over Boston and 9 over Cleveland.

The Indians had stayed close mainly because they had won six in a row from New York. With this bubble broken they are in danger of fading fast.

Boston, on the other hand, stands to get a big psychological lift today when Ted Williams returns to Fenway Park. The handsome slugger was released from the Marine Corps yesterday. Whether his mere presence—since he says he's not yet in shape to play—will be enough to keep the Red Sox going remains to be seen.

Dodgers Blazing

Brooklyn maintained its seven game edge over Milwaukee in the National League by swamping Chicago 13-2. The Braves edged New York 2-0. Third place Philadelphia slipped nine games behind by losing 5-4 to Cincinnati and St. Louis pulled into a fourth place tie with the Giants with a 6-4 triumph over Pittsburgh.

In the other American League games Detroit outlasted Washington 8-5 and Philadelphia downed St. Louis 9-7 on Ray Murray's two-run homer in the eighth.

The largest New York crowd in two years—57,461—showed up to watch the Yankees break their Cleveland jinx. Joe Collins and Gil McDougald hit home runs and the other two Yankee tallies scored on a double by Irv Noren and a single by Phil Rizzuto in the sixth. Cleveland got its two in the seventh on a walk, a double by Al Rosen and a single by Luke Easter.

The Red Sox also drew their largest crowd—35,385—to watch them lose for the third time in 13 games. The loss went against Hector (Skinny) Brown who had won 10 this year and seven in a row. Mele and Minnie Minoso accounted for all of the Chicago runs. Both had homers.

The Cubs gave the game away to Brooklyn in Chicago as a pair of errors contributed to seven unearned runs in the second inning. Johnny Podres checked the Cubs on four hits, three of them singles by Randy Jackson.

Worthington Loses

Al Worthington and Hoyt Wilhelm held Milwaukee to three hits but the Braves didn't need any of them to score their two runs against the Giants. Three walks, two sacrifices and a long fly got the runs home. Bob Buhl, who scored one of the runs, won his seventh game.

Fren Enke has coached the University of Arizona basketball team for 28 years. During that time his squads have won 426 games and lost 206.

Subways and Hilltop Tie 2-2 in Softball League

Alpines Crush VFW, 22-1

Subway Grill and Hilltop battled to a 2-2 tie in Monday's feature clash in the City Softball League. The game ended after eight innings because of darkness.

Al Hunt and Walt Bigler pitched 4-hit ball for the Subways and Tommy Maines homered in the fourth to create the 2-2 deadlock. The Subways collected seven hits off Ben Freer, including two by Maines.

Ronnie Scheffel poked a double and single for the losers.

Sickler's Delivery scored three runs in the ninth to defeat Cherny's, 9 to 6, after the Grocers had rallied with two in the bottom of the seventh for a 6-6 tie in regulation time.

John Peer pounded two doubles and Bob Perry and Clayton Stalter cracked triples.

Alpine Wins Rout

Alpines backed Don Koeppen's 4-hit pitching with a 24-hit barrage against Don Dyson to crush the VFW, 22 to 1.

Koeppen lost a shutout in the fifth, while the Climbers scored in every inning and racked up seven runs in the fifth and sixth stanzas.

Three of the Alpines cracked four hits. Bob Slover clouted a double, homer and two singles and Koeppen had a homer and two singles. George Schatzel hit three singles and a double and Ed Trombley and John Provenzano had seven solo swats between them.

Beicherts Win 10-6

Beicherts scored four times in the sixth inning to insure a 10-6 triumph over Lincoln Park Inn. Duke Snyder was the fielding hero, racing into deep right field for a sensational catch with two outs and two aboard.

The Studebakers collected 10 hits off Charlie Dasher and Joe Ruzzo, including a triple by Danny Basch and Bob Dougherty's double. Jim Woods and Duke Snyder clubbed two hits apiece.

Joe Ruzzo's three singles sparked Lincolns, who made seven h[its] off Dan Basch and his b[rot]her, Jack, hit a pair.

How to Play Par Golf

Don't Scoop Out of Sand Trap

By JULIUS BOROS
(1952 U. S. Open Champ)

Let the loft and open blade of the sand iron take care of getting the ball up and out of a trap.

Don't scoop. If you do, the ball won't take a true flight. It probably will pop up straight instead of heading for the green. If it should reach the green, it may scoot right off, for there will be little or no backspin.

Don't force the shot. Swing normally with the face open. Make contact behind the ball and follow through.

Manhandling the club will only ruin the rhythm of the swing and produce inferior results. Occasionally, when the sand is very loose and dried out, you will be unfortunate enough to find the ball buried with just the top barely visible.

Don't become panicky. It's not much different from other sand-trap shots and you have the sand wedge. This calls for a full explosion. The stance is slightly open. The blade is slightly closed so as to contact the sand with the front of the blade first.

Aim about an inch behind the ball. As the club is taken back, the blade remains closed. There is a little more body turn to give more power through the sand.

The follow through is similar to that of any other sand-trap shot and should not be neglected.

BANG — Julius Boros' stance is slightly open, blade slightly closed on explosion shot. (NEA)

Batting—Gil Hodges, Brooklyn Dodgers, hit his 24th home run and also got a double and two singles, driving in three runs in a perfect day at bat against Chicago as the Dodgers won 13-2.

Veteran Righty Gives Five Hits, Helped by DPs

Bechtold Victim In Fast Game

Wiltwyck Motors moved to within challenging distance of the unbeaten Colonial Merchants by defeating Doblers, 4 to 2, in a mound duel between veteran Tommy Fisher and youthful Gerry Bechtold in yesterday's City League duel at the Athletic Field.

The victory left the Motormen a game behind the unbeaten Merchants and set the pattern for another great run down the stretch.

Fisher Wins 5th

Fisher, the ancient tormentor of City League batsmen, yielded only five hits and one earned run for his fifth victory in six starts. He walked three and fanned four. He wasn't as sharp as usual but three fast double plays eased him out of rough spots.

Bechtold, allowing seven hits, encountered two bad innings, the fourth and sixth, when the first half champions scored twice each time. He gave up five walks and fanned the same number. The contest was devoid of extra base hits and only two players—Augie Passante and Harold Kite of Wiltwycks collected two hits.

Dobler's separated Fisher for a 1-0 lead in the third on singles by Bill Tierney, Bill Glaser and Les Barringer. Wiltwycks went ahead 2-1 in the fourth as Ed Passante and Budd Finn singled behind Lefty Passante's opening walk. When Gianuzzi let the outfield relay get past him, Ed Passante delivered the second run.

Score Tied at 2-2

Doblers tied it 2-2 in the fourth when Tim Murphy missed a diving catch of Bechtold's liner and Gerry continued to second when Minadeo bobbled the outfield relay. Don Lyons singled to right to score Bechtold. Ed Passante then turned Tierney's screaming liner into an unassisted DP at second.

Leighton Wilklow's pinch walk launched Wiltwycks' sixth-inning rally. Bechtold also walked Ed Passante and fumbled Tim Murphy's sacrifice bunt to load the sacks with none out. Wilklow crossed the plate when Fisher banged into a double play. A single by Minadeo and Augie Passante's scratch safety off Barnes' glove at third made it 4-2.

NOTES—Wiltwyck loaded the bases in the second but failed to score. Bill Tierney threw a strike to home plate from right field to nail Augie Passante at the plate in the fifth. Twi fans are looking for an upset when the Indians meet the undefeated Merchants today. Another big game is scheduled Thursday — Wiltwycks vs. Jones Dairy.

Now's the time when the man who really values his car for the good companion it is, reaps extra reward for the extra care he gives it.

1. Sheer Power; 2. High Anti-Knock; 3. Long Mileage; 4. Clean Engine Operation; 5. Quick Starting; 6. Fast Warm-Up; 7. Hot Weather Anti-Vapor-Lock; 8. Cool Weather Anti-Stalling.

And the thing worth keeping in your mind is that time after time Esso Extra, compared with the best competing gasolines on these eight counts, meets the highest standard of year-round performance quality... higher by wide margins than many other brands!

Remember too... Esso Extra is the largest-selling premium gasoline in the area served by Esso Dealers!

So why not keep your tank full of Esso Extra? The more you drive, the better you'll like it. See your Esso Dealer today and regularly!

Alpines Crush VFW, 22-1

Subway Grill and Hilltop battled to a 2-2 tie in Monday's feature clash in the City Softball League. The game ended after eight innings because of darkness.

Al Hunt and Walt Bigler pitched 4-hit ball for the Subways and Tommy Maines homered in the fourth to create the 2-2 deadlock. The Subways collected seven hits off Ben Freer, including two by Maines.

Ronnie Scheffel poked a double and single for the losers.

John Peer pounded two doubles and Bob Perry and Clayton Stalter cracked triples.

Alpine Wins Rout

Alpines backed Don Koeppen's 4-hit pitching with a 24-hit barrage against Don Dyson to crush the VFW, 22 to 1.

Koeppen lost a shutout in the fifth, while the Climbers scored in every inning and racked up seven runs in the fifth and sixth stanzas.

Three of the Alpines cracked four hits. Bob Slover clouted a double, homer and two singles and Koeppen had a homer and two singles. George Schatzel hit three singles and a double and Ed Trombley and John Provenzano had seven solo swats between them.

The Studebakers collected 10 hits off Charlie Dasher and Joe Ruzzo, including a triple by Danny Basch and Bob Dougherty's double. Jim Woods and Duke Snyder clubbed two hits apiece.

Joe Ruzzo's three singles sparked Lincolns, who made seven hits off Dan Basch and his brother, Jack, hit a pair.

Bechtold Victim In Fast Game

Wiltwyck Motors moved to within challenging distance of the unbeaten Colonial Merchants by defeating Doblers, 4 to 2, in a mound duel between veteran Tommy Fisher and youthful Gerry Bechtold in yesterday's City League duel at the Athletic Field.

The victory left the Motormen a game behind the unbeaten Merchants and set the pattern for another great run down the stretch.

Fisher Wins 5th

Fisher, the ancient tormentor of City League batsmen, yielded only five hits and one earned run for his fifth victory in six starts. He walked three and fanned four. He wasn't as sharp as usual but three fast double plays eased him out of rough spots.

Bechtold, allowing seven hits, encountered two bad innings, the fourth and sixth, when the first half champions scored twice each time. He gave up five walks and fanned the same number. The contest was devoid of extra base hits and only two players—Augie Passante and Harold Kite of Wiltwycks collected two hits.

Dobler's separated Fisher for a 1-0 lead in the third on singles by Bill Tierney, Bill Glaser and Les Barringer. Wiltwycks went ahead 2-1 in the fourth as Ed Passante and Budd Finn singled behind Lefty Passante's opening walk. When Gianuzzi let the outfield relay get past him, Ed Passante delivered the second run.

Score Tied at 2-2

Doblers tied it 2-2 in the fourth when Tim Murphy missed a diving catch of Bechtold's liner and Gerry continued to second when Minadeo bobbled the outfield relay. Don Lyons singled to right to score Bechtold. Ed Passante then turned Tierney's screaming liner into an unassisted DP at second.

Leighton Wilklow's pinch walk launched Wiltwycks' sixth-inning rally. Bechtold also walked Ed Passante and fumbled Tim Murphy's sacrifice bunt to load the sacks with none out. Wilklow crossed the plate when Fisher banged into a double play. A single by Minadeo and Augie Passante's scratch safety off Barnes' glove at third made it 4-2.

NOTES—Wiltwyck loaded the bases in the second but failed to score. Bill Tierney threw a strike to home plate from right field to nail Augie Passante at the plate in the fifth. Twi fans are looking for an upset when the Indians meet the undefeated Merchants today. Another big game is scheduled Thursday — Wiltwycks vs. Jones Dairy.

Now's the time of year when you get more fun out of your car . . . and put more money into it . . . than any other season . . .

Now's the time when the man who really values his car for the good companion it is, reaps extra reward for the extra care he gives it.

Now's the time, too, when you and your car are away from home most . . . away from that favorite particular service station you've both come to trust so much . . .

So now's the time we say "Get to know an Esso Dealer, and let him put Esso Extra gasoline in your car!"

For today's Esso Extra, wherever you stop for it, actually meets the highest standard of all-round, year-round gasoline performance quality that has ever been offered!

And you don't have to take this just on faith. It's fully proved . . . and here is how . . .

Here are eight qualities of gasoline performance which automotive engineers agree are important, and which can be scientifically measured.

1. Sheer Power; 2. High Anti-Knock; 3. Long Mileage; 4. Clean Engine Operation; 5. Quick Starting; 6. Fast Warm-Up; 7. Hot Weather Anti-Vapor-Lock; 8. Cool Weather Anti-Stalling.

And the thing worth keeping in your mind is that time after time Esso Extra, compared with the best competing gasolines on these eight counts, meets the highest standard of year-round performance quality . . . higher by wide margins than many other brands!

Remember too . . . Esso Extra is the largest-selling premium gasoline in the area served by Esso Dealers!

So why not keep your tank full of Esso Extra? The more you drive, the better you'll like it. See your Esso Dealer today and regularly!

Esso Extra meets today's highest standard of year-round gasoline performance!

Decision Reserved In Picketing Case

Testimony was completed at the court house here yesterday and Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick reserved decision on the petition of a Sullivan county hotel to determine why a temporary injunction should not be issued to restrain the picketing of the resort by members of unions.

Judge Schirick gave counsel two days in which to file briefs.

Last week the petition was argued for both the Concord Hotel and Grossinger's Hotel, but the former withdrew, and the decision, which is expected to be given within the next several days will apply only to Grossingers.

A temporary injunction had been issued in Sullivan county, but was vacated by Supreme Court Justice Francis Bergen on technical grounds.

Unions Represented

The unions represented are Local 29, Hotel and Restaurant Employes Association, Bartenders' International Union, Local 32-E, Building Service Employes International Union, and Local 305 affiliated with the Office Employes International Union. All are AFL.

The Concord withdrew its petition after an agreement was reached with the unions.

Cpl. Yonta's Body Due Here Friday; Burial on Monday

With less than a week elapsing since the end of 37 months of hostilities across the 150-mile battlefront in Korea, the grim reality of the war's heavy costs will be felt by local residents Friday night when the body of Cpl. Vincent A. Yonta, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Yonta, 166 Delaware avenue, arrives aboard the West Shore train.

The body of Cpl. Yonta, 21, who was killed in action June 2, 1953, is scheduled to arrive in Kingston aboard the 7:10 p. m. (DST) train Friday.

Cpl. Yonta met his death while serving as a member of the 35th Regiment of the 25th Infantry Division. He entered service April 8, 1952, and trained with the 5th Infantry Division at Indiantown Gap, Pa. He was assigned to overseas duty in December 1952.

Before entering service, Cpl. Yonta was employed by the Ertel Engineering Corp.

The funeral will be held Monday at 9:15 a. m. from the late home and at 10 a. m. from St. Mary's Church with burial in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Military arrangements will be under the supervision of the Kingston Veteran's Association. Members of the KVA will meet the body at the train Friday and will escort it to the late home.

Will Pay Higher For Fire Protection

New York, July 29 (AP) — The Public Service Commission yesterday received estimates of revenues which the New York Water Service Corp. maintains are required for an adequate return.

The estimates showed that higher rates would be charged the city for fire protection services in areas of Queens in addition to increases for general consumers.

The figures contained in an allocation of costs of services at the Woodhaven, Queens, plant of the company were presented at a continued commission hearing into rate changes proposed by the company. The commission has suspended new schedules for higher rates filed by the company.

Based on a study of water services provided, the utility contended in an exhibit that total revenues of $543,751 were required in 1953, of which $79,153 would represent city costs for fire protection and the balance in increased rates for general consumers.

The city charge is based on rentals of 1,534 hydrants.

The charge to the city last year was approximately $55,000, according to the figures.

Hearing Examiner Harold M. Olmsted adjourned the hearing to Sept. 17.

Local Man Launches Homemade Cruiser

Saugerties, July 29 — A large crowd stood by Sunday afternoon at the lower Esopus Creek to witness the launching of the Cavina, a 31-foot cabin cruiser. The craft is the product of a year and a half of labor and is the result of a private shipbuilding venture by Myron Banks. At approximately 2:10 p. m. the boat was christened by Miss Nancy Banks and then it slid down the runway into the creek.

Banks expected to hook up the instrument panel this week, and embark on the maiden voyage at the weekend. His principal helpers in this venture have been Barkley Van Tassell and Harry Wiands.

The name chosen for the boat is significant in that it is composed of the first two letters in the name of his wife CAroline, his mother VIctoria and his daughter NAncy.

Banks is the proprietor of Banks Stationery and News Store on Main street.

Negotiation Set For Drivers Today

New York, July 29 (AP)—A negotiation meeting between employers and union in a phase of the construction drivers' strike, which has halted or curtailed work on 600 million dollars in construction in the metropolitan area, has been scheduled for today, the striking union said.

The office of Local 282 of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters said, however, the place of the meeting was not known.

It was expected the excavation drivers in the union will be offered 40 cents an hour wage increase and a welfare fund to be financed by employers at the rate of three per cent of payroll.

Offer Refused

The union has turned down an offer of 30 cents per hour wage increase and fringe benefits. The total package turned down would mean $3 more per day in wages and other benefits to a driver.

The present wage rate is $2 an hour. The union has been holding out for 75 cents more per hour, a pension plan and a welfare plan.

A spokesman for building contractors, whose jobs are at a standstill while they maintain office staffs and supervisory construction personnel, said yesterday the situation was "just the same—only worse."

The strike started July 3 and has idled more than 100,000 construction trades craftsmen and curtailed or completely halted work on new schools, hospitals, public housing, private home building and public works.

Mother Admits She Fatally Beat Boy

Chicago, July 29 (AP)—Police said a 28-year-old mother related today she tied her 3-year-old son to a water pipe, then beat him to death with a chair—breaking his arms, legs and nose.

The child's body was found Tuesday night by police who went to the family's south side apartment to investigate a neighbor's complaint the mother, Mrs. Veronica Burowsky, was trying to conceal an injured child.

Police Lt. Thomas Casey said the woman related she beat the boy, Peter Jr., because he was disobedient. He said she used a chair as a weapon until it broke—then used pieces of the chair.

The Burowsky's have three other children—Georgann, 6, Paula, 5, and Linda, 18 months.

Note to Husband

Casey said police found this note from Mrs. Burowsky to her husband in the kitchen.

"Pete, Well, the bum got up again this a. m. same thing. I got him in a closet. You can feed him supper if you want to, and then tie him up again. The same with Georgann, only no supper * * * see you tonight love. V."

Casey said Georgann also had been beaten and bore numerous bruises.

Mrs. Burowsky related that her husband, a machine operator, had told her he would call the police if she continued to beat their son, Casey said.

The woman was held without charge for questioning.

Decision Reserved In Picketing Case

Testimony was completed at the court house here yesterday and Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick reserved decision on the petition of a Sullivan county hotel to determine why a temporary injunction should not be issued to restrain the picketing of the resort by members of unions.

Judge Schirick gave counsel two days in which to file briefs.

Last week the petition was argued for both the Concord Hotel and Grossinger's Hotel, but the former withdrew, and the decision, which is expected to be given within the next several days will apply only to Grossingers.

A temporary injunction had been issued in Sullivan county, but was vacated by Supreme Court Justice Francis Bergen on technical grounds.

Unions Represented

The unions represented are Local 29, Hotel and Restaurant Employes Association, Bartenders' International Union, Local 32-E, Building Service Employes International Union, and Local 305 affiliated with the Office Employes International Union, All are AFL.

The Concord withdrew its petition after an agreement was reached with the unions.

Cpl. Yonta's Body Due Here Friday; Burial on Monday

With less than a week elapsing since the end of 37 months of hostilities across the 150-mile battlefront in Korea, the grim reality of the war's heavy costs will be felt by local residents Friday night when the body of Cpl. Vincent A. Yonta, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Yonta, 166 Delaware avenue, arrives aboard the West Shore train.

The body of Cpl. Yonta, 21, who was killed in action June 2, 1953, is scheduled to arrive in Kingston aboard the 7:10 p. m. (DST) train Friday.

Will Pay Higher For Fire Protection

New York, July 29 (AP) — The Public Service Commission yesterday received estimates of revenues which the New York Water Service Corp. maintains are required for an adequate return.

The estimates showed that higher rates would be charged the city for fire protection services in areas of Queens in addition to increases for general consumers.

The figures contained in an allocation of costs of services at the Woodhaven, Queens, plant of the company were presented at a continued commission hearing into rate changes proposed by the company. The commission has suspended new schedules for higher rates filed by the company.

Based on a study of water services provided, the utility contended in an exhibit that total revenues of $543,751 were required in 1953, of which $79,153 would represent city costs for fire protection and the balance in increased rates for general consumers.

The city charge is based on rentals of 1,534 hydrants.

The charge to the city last year was approximately $55,000, according to the figures.

Hearing Examiner Harold M. Olmsted adjourned the hearing to Sept. 17.

Local Man Launches Homemade Cruiser

Saugerties, July 29 — A large crowd stood by Sunday afternoon at the lower Esopus Creek to witness the launching of the Cavina, a 31-foot cabin cruiser. The craft is the product of a year and a half of labor and is the result of a private shipbuilding venture by Myron Banks. At approximately 2:10 p. m. the boat was christened by Miss Nancy Banks and then it slid down the runway into the creek.

Banks expected to hook up the instrument panel this week, and embark on the maiden voyage at the weekend. His principal helpers in this venture have been Barkley Van Tassell and Harry Wiands.

The name chosen for the boat is significant in that it is composed of the first two letters in the name of his wife CAroline, his mother VIctoria and his daughter NAncy.

Banks is the proprietor of Banks Stationery and News Store on Main street.

Negotiation Set For Drivers Today

New York, July 29 (AP)—A negotiation meeting between employers and union in a phase of the construction drivers' strike, which has halted or curtailed work on 600 million dollars in construction in the metropolitan area, has been scheduled for today, the striking union said.

The office of Local 282 of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters said, however, the place of the meeting was not known.

It was expected the excavation drivers in the union will be offered 40 cents an hour wage increase and a welfare fund to be financed by employers at the rate of three per cent of payroll.

Offer Refused

The union has turned down an offer of 30 cents per hour wage increase and fringe benefits. The total package turned down would mean $3 more per day in wages and other benefits to a driver.

The present wage rate is $2 an hour. The union has been holding out for 75 cents more per hour, a pension plan and a welfare plan.

A spokesman for building contractors, whose jobs are at a standstill while they maintain office staffs and supervisory construction personnel, said yesterday the situation was "just the same—only worse."

The strike started July 3 and has idled more than 100,000 construction trades craftsmen and curtailed or completely halted work on new schools, hospitals, public housing, private home building and public works.

Mother Admits She Fatally Beat Boy

Chicago, July 29 (AP)—Police said a 28-year-old mother related today she tied her 3-year-old son to a water pipe, then beat him to death with a chair—breaking his arms, legs and nose.

The child's body was found Tuesday night by police who went to the family's south side apartment to investigate a neighbor's complaint the mother, Mrs. Veronica Burowsky, was trying to conceal an injured child.

Police Lt. Thomas Casey said the woman related she beat the boy, Peter Jr., because he was disobedient. He said she used a chair as a weapon until it broke—then used pieces of the chair.

The Burowsky's have three other children—Georgann, 6, Paula, 3, and Linda, 18 months.

Note to Husband

Casey said police found this note from Mrs. Burowsky to her husband in the kitchen.

"Pete, Well, the bum got up again this a. m. same thing. I got him in a closet. You can feed him supper if you want to, and then tie him up again. The same with Georgann, only no supper * * * see you tonight love. V."

Casey said Georgann also had been beaten and bore numerous bruises.

Mrs. Burowsky related that her husband, a machine operator, had told her he would call the police if she continued to beat their son, Casey said.

The woman was held without charge for questioning.

Devoted Students

Paso Robles, Calif. (AP)—An elementary school burned down while students were on vacation. The children, instead of shouting with glee, hurried to the scene. Toiling as flames approached, they helped firemen and policemen carry out desks, books, supplies and equipment valued at many thousands of dollars. Officials warmly praised the youngsters for their assistance.

The peripatus is believed by some scientists to be the "missing link" between worms and insects.

Kiwanis Speaker

DR. WILLARD N. HOGAN

Dr. Willard N. Hogan, professor of political science and director of the Information Center for the United Nations at State Teachers College, New Paltz, will address the Kingston Kiwanis Club Thursday at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Dr. Hogan was one of the 25 foreign policy and UN experts who were called in to work on the problem of revising the UN Charter, a matter of the UN agenda for 1955. Dr. Hogan is also co-author of a textbook entitled The United Nations which was published in June 1952 by McGraw-Hill. The speaker has had a vast teaching experience and has acted on several studies of foreign policy and international organization. It is anticipated that Dr. Hogan's address, and the question and answer period to follow, will be of great interest to Kiwanians and their guests.

Grill Proprietor Is Found Slain

New York, July 29 (AP)—A New York bar and grill proprietor was found shot dead in the Inspiration Point section of Riverside Park today with $226 in cash and $2,772 in checks in his pockets.

Police identified him as Barney Prendergast, 49, of 3628 Irwin avenue, Riverdale, the Bronx. They said he owned several bars and grills on Manhattan's west side.

He had been shot in the back of the head. His body was found sprawled, head down, on the top section of a 20-step stone stairway leading to a comfort station.

No Clew Yet

The police had no immediate clew as to the motive, except that the money in his pockets appeared to rule out robbery.

A park attendant, Bernard Cahill, discovered the body at about 7:40 a. m. (EST). Police estimated Prendergast had been dead several hours.

Inspiration Point is a lonely wooded section, off 190th street, across the Hudson river from the New Jersey Palisades.

Deserted Spot

Police Lieut. John Shanley said the Point is a favorite spot for lovers, but that police discouraged anyone from being there after 10 p. m. (EST) and that the place usually was deserted from that hour until the next day.

The body, clad in a summer weight tan suit, was identified by Bill O'Keefe, described as a partner of Prendergast.

Methodist Group Defends Pastor

New York, July 29 (AP)—Officers of the Methodist Federation for Social Action today defended the Rev. Jack R. McMichael against charges or Communist ties, and termed such accusations an attempt to intimidate clergymen.

Declaring that McMichael, until recently the federation's executive secretary, had never "engaged in any activity other than a vigorous and uncompromising application of Christian principles," the officers said:

"As ministers and laymen of the Methodist Church, we have worked in the Methodist Federation for Social Action to give practical expression of our Christian faith. Any charge of 'subversion' is utterly untrue."

McMichael Accused

McMichael, now pastor of a church in Upper Lake, Calif., has been accused in testimony before the House UnAmerican Activities Committee of being a Communist. He is scheduled to testify in Washington tomorrow.

Today's statement was made by the Rev. Loyd F. Worley, of Hartford, Conn., federation president, and the Rev. Lee H. Ball, of Irvington, N. Y., and the Rev. Clarence T. R. Nelson, Dayton, Ohio, vice presidents.

They said the 45-year-old federation, a voluntary and unofficial association of Methodist laymen and ministers, believes "in cooperation with all others whose principles and methods are consistent with the social teachings of the Bible."

Ball said membership in the federation now is about 2,500. Four or five years ago, he said, before the federation came under criticism, the membership was about 5,000.
